

60-SECOND SERMONS

By FRED DODGE

Text: "An optimist always relines his bad breaks."
—Lois Pasley

Two men were discussing the new school principal. "That man," said one, "is a confirmed optimist."
"How is that?" asked the other.
"Well, he lives a block from me and he's trying to raise roses, vegetables, chickens, two cocker spaniels and three boys all on one lot."

Plans never go through without a hitch. There is always a need for everyone to make changes, to try harder or to start over. Everyone has disappointments. Everyone fails. Some

Frankly Speaking

The great interest shown our Celebrity Calls program is, indeed, gratifying. It's one of the many firsts we have here at WCDJ, and we're mighty proud of it. When I first started the show, though, I must confess I didn't realize the time it would occupy and some of the other difficulties involved. However, once I do get through to the person I want to talk to, I know that it's worth the troubles. These people are all well-known in their fields, and, for the most part, the things they have to say are quite interesting, particularly since they're talking to us on a local level. Many folks have asked me how the people I've spoken to last month were here's a rundown; a summation of August Celebrity Calls. Number one call went to famed character actor Sidney Blackmer. However, Tom Shields spoke to Mr. Blackmer. Tom reports he was very pleasant, a far cry from the many villainous roles he does in the movies. Then I talked to Governor Hodges in an interview that wound up making news headlines around the state. Getting the governor was easier than I'd anticipated. Just phoned the state capital and there he was. After that I spoke to one of the most famous country artists in the nation, Earl Scruggs. Earl and I insisted we had a bad connection; the operator insisted we didn't. We recorded the interview, and it was tough, since we could hardly hear each other. However, he was most cooperative and made for a pleasant interview. Next I spoke to Mitch Miller. He's one of the easiest people in show business to talk to. I'd met him before, and knew that he would talk about music, music, music. He's sincere, a fine musician, a pleasant gentleman, a credit to the record industry, and can he talk! Fortunately, what he says is worth listening to. After Mitch Miller, I spoke to the Republican nominee for governor of North Carolina, Robert Gavin. Mr. Gavin struck me as sincere (some might prefer the word anxious), and was very curious about the political leanings of our area. My next conversation was I be-moments when, whatever be the attitude of the body, the soul is on its knees.

For Goodness Sake—Stretch The Freezer

You cannot exactly stretch the freezer but you can stretch your mind and think up ways not to waste the space you have. You may be wishing for more space now so you can get more of those big, ripe peaches in the freezer.

Miss Nita Orr, frozen food specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, advises you to count the corn cobs now. Corn on the cob is an extravagant user of space. However, if you feel you must freeze some on the cob, use the corn with small cobs—for example, Seneca Chief.

Large bones have no place in the freezer. Boned meat is easier to carve, easier to serve, and easier to eat. Miss Orr says you can store three turkey rolls or one turkey with its bones in the same space.

A good freezing bag in a sturdy carton uses space well. Corned pans for cakes, pies and other cooked foods are better than round ones. They wrap easier and stack better.

"Extra wrapping on meat and poultry slows up freezing and does no good in storage," says Miss Orr. "Use just enough to cover the food and to make a tight closure."

Keep your food moving in the freezer. Keep up with what you put in and what you take out. If you manage your freezer space right, you can put more food into it.

Sunday School Lesson

MAN'S HOPE FOR PEACE

International Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 11, 1960.

Memory Selection: "He shall judge between the nations, and shall decide for many peoples; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."
(Isaiah 2:4)

Lesson Text: Isaiah 2:1-4; 9:2-7; 11:1-9.

Today adults should find it worthwhile to discuss: How should Christians work for peace?

Perusing the Scriptures assigned to us for study today, therein is contained what is generally regarded as one of the authentic messianic passages in the Old Testament. A message of hope held out like a light at the end of a long, dark passage.

For Christians the verse quoted for our memory selection—declared by the prophet Isaiah nearly 3,000 years ago—the words are more than beautiful poetry. They represent a practical pattern for human relations.

They are speaking of more than a noble dream; they declare something that is obtainable. War is not inevitable. Its reign of brutality, terror, and destruction can be ended. Enduring peace, as a working and practical relationship between nations all over the world, can be established. The pessimists of the world declare with great loudness and regularity: "There always have been wars, and there always will be wars. That's human nature, and you can't change it." They go on to use the present plight of the world as reason for assuming the worst is inescapable. "It's only a matter of time," they say, "and we'll be having our atomic war with Russia and China."

It is on the basis of such fatalism that politicians advocate suicidal national policies which invite war, even as did the politicians of Isaiah's day. And, accepting the inevitability of war, an increasingly large segment of our population is being lulled with the assumption that atomic war will not be so bad after all, and that it will be "just another war." But despite all this, we have the inherent and unalienable right to believe that peace where are they Going?

A familiar sight . . . men with briefcases daily through airports all over the nation, winging their way from one place to another. But where, really, are they going?

In this busy age of appointments, rush hours, and summit meetings, we search for success, for more money, for a better future, for a variety of things. Yet, like so many mid-twentieth century Americans, the harder we seek the less we find.

We need a job, a purpose, a home, a family. But also, we need a church. We need to go into that church to reaffirm our faith both in God and in our fellow beings. Only then does our quest—and our ultimate destination—begin to make sense.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
