was called on to carry the ball only four times and clipped off 83 yards. He made three of the extra points. It was not difficult for any of the Aces to gain ground for Weldon was unable to ward off the onslaught through the line, nor were they fleet enough to overtake the Edenton runners.

The reserves gave a very good account of themselves and scored three of the eight touchdowns. Outstanding among this group were Boots Lassiter and Herbert Adams at quarterback, Jimmy White at fullback, Jimmy Dail, Wayne Ashley, Douglas Sexton, Dickie Cobb, Leo Boucher, Alex Kehayes, Wayne Griffin and Joe Mitthener.

The school band was on hand and participated in the homecoming celebration when the candidates were presented from the various grades in the contest to name the King and Queen.

This will be a column of random notes that have been crumpled in my pockets over the past few weeks. Came across them while I was looking for money. No money, but plenty of notes.

Topflight announcer-actor Basil Ruysdael died last week. You may remember him as announcer for the old Hit Parade show, and Jack Benny's announcer, in the days when Lucky Strike relied on tobacco auctioneering as a trademark. Another show-business death was Arch McDonald's. He was a longtime sportscaster at WTOP in Washington, D. C. In recent months, both Readers Digest and US News and World Report came out with revealing articles blasting the theory that people in Russia are unhappy with their lot. These firsthand reports showed that over 90% of the Russian people will back their leaders in the event of war. Senator Kennedy still has the edge on sharpness in those television debates, although Vice President Nixon is making an excellent appearance. Thus far, it doesn't seem as if these debates are changing anyone's opinions. In addition, a lack of viewer interest was shown as the ratings on the second debate were considerably lower than those given the first. Once upon a time, Nikita Khrushchev entertained many of the leaders in this country while all were here for UN work. President Eisenhower did not. Then Drew Pearson said Ike should do the same. A few days after that Eisenhower then entertained the same dignitaries. Has Pearson replaced Hagerty as Eisenhower's right-hand man? Quite a picture—Those hurricane-battered cars are still at Bunch's Auto Repairs. Right now, they look like good advertisements for careful driving. That bright light that shines on the M. G. Brown sign on 17 heading north makes it tough on night drivers. The newspapers are constantly advertising the credits of their newboys. They're run one ad about a newsboy who apologized for breaking a bottle of milk about four times. I haven't yet seen an ad about papers being strewn about, being left outside on a rainy morning, or just not being delivered. Understatement of the month are the vacancy signs on some of the motels. Now there's actually a Brand X cleaner currently being distributed in parts of Ohio. Nick George is the name of a leading Walt Disney cartoonist. Closing thought: You're as young as your faith, as old as your doubts.
