

SCHOOL AND YOUR CHILD

By John Corey, Appalachian State Teachers College

Let your teenager win an argument occasionally.

This and other pearls of advice to parents wanting to help their adolescents in school come from Dr. William H. Mills, University of Michigan education professor.

When Junior constantly loses home battles, he stops battling at home and carries it to school and other places, Dr. Mills says. Mother and father can aid him by acting as a sparring partner.

"So strong is the teenager's need to be victorious once in a while in a home argument, it might even be a good idea occasionally to introduce a controversial subject and let him win the argument," suggests the professor.

Junior's confidence increases and his blowing off steam elsewhere may actually be reduced.

The teenage period of life is indeed a turbulent one. These years between childhood and adulthood bring numerous physical and mental upheavals within Junior. At best, the transition is bumpy for the youngster and he needs sympathetic parental understanding.

Dr. Mills drops these additional pearls of advice to parents concerning the adolescent pull-through.

Help Junior release himself from fears and inhibitions so that he feels free to talk his problems out with adults.

Realize that more than anything else the youngster doesn't like to be told what to do. He wants to find out for himself how to do things. This can be mom's and dad's opportunity to provide him with situations in which he can learn the necessary skills without being embarrassed.

"This goes for schools too," Dr. Mills adds. "We shouldn't tell him how we used to do it but rather suggest ways of seeking his own solutions."

Further, understand your teenager's exhibitions of laziness and dullness. Don't be disturbed. These periods are offset by sudden bursts of energy upon which you can capitalize.

As for helping awkward Junior develop confidence in handling social graces, Dr. Mills advises parents to provide him with chances to practice proper manners at home in friendly situations before he's forced to use his knowledge of social usages in the open.

And this means, Dr. Mills emphasizes, that Junior shouldn't always be shuffled off while mother and father have adult guests or a party.

oilseed meals and other concentrates compare with about 150 million tons fed last year. As in recent years, grain supplies are relatively more plentiful than the high-protein feeds.

Scott Harrell Attends Product Sales Clinic

J. Scott Harrell of Edenton Tractor & Implement Co., has just returned from Charlotte where he participated in a two-day product and sales clinic on Ford tractor and equipment operations and features. The clinic attended by Mr. Harrell is one of many being conducted throughout the country by the Tractor and Implement Division, Ford Motor Company. Designed to help dealers and their employees to better serve customers' needs, the sessions are limited to only seven students and are organized to give Mr. Harrell information on new ideas and techniques for the operation and use of tractors and equipment. Mr. Harrell will be able to use this new information to help customers improve their operations.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

True status and security will be dealt with in the Lesson-Sermon on "Mortals and Immortals" at Christian Science services this Sunday.

"Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace" (Psalms 37:37) is one of the Bible passages to be read.

Citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (267:3-5): "The offspring of God start not from matter or ephemeral dust. They are in and of Spirit, divine Mind, and so forever continue." The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (5:17): "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

Man lives by affirmation even more than he does by bread. —Victor Hugo.

Economists Give Outlook For Livestock And Poultry In 1961

"Greater numbers of livestock and poultry during the next 12 months will have an abundant supply of feed grains, and a close balance of high protein feeds."

So states the Feed Survey Committee of the American Feed Manufacturers Association, which is composed of 24 college and experiment station men, representing all areas of the United States.

The 1961 spring crop will be 10 per cent larger than the 1960 spring crop, according to the committee. Beef cattle numbers are expected to be up 4 per cent during 1961. Increases of 7 per cent are anticipated in both turkeys and broilers. Numbers of layers may be down 4 per cent. However, relatively little change is expected in production of dairy and sheep and lambs.

The calculated feed balance for the year ahead indicates high protein feed use to be within 1 per cent of estimated supplies, and an excess of grain supplies by more than 50 per cent. It's anticipated that a total of 131 million tons of feed will be used.

The 1960 fall pig crop is estimated to be 41,500,000 head which is 4 per cent less than the pig crop of the preceding fall.

It is estimated that approximately 54,000,000 pigs will be produced in the spring of 1961, which is 10 per cent more than in the spring of 1960.

The average number of layers for the feed year beginning October 1, 1960, will be approximately 285,000,000, which is a 4 per cent decrease from the previous year. This decline is expected, due to the small number of replacement pullets raised during 1960.

The number of chickens raised for replacement purposes during the calendar year 1961 is expected to increase by 10 per cent for a total of 373,000,000.

Commercial broiler production for the calendar year 1961 will total 1,925,000,000. This is an increase of 7 per cent over 1960.

It is predicted that 88,000,000 turkeys will be raised during 1961 which represents a 7 per cent increase over 1960, most of which will be with heavy rather than light breeds.

The number of cows to be milked in 1961 is expected to be 19,400,000. The down-trend in cow numbers are leveled and appears that it may turn up slightly in 1961. The increases in cow numbers in fluid milk areas tend to be offset by declining numbers in other areas.

Total milk production of 127.1 million pounds is an increase of slightly more than 1 per cent over 1960 and is the result of a slight increase in cow numbers coupled with a 1 per cent increase in yield per cow. The rise in yield will be due to heavier grain feeding in better cows.

Beef cattle numbers are expected to increase 4 per cent during 1961. Cattle slaughter is expected to increase by 5 to 10 per cent over 1960 in the year ahead. Of the 27 million cattle expected to be slaughtered in 1961, around 14 million head will be grain fed steers and heifers.

The total number of sheep and lambs is expected to increase between 1 and 2 percent. Generally favorable feed supply conditions throughout the country should result in some improvement in percentage of lambs raised and put on feed.

Near-record production of grains and oilseeds in 1960 plus trates for feed in the current record large stocks of corn and sorghum grain provide plentiful supplies of feed for 1960-61.

The 193 million tons of grains,

Sunday School Lesson

GOD IN MY LIFE

International Sunday School Lesson for November 13, 1960.

Memory Selection: "I love the Lord, because he has heard my voice and my supplications."—(Psalms 116:1).

Lesson Text: Psalms 116 through 118.

The purpose of our lesson today is to discover how we can gain a continuing sense of God's presence in our lives.

In reading and studying Psalm 116 we must necessarily conclude that the writer had suffered an illness which caused him a brush with death, but he experienced God's presence and merciful deliverance, and composed a hymn of thanksgiving. In his weakness and despair he found that God was with him in compassion and saving strength. And how often, throughout our lives, have we experienced the same compassion at God's hands? How can we reject a continuing sense of God's presence in our lives?

Like the writer of Psalms 116, we must believe that God is of supreme importance. Either the Christian view of God is the greatest truth we can know, or else it is sheer nonsense. If we accept it as nonsense, then we should quickly realize that all our talk of freedom is only a pretense and that the words "truth," "honor," "love" and "courage" are meaningless. If God does not and cannot exist, then we should just do the best we can with this strange game of blind man's bluff that we call life.

But if we accept the fact that God is truly revealed in the life of Jesus Christ, as has been taught us through countless generations; then this universe of ours in no sense empty of meaning. Instead it is a witness to a rational and redemptive purpose. If someone is in charge of things whose wisdom is boundless, whose power is undeniable, whose righteousness is absolute, whose justice is justice in the finest sense of the word, whose mercy is unfailing, and whose name is Love, pure and unadulterated, then this is something to which our minds can cling, something from which we draw sustenance in the darkest times which may befall us in this, our earthly existence.

Yet how easily we let the small things in life crowd out God! Sometimes we are guilty of this without even realizing it. Continued on Page 9, Section 2

It's hard for grownups to grasp what it means to be a child today!

We grew up yesterday. The planes and radios which had startled our parents were commonplace to us. Television and jets we could take in stride. But Space! Who among us expected to live in a Buck Rogers era? Yet to our youngsters nothing seems more natural than man's invasion of the universe. Everything that went before was preparation. We are ready to blast off. And the man who will establish our first colony on Mars is probably training for his mission in a sixth grade classroom...
