

New March of Dimes Fights Crippling Arthritis

Rheumatoid arthritis strikes all ages as it strikes in all sections of the nation. Research and patient aid provided by the New March of Dimes are helping these youngsters, among many thousands, back on their feet to lead happy and normal lives. These contributions have made possible the establishment of four arthritis clinical study centers. They are situated in New York City, Rochester, N. Y., Dallas, Texas, and San Francisco.

No Comment

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT
Assistant Vice President, Government Relations Division of the National Association of Manufacturers

"NO COMMENT" is a report of incidents on the national scene and does not necessarily reflect NAM policy or position.

Washington, D. C.—The Kennedy Administration is losing no time in seeking to start its major legislative proposals through Congress.

Even before Mr. Kennedy was inaugurated as President, his Senate associates sought to speed a depressed areas measure toward enactment by giving less than 24 hours notice of hearings. This extraordinary procedure was promptly challenged by those who wanted opponents of the legislation given a chance to present their views. Senator Bennett (R-Utah) contended this did not provide him sufficient time to prepare questions to ask witnesses.

But the hearings went ahead as scheduled by Senator Douglas (D-Ill.), chairman of the Senate Banking subcommittee on Production and Stabilization. However, opponents were given a few additional days to prepare their presentations.

Depressed areas appears to be the number one item on President Kennedy's legislative program thus far. He made repeated promises during his campaign that quick congressional action would be sought.

But a broad variety of other legislation also is being pushed. Task forces he appointed have reported on more than a score of national issues—all potentially involving legislation, and many more studies are under way.

What success President Kennedy has in obtaining this legislation depends upon a number of factors, including:

1. The extent to which Members of Congress are convinced that the legislative proposals are good or bad for the nation.

Unless substantial opposition is recorded, it is regarded as inevitable that a depressed areas bill will be passed by Congress and signed into law by Mr. Kennedy.

This same situation is threatened—though perhaps to a lesser extent—with respect to a number of other measures pushed by the new President. Unlike the Eisenhower Administration, there will be no presidential veto to stop legislation opposed by conservatives.

2. The strength of the coalition of Southern Democrats and Conservative Republicans in the Senate and the House. President Kennedy, recognized as an expert in the art of politics, is regarded as certain to use his presidential power to the maximum extent possible in an effort to win support for his program from this group.

3. Grass-roots sentiment. If a majority of the people back home favor or oppose certain legislation—and make their views known on Capitol Hill—their attitude is certain to be reflected to a considerable extent in congressional action.

But, before the people back home can make up their minds on legislation, they must first be given the facts upon which a judgment can be based.

A pretty good insight into the depressed areas problem is provided by a quip that has become popular in some circles in Washington. It goes like this:

Harvard University is going to be declared a depressed area (because President Kennedy has depopulated it by bringing so many professors to Washington) and the federal government is going to tax Yale and Princeton to subsidize Harvard.

This quip is being used by conservatives to point out that it is illogical and economically unfeasible to penalize taxpayers from other sections to provide federal subsidies for depressed areas—when local responsibility is the key to any enduring success.

The major bill under consideration in the Senate is by Senator Douglas, to authorize $390 million in federal grants and loans to aid in establishing factories and public facilities in areas of high unemployment.

Senator Kennedy was a strong supporter of this measure last year when, in modified form, it was vetoed by President Eisenhower. The Senate approved $390 million, but the amount was reduced by the House to $25 million before the measure went to the White House. The Senate failed to override the veto.

eyes that others may see." Forms and information about willing of eyes to the Eye Bank may be secured from Dr. Hardin, members of the Lions Club or the Chowan County Hospital.

Dr. Hardin said it is not necessary for a prospective donor to have good eyesight, as it will not affect the desirability of obtaining the cornea. He added that the older a person, usually the more suitable the cornea is for transplantation.

Eyes willed the Eye Bank must be obtained within six hours after death and transported and used within 96 hours, he explained. Dr. Frank Wood or other local physicians will prepare the eyes for shipment. This is a wonderful opportunity, he said, for persons to help someone less fortunate to a new world of sight.

The National Foundation Now Training 800 Young Americans In Various Health Professions

At this moment more than 800 young Americans are being trained in the health professions under The National Foundation Health Scholarship program, J. J. Miley, Jr., Chowan County campaign director for the 1961 New March of Dimes announces.

These students, from every section of the nation, are attending more than 100 colleges and universities under scholarships of $500 annually in the fields of medicine, nursing, medical social work, occupational therapy and physical therapy, he said.

For the third consecutive year, The National Foundation will offer at least 515 Health Scholarships during 1961 to qualified high school and college students in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone and the Virgin Islands.

A special term of Chowan County Superior Court was completed in exactly 45 minutes with Judge Henry A. Grady presiding.

Dr. J. S. Chamblee was unanimously re-elected health officer for the Bertie-Chowan Health District for a period of two years.

Judge Francis, "Bertie's Grand Old Man," who was well known in Edenton, died at his home in Windsor at the age of 83 years.

Judge J. U. Pruden narrowly escaped serious injury when he collided with another car on North Broad Street.

Antonio Davenport was painfully injured at the M. G. Brown Lumber Company when he fell from a large log.

Judge J. N. Pruden resigned his position as judge of Chowan County's Recorder's Court. Miss Mary Goodwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Goodwin, a star of the Edenton High School girls' basketball team, had the misfortune to sprain an ankle and tear some ligaments in her leg while playing basketball in the Edenton armory.

staffed fields of health must come from the public through the March of Dimes," Miley emphasized.

These National Foundation Health Scholarships fill a three-fold purpose of stimulating recruitment for the health professions, informing communities of the importance of maintaining educational standards and opening new professional schools, as well as helping young people to prepare at an early age for careers in the health professions and thus increase the number of potential teachers, scientists and other health leaders, he explained.

Students interested in the scholarships should notify the principal of their school and additional information may be secured from Scott Harrell, Chowan County Chairman of the National Foundation.

Many outstanding football players are on the committee that decides the recipients of these awards, which is distributed by the Sporting News. Edentonians have every right to be proud of Lawrence Hopkins and Gerald Tolley who've received honorable mention selection to the 14th annual National High School All-American Football Team for 1960, a reward that goes to very few, a reward richly deserved by both Tolley and Hopkins. Remember, the award itself will be presented Sunday at 1 o'clock over WCDJ, with Coach Billings and Frank Roberts presiding.

Washington — Those of us who witnessed the inaugural oath by President Kennedy at the Capitol were part of a drama that has always fascinated men everywhere who see democracy in action. Kennedy as the 35th occupant of the White House demonstrates anew the strength and the union which binds this country into the greatest of all nations.

Tar Heels — A host of North Carolinians were on hand at the Capitol for these ceremonies. This year's festivities were probably the most colorful ever. Led by Parade Grand Marshal, Lt. General James M. Gavin, wartime commander of the famed 82nd Airborne Division, more than 33,000 civilian and military marchers participated in the 1961 Presidential Inaugural Parade. North Carolina, like all the other states of the union, sent its sons and daughters to participate in the parade.

Committee Meetings — Most of my time not spent in the Senate debates has been used recently in attending meetings of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Senate Judiciary Committee. The latter held hearings on the appointment of Robert Kennedy for the cabinet post of Attorney General. Despite charges of inexperience by some critics, I urged his confirmation because I believe that the President should have the power to pick his advisers. I have known Robert Kennedy since the days when he served as Counsel to the Senate Rackets Committee of which I was a member. He has a great capacity for work, has superior intelligence, and is a man of outstanding courage.

Hodges — I accompanied former Governor Luther Hodges to the Senate Commerce Committee which was considering his nomination for Secretary of Commerce. Governor Hodges and I were schoolmates at the University of North Carolina and my long association with him has been most pleasant. He made an excellent impression on the Committee and will be the first Cabinet member from North Carolina since Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, who was a member of Woodrow Wilson's Cabinet.

Kennedy Administration—Much has been said and written about the new Kennedy Administration. My impression has been that the new Administration has conscientiously tried to assemble a talented group to head the Cabinet. Many problems beset our country both at home and abroad. We need the best minds available to form workable programs without upsetting our economy. I am confident that the new President and Vice President will summon our best energies to the tasks ahead.
