By John Corey, Appalachian State Teachers College

Summer School for Bright Youngsters: They Love It

Summer school used to be catch-up time for pupils who for one reason or another dropped behind in studies during the regular year. It still is, to some extent, but there's a trend toward gearing the summer session to an entirely different student—the brighter one.

At many places across the country anxious-to-learn youngsters jump at opportunities to take non-required advanced courses during the hot summer months when they could be taking vacations.

The students do this for no other reason, apparently, than to stretch their minds. What's more, they pay for the privilege, which may shock some critics who say youth have gone soft and lazy.

Besides the main outcome of aiding students to learn more, summer school offers certain good byproducts:

School plants and facilities which generally lie idle during July and August are employed to good purpose.

Experienced teachers can work at their chosen profession on a year-round basis.

New teaching methods and course materials can be tried and tested in experimental fashion.

Opportunity to observe and participate in summer school classes provides inexperienced teachers with valuable orientation before regular sessions start in September.

Under leadership of Superintendent Francis V. Lloyd, Jr., the schools of Clayton, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, began a pioneer summer session for superior students two years ago.

In the first year, 229 selected students with an average IQ of 136 (very high) attended the summer school, called the Mark Twain Summer Institute. They came from 63 different schools in metropolitan St. Louis.

The youngsters ranged in grades from 8th to 12th, but most were 11th and 12th graders.

They studied courses which offered the possibility of advanced placement in college. Many colleges today participate in the Advanced Placement Program of the College Entrance Examination Board.

The Mark Twain Summer Institute offers English composition, Russian, German, political philosophy, mathematics, chemistry, and biology. (Greek was dropped because of lack of student interest).

Each pupil enrolls in one course. The cost was $40 the first year but is now $50. Classes meet from 9 A. M. to 12:30 P. M. Only highly qualified teachers are employed.

Observers of the Mark Twain Summer Institute, which begins its third year this June, note that the St. Louis area students:

—Demonstrate interest and ability in approaching really difficult materials.

—Quite often carry discussions over beyond classroom time.

—Maintain close, informal contact with teachers, who are considered guides and advisers rather than disciplinarians.

—Enjoy the intellectual stimulation of working at an advanced level—even during six weeks of their vacation time.

—Attend with apparently no other motive than interest in extending their range of knowledge.

Suffolk Area Tour April 22 And 23

Sponsored by the Nansemond River Garden Club of Suffolk, Historic Garden Week will be observed Saturday and Sunday, April 22-23. Highlighting the observance will be a Suffolk area tour which will include 10 places of interest.

Historically, Suffolk is identified with the very beginnings of colonization. In 1608 Captain John Smith sailed up the Nansemond River and mapped the area. A settlement made the following year, when starvation drove hundreds of colonists from Jamestown, was soon abandoned because of constant Indian attack.

In contrast to this stormy background of struggle and tragedy, Suffolk and Nansemond County find themselves today a prosperous, growing community on the threshold of a new era of sound industrial and agricultural expansion in the heart of booming Tidewater Virginia.

Snake Repellent Now On Market

A new chemical called "Snake-Stop," which is said by its manufacturers to repel and kill snakes, will be marketed from Georgia headquarters on a world wide basis.

The repellent was declared successful about two years ago, according to the inventor, Dr. James H. Jenkins, associate professor of wildlife management at the University of Georgia's school of forestry. Jenkins said, however, it was not marketed then because of continuing tests to establish efficiency and safety.

and the prohibitive expense of chemicals used.

Experimental progress indicates that costs have been reduced to bring the product within reach of the average homeowner or camper.

A new corporation, called Animal Repellents, Inc., has been formed to manufacture and distribute the repellent on a world-wide basis. Headquarters will be at Griffin, Ga., and Robert D. Dixon will head the corporation.

The product went on sale in the United States and 12 foreign countries around November 1 of last year.

The chemicals in the product have a civet musk odor like that of the snake's natural enemies, the mink and mongoose. There are other chemicals included which are deadly to the snake.

The product should be applied to gardens, fields, lawns and shrubbery in the ratio of one pound per 420 square feet of soil, Jenkins said. He said experiments had shown that snakes would not stay in an area treated with the repellent.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Those attending Christian Science services Sunday will hear a challenging call to overcome sin and sickness of every kind through wholly spiritual means.

Highlighting the Lesson-Sermons entitled "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is this Golden Text: "The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give" (Matthew 10).

One of the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "God is as incapable of producing sin, sickness, and death as He is of experiencing these errors. How then is it possible for Him to create man subject to this triad of errors — man who is made in the divine likeness?" (p.356).

This verse will be read from Psalm 145: The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works."

WISDOM of the Ages

"The secret of a man who is universally interesting is that he is universally interested."

We offer a service that is capable and sincere — equipment that is modern — an understanding that cares gracefully for all details.

Sunday School Lesson

THE SOURCE OF TRUE WISDOM

International Sunday School Lesson for April 9, 1961.

Memory Selection: "If any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask God who gives to all men generously and without reproaching, and it will be given him." (James 1:5).

Lesson Text: Job 28:12-28; Proverbs 1:2-7; Ecclesiastes 12:13-14; James 1:1-3.

The question for which we seek an answer today is: How is God the source of true wisdom?

The Books which we are studying today are classed as the "wisdom literature" of the Old Testament. This particular part of the Old Testament differs from the other parts because it is not concerned with history or prophecy, or even with religious piety, as such. It is much more reflective, and is closely related to man's intellectual nature. Job deals with the problems of suffering, but his ultimate teaching is much broader than this. The Book of Job is the story of a man's quest for wisdom.

We all use the word "wisdom" easily, attaching thereto our own particular connotations. We say this acquaintance is wise, this one foolish, and let it go at that. Yet "wisdom" means different things to different people. To some, wisdom is acquired by education. Still others lean to the belief it is acquired by understanding. But wisdom is fundamentally a mixture of a lot of things—education, understanding, experience and religious beliefs.

Wisdom is truly found when we go beyond the resources of man to the infinitely greater resources of God. Only God understands everything perfectly; therefore, only God has perfect wisdom. He is necessarily the ultimate source of all wisdom. This is what the Bible means by its declaration "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (Proverbs 9:10, Proverbs 15:33; Psalms 111:10, and Job 28:29).

It must be obvious to every thinking Christian that the reason for wisdom's source in God is found in the role of God as

Saturday	Timothy	2	1-6

Do you gain any real comfort from that old cliché about dark clouds having silver linings? Who can peel a cloud to find its happy lining?

But frustration has been a blessing to many men. It has driven self-centered souls to seek a new fulcrum for life. It has brought men to God . . . acknowledging human failure . . . seeking divine strength.

And as they have found in the Church comfort and courage they have learned anew the spiritual meaning of defeat and victory.

The One that this world crucified is King of kings. Beyond a cross and a crown of thorns our greatest aspirations await us.
