

The National Outlook Progress Of The New Frontier By RALPH ROBEY

New Frontier legislation continues to have rather rough going in the Congress. Up to this time there has been no real defeat of a Kennedy proposal, but he has had to give ground in order to get some of his ideas passed, and there is much reason to believe that this will continue true.

The increase in minimum wages was the best example of compromise. It finally passed but was far short of what the Administration wanted, and to get even this much it was necessary to use ruthless political pressures. As many persons have pointed out, this measure, although tagged as an anti-recession move, will increase unemployment.

In contrast, the Aid to Depressed Areas bill went through without difficulty in the form requested. The same was true in the extension of unemployment aid and dependent children aid.

But that is all of the New Frontier legislation that has been passed by the Congress. The remainder of the program is still being debated by one house or the other, and in some instances even the hearings have not been completed.

Aid to Education has passed the Senate, and it is expected that the House will pass a much less generous bill.

The omnibus Housing bill has been debated and passed by the Senate, and has been reported to the House. How much trouble the measure will run into in the House is still an open question, but it is to be hoped that significant changes will be made in that body.

Social Security changes have passed the House, and the Senate is still holding hearings and will not get to debate for some time.

A Feed Grains bill and extension of the Sugar Act have passed both Houses, but the overall farm program is bogged down in hearings in both sides of the Congress.

Highway Financing has passed the House, but has not yet been taken up by the Senate. Water Pollution also has passed the House and has been reported to the Senate.

The Mutual Security measure, which would increase the amount for the coming year and authorize direct borrowing from the U. S. Treasury for the next five years, is the subject of hearings by the Senate and so far has not been considered by the House.

Tax revision hearings on President Kennedy's program have been held by the House Ways and Means Committee, but no bill has been reported out and it is believed that nothing even resembling the Administration plans will be agreed to by the committee.

This is not the entire New Frontier program, of course, but it is enough to show that the Congress obviously is in no hurry, and it is of interest to speculate on why this is true. Three points are worthy of mention:

First, recovery definitely is under way. Even the Administration now admits this.

Second, while this Senate is no more conservative than the last, the House is appreciably more opposed to so-called "liberal" moves. It is true that party discipline in the House leaves much to be desired among both the Republicans and the Democrats, but there still is enough conservative thinking to prevent too much really wild legislation getting passed.

Third, we already have a federal deficit of about $2 billion facing us for the fiscal year ending next June 30, and probably at least twice that for the following year. Even for believers in deficits as a means of curing a recession these should be sufficient.

But it will be many weeks before this Congress adjourns, and those who oppose the New Frontier proposals must not let up in continuing to make their views known.

Two Edenton Boys Join U. S. Navy

Two graduates of John A. Holmes High School have enlisted for four years in the U. S. Navy under the buddy program. They will undergo nine weeks of basic training at Great Lakes, Ill., after which they will come home together. After that they will both take up electronics, which is one of the many courses available to high school graduates in the modern Navy.

The two boys are Starkey E. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. White and Ronald L. Weikel, brother of Mrs. Oscar Griffin.

Navy Announces Harvey Point Plans

Continued from Page 1, Section 1 will be largely civilian technicians," the Navy announced. Specialists from private firms will work on projects at the base.

The Navy said Harvey Point was selected because of its comparative isolation and fine existing facilities.

"The nature of the work," the Navy said, "is such that the area will be restricted." The Navy described the new construction to be done this summer as "minor".

Parkers Complete An Extensive Tour

A very interesting trip has recently been taken by Mr. and Mrs. Dalton M. Parker and family of Sunbury. Mr. Parker teaches science at Sunbury High School. Mrs. Parker is the former Evelyn White Jackson of Edenton. The day after Mr. Parker finished the school year, he and his family left for a seventeen-state tour.

The Parkers visited such places as Pittsburg, and Erie, Pennsylvania, Niagara Falls, New York, Toronto, Sudbury, (location of world's largest nickel mine), and Sault St. Marie, Ontario, Canada. They crossed back into the United States and toured northern Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. They then headed northward again toward the Lake of the Woods area of Minnesota and Canada. Then to Winnipeg, Manitoba, and westward to Regina, Saskatchewan.

From Regina, Mr. Parker took his family south into Montana and the Black Hills of North and South Dakota, with a side trip to Devils Tower National Monument in Wyoming. Driving back into South Dakota, the Parkers stopped in Deadwood and visited the graves of "Wild Bill" Hickok, and Calamity Jane. From here they went to Mt. Rushmore Memorial, where they enjoyed a delicious meal featuring roast buffalo. They then drove through the Badlands National Monument in South Dakota and thence to Pipestone National Monument in Minnesota. They visited the Effigy Indian Burial Mounds in Iowa, crossed the mighty Mississippi, and drove to Madison, Wisconsin.

The children, Bill and Murray, thoroughly enjoyed seeing the deer, antelope, Ringneck pheasant, and the numerous ducks nesting in the lakes on the plains and prairies.

A very interesting day was spent in Chicago visiting the Museum of Natural History, the Shad Aquarium, the famed Loop and the subway. From Chicago, they crossed Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, and Virginia, and back into North Carolina, stopping over in Winston-Salem to spend the night with Mrs. Parker's brother, Robert White, a student at Wake Forest College.

During his service in the Army and using summer vacations, Mr. Parker has been in all of the 50 States of our Union, more than half of the Provinces of Canada, and parts of Mexico. Being interested in science and geography, he takes his family to visit the best museums, zoos, and geological formations in these planned trips.

The Parkers are now living on the campus of the University of North Carolina, where Mr. Parker will spend twelve weeks studying under a National Science Foundation grant.

100% in the school drive to save the ship.

The third honor list planned for permanent display will be the Admirals of the North Carolina Navy.

Each county has at least one Admiral named by Governor Sanford to head the drive for funds in the county. Richard D. Dixon of Edenton is Admiral of the Fleet for Chowan County.

Governor Terry Sanford and Battleship Commission Chairman Hugh Morton have commended Mr. Dixon for his leadership in the drive to raise Chowan County's share of the state goal of $250,000, and have urged civic and patriotic organizations and individuals in the county to lend him every possible assistance. All have stressed that contributions in any amount to the Battleship Fund will be gratefully received.

Mayor John Mitchener was made an Admiral of the North Carolina Navy last week when he made a contribution of $100.
