

The Roundup

By WILBORNE HARRELL

Nothing in the category of time-saving and work-saving devices has made a greater stride in improvement than the homely lawn mower. It is a far cry from musclicine to gasoline—riding in comfort while the grass almost cuts itself. And many a kid today by reason of the power mower is relieved of a job that was anathema to kids—and grownups, too. P. S.: I hated lawn mowers.

This new-fangled "reading dynamics" I've been reading and hearing about, by which a person is enabled to read a novel or any book or bit of writing by hardly no more than glancing at it, seems to me would take all the joy and pleasure out of reading. I like to stay with a book long enough to get the feel and mood of it, to absorb its atmosphere and take time to really know the people of the story—even become one of 'em myself. Just to leisurely sort of browse through the pages and visit with them. I like to know a book like knowing a person; none of this "hello, goodbye" stuff for me. The only practical value of this "dynamics" reading, as I see it, would be to greatly assist one in factual reading, research and where a minimum of reading time is required. But give me an easy chair, an interesting book and just let me relax. And for goodness sake don't rush me. Now—if this "dynamics" caper wants to make a hit with me, just let it show me how to read a galley proof at a glance—then we'd be getting somewhere.

come eligible for benefits under this change in the law if the worker before his death had earned Social Security credit for at least a year and a half.

I should point out that credit for work under Social Security is counted in three-month "calendar quarters". Therefore, a person need not have worked for a continuous period of 2½ or 1½ years, as the case may be. Social Security credit for calendar quarters earned at any time since 1936 can be counted toward the amount of work he needs to get retirement benefits for himself or to qualify his family for dependents or survivors benefits.

If you believe that you or someone in your family may now be eligible for benefits because of this change in the law, get in touch with your Social Security Office promptly.

You may have inquired soon after the law was changed by Congress in September, 1960. But do so again; this is a new change that makes it possible for people to get benefits with even less credit for work covered by Social Security. As before, however, no one can become entitled to benefits with a total of less than a year and a half of work in employment or self-employment covered by Social Security.

Your Social Security Office in Norfolk, Virginia is located at: 220 W. Brambleton Avenue, Norfolk 10, Virginia.

Peanut Situation In Area Is Reviewed
Heavy Rains In Brief Time Is Affecting Land Plaster

The peanut producing areas of North Carolina have experienced extremely heavy rains in the last two weeks. The total volume of water is probably no greater than experienced in past years, but in many areas up to four or five inches of rain have been experienced within a matter of a few hours. These types of rains have a tendency to wash out the land plaster which has been applied to the peanut crop. Since land plaster is a high, soluble material, excessive rains which we have experienced will dissolve the land plaster to disintegrate and run off or either leach out—at least, leach away from the fruiting zone of the peanut plant. Consequently, when the rains begin forming, the calcium applied with land plaster is not present. The method of two applications of land plaster has been generally recommended as an insurance against just such conditions which we have experienced with the heavy rains recently. If one application of land plaster was made prior to the rains, it is a pretty safe bet that the plaster is gone and a second application should be applied in order that adequate calcium is present to make the crop. At least 400 pounds of plaster should be applied during the last half of July, depending on the age of the peanuts. This is one of the best insurance features that can be done at the present time. It has been reported that Southern Stem Rot is showing up in some fields, too, which is earlier than normal. If Stem Rot has been observed in past years on the farm, it would be highly advisable to check the peanut fields very carefully and if Stem Rot is showing up, it might be well to use terraclor in the second application of the land plaster to help control the Stem Rot organism. Terraclor has proven to be quite effective in the control of Stem Rot, but due to its high cost one should be sure that the Stem Rot problem is present in his field before deciding to use terraclor. Farmers not sure that they have a Stem Rot problem should consult their County Agent for technical advice.

Any wilting plants observed in the field should be carefully investigated as they could be suffering from Stem Rot or Collar Rot. Terraclor, though effective on Stem Rot, is not effective on Collar Rot.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The vital importance of the inspired Word of the Bible will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Truth". From Romans this passage will be read (15): "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope."

Correlative citations will include the first tenet of Christian Science: "As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal life." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 497).

KNOW YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY
John T. Grooms, representative of the Social Security Administration, is in Edenton every Thursday at the North Carolina Employment Security Commission office in the Citizens Bank Building.
In my first article on the new Amendments to the Social Security Law, I described the provision which gives men the option to retire between 62 and 65 with reduced benefits.
In today's article, I want to cover another important change in the law—the one which reduces the length of time a person needs to have worked under Social Security to get retirement benefits for himself or to qualify his family for survivors benefits in case of his death. Some 160,000 older people will become eligible for cash benefits because of his change in the law—older men and women workers, their wives or dependent husbands and the widows.
