A LIFT FOR TODAY

Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—
Mark 12:31.

Our Lord Jesus Christ breaks down all barriers of race and creed and color, teaching that a neighbor is not some particular person nearby whom one is to love, but anyone, anywhere in the world who is in need and whom we can help.

We know, O God, that we live only as we love and if we have not love, we count for nothing. May we be filled with Christ-love for others.

Good Rules For Hunters

The hunting season in North Carolina has started. Thousands of hunters have returned from their first day of dove shooting. From all reports, it was successful and not marred by tragedy.

It is possible, but not likely, that during this 1961-62 hunting season reports will be made of tragic hunting accidents, but with proper precaution their occurrence can be reduced to a minimum.

Instilling in the mind of the hunter a proper, positive attitude toward hunting safely at all times will help to realize the goal: Hunting not marred by tragedy.

Basically, the primary rules of gun handling while hunting are:

1. Treat every gun as if it were loaded.
2. Always point the muzzle in a safe direction.
3. Be sure of your target and what's behind it.

Herbert Hoover's Faith

On August 10, Herbert Hoover celebrated his 87th birthday. He has lived longer than any President save John Adams. He is still vigorous, still hard at work on his writings.

In a news conference, as reported by the AP, he had some words of optimism to say. The American people, in his view, "are ready for any emergency on earth." They haven't grown soft and they are "as deeply patriotic as they've ever been."

The former President also said: "President Kennedy's courageous statement as to Berlin should carry conviction to the Russians." And he held out the hope that a solution to the Berlin problem may be found through negotiation.

Mr. Hoover has led a long and remarkably eventful life, and his faith in this country is undimmed. May that faith be justified in the future.

Maybe They Don't Hate Us!

The Saturday Evening Post recently devoted an editorial to the tremendous increase in air travel between this country and Europe. A mere 21 people made the trip in 1939—while 625,583 made it last year! Nowadays, the person with a two-week vacation can spend practically all of it abroad.

The Post then touched on the wider implications of this trend: "As more and more people begin to take advantage of the new travel opportunities, the impact of our changing vacation habits is having interesting effects on the American way of life. Already better acquaintance with other countries has helped stimulate interest in the teaching of foreign languages in public schools, created a greater taste for foreign news, books, furniture, sports cars, wine, and so on."

"Conceivably, also, the greater number of Americans abroad could produce more interest by foreigners in us. If, as reported, we are hated abroad, citizens of the lands we visit will have better opportunities to decide why they hate us. They might even conclude that they don't hate us at all."

In any event, anything that contributes in any way to closer relationships between peoples, with the better understanding of problems and attitudes that must result, serves all humanity.

What human beings are unable to understand, they attribute to the Almighty, either as a blessing or a punishment.

We are encouraged with the progress of the human race whenever we meet a person who admits he doesn't know the answer to something.

The churches of the land may make many mistakes and the preachers may say some foolish things but where would the human race be without them?

Heard & Seen

It's nice to have thoughtful friends. Going to Roanoke Rapids Friday night, Pete Manning, Donnie Thomas and I went in a restaurant for supper. I was wearing a cap and went out of the place without it. While sitting on the players' bench at the stadium Allen Harless sneaked back of me and placed the cap on my dome. What I don't understand is how he knew it was my cap, for he and his group were sitting several booths away.

Edenton's Aces will play at home Friday night when they meet Frederick Military Academy. The following two weeks they will play away from home, at Williamston and Scotland Neck. It is understood that Wayne Baker, one of last year's championship Aces, is on the FMA squad. If that's the type of boys the Virginians bring to Edenton the Aces will have a real scrap on their hands. Anyway, a large crowd went to Roanoke Rapids last week, so here's hoping a record crowd will turn out Friday night. It should be a good game and the band, majorettes and cheerleaders will be on hand to add color to the game. According to the weather as this column is written, the press box boys will not be wanting coffee.

The Herald crew has had their hands full this week and will be in the same boat next week. It's because Hector Lupton and his wife are spending two weeks in California visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John McColl. It's darn puzzling why so many time-consuming things can happen when any one of The Herald crew is not on the job. Anyway, here's hoping the Luptons don't get in the path of Hurricane Carla or any of the others which are apparently brewing in the Atlantic.

Sometimes a fellow talks a little too quick, and that's just about what Walter Harlow, executive vice president of the Bank of Hobbville, did a little while back. The Center Hill-Cross Roads firemen solicited Mr. Harlow for a contribution of 100 cement blocks to help build a kitchen at the up-county fire station. "Yes sir," said Mr. Harlow, "and that's not all. I'll lay them myself." But he was requested to perform the job Thursday afternoon of last week and he forgot to consider that it might be a very hot day and that a small army of gnats would also be on hand for the event. Anyway, Mr. Harlow showed up in working clothes and with his own tools and stacked the blocks just about as efficiently as he can stack a pile of dollar bills. Needless to say, the firemen wish he would lay all of the blocks—but he won't!

Mrs. Herbert Bass returned Saturday from Venice, Florida, where she spent six weeks as guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd G. White. She had sort of a reunion down there, for she got up with Dr. and Mrs. Louis Ferguson, former Edentonians, who now also live in Venice. Of course, the Fergusons get The Herald, so that Mrs. Bass said they told her some things about Edenton's happenings that she didn't even know about.

I feel considerably better now since I went in the back of the P & Q Super Market and got a glimpse of Mrs. J. B. Simpson's desk. After a look at mine and a look at hers—darn the difference. Anyway, like I've said, and Mrs. Simpson agrees with me, what's the need of having a desk if there's nothing on it but a pen and inkwell or maybe a sheet or two of paper? Think I'll start a "Cluttered Up Desk Club."

Town Councilmen held forth until the midnight hour Tuesday night. I saw in a paper that the Elizabeth City Council completed its business in 66 minutes. Think I'll run for office over there next time.

Carlton Haskett of Rochester, Indiana, was a recent visitor and the other day sent a birthday card to his brother, Leroy Haskett. On the card was written "from one brother to a better brother." Carlton spent some of the time at the Haskett cottage at Kitty Hawk and had his appetite with him. He ate ham almost every meal at the beach and when he left he took along several hams from Brother Leroy's ham stockpile.

Last week while commenting on a mistake made by Charlie Overman, I also pulled a boner. In a story about the VFW post I stated that Robert Powell was commander and George Ward promptly called my hand. As a matter of fact Bill Harris is commander of the VFW Post and Robert Powell is commander of the Legion Post. Maybe Bill Harris wouldn't mind my taking his duties from him as commander, but Robert has enough to do besides taking on commander of the VFW.

The Rev. Carl Hart, pastor at Ballard's Bridge Baptist Church, hasn't been there very long, but he is impressed by the friendliness and hospitality of the folks in that section of the county. However, he's found out that people are not alone in their friendliness, for the other night he was preaching and said "Even the gnats found me a stranger and took me in. But I don't like those families." And come to think about it, there's plenty of gnats, flies and mosquitoes which have been very friendly all over the county this summer—and they all must be very religious, for they seem to attend all of the church services.

Bill Easterling was supposed to call me Monday about the Jaycee meeting tonight, but he failed to do it, so I had to call him. I've overlooked his negligence, for he became a pappy Monday night when his wife presented him a 6-lb. 15-oz. daughter. Just as soon as he gets over his nervousness maybe he'll be around passing out cigars.

Of course, there's another birth announcement, for Mr. and Mrs. William Foster, who live in Masonville, N. J., are the proud parents of their second son. I don't know the brand of cigars up in that neck of the woods, but distance will cancel that "bill."

Bill Corprew gets all kinds of fish at his Broad Street Fish Market, but on Tuesday in a shipment of spots he found two that he didn't want. One was a skate and the other he couldn't figure out what it was—and neither could a lot of other people who took a look at it. Anyway, he couldn't sell either one.

The old Willis warehouse has just about disappeared at the foot of Broad Street. Now, if and when the old piles are removed, some fishermen will be obliged to find a new fishing hole. There's been many a speckled perch caught around that warehouse. Anyway, there's a change in appearance in that section.
