

KNOW YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

John T. Grooms, representative of the Social Security Administration, is in Edenton every Thursday at the North Carolina Employment Security Commission office in the Citizens Bank Building.

If you are retiring in the near future, you can speed the delivery of your first check by bringing all necessary evidence with you on your first visit to the Social Security Office, according to Harvey J. Ridinger, Field Representative, of the Norfolk Social Security Office.

Almost everyone who applies for monthly benefits must prove his age. A birth certificate is the best evidence, but if not available, there are many other types of evidence which will prove age, such as baptismal certificate, insurance policy, family Bible, etc.

Evidence of recent earnings may also be needed to establish your monthly payment. The Withholding Tax Statement (W-2 Form) is the best evidence for an employee. The self-employed should bring copies of the two previous years' tax return and evidence to show that tax returns were filed with Internal Revenue Service. A cancelled check, money order stub, or bank receipt is sufficient evidence to show that the return was filed.

If married, and your wife is also applying for monthly benefits, evidence of her age will also be required.

If you have any doubt about what evidence will be needed to process your claim, call the Social Security Office before you retire and the Representative will be glad to explain just what evidence you might need. If you have the necessary proofs when you apply for benefits, it will help speed up your first check.

In this scene from Academy-winning "Ben-Hur," Haya Harareet, as Esther, pleads with Charlton Heston (Ben-Hur) to forget his hatred of the Romans. The William Wyler presentation was filmed in Italy and other foreign locales in color by MGM and will be shown at the Taylor Theater, Edenton, for one week, October 19-25.

at my Morganton office my secretary, John Giles of Morganton, and my clerical assistant, Ruth Meacham, of Lexington. At the same time my staff in the Senate Office Building in Washington continues to function for those who wish to avail themselves of its services. The Washington office during adjournment is headed by my Administrative Assistant, Jack Spain of Greenville, and clerical assistants: Carolyn Bason of Yanceyville, May Davidson of Charlotte, Pat Shore of East Bend, Anne Sullivan of Greensboro, Mary McBryde of Raeford and Linda Hollowell of Gastonia.

Tar Heel Thinking — Conversations around the state and my mail indicate that foreign aid is a matter of great concern in North Carolina. For reasons which I have outlined in Senate speeches, I have voted against foreign aid for some years because I do not feel the program has been confined within proper bounds and limitations. Advocates of aid to neutralist nations may have been jolted recently by the attitude of the 24 neutralist nations who failed to stand with the United States against Russia over nuclear testing and Berlin. These nations will again be put to the test in the United States General Assembly during its 16th session. It is unlikely that any of these nations will side with the United States on a crucial vote. The $6 billion in U. S. foreign aid grants and assistance to neutralist countries can be written off to an unwise policy. It should be hoped that this will cause a total change in the distribution of foreign aid funds now on hand and a new concept in its future program.

Home Ec Teachers Meet At Central

The Home Economics Teachers of the Albemarle Area had their monthly meeting in the Central High School on Thursday, October 5, with Mrs. Helen Larabee and Mrs. Vivian Hughes as hostesses. A very interesting and informative program on Civil Defense was given by Mrs. Larabee and Mrs. Hilda James, who is secretary to O. R. Symons, Director of Civil Defense in Pasquotank County. Mrs. James informed the group that the following things would happen in case of an attack on the country:

1. All stores would be closed immediately.
2. All power, gas and water supplies would be cut off.
3. All communications would be out.
4. Survivors would be pinned in for 2 to 3 weeks.
5. No professional medical assistance would be available except to the critically injured who have a chance to recover.

Several filmstrips were shown to the group and displays were set up showing the amount of food which should be provided for one person in a fallout shelter.

Members present for this program were as follows: Mrs. Mabel Lucy Hall, District Home Economics Supervisor; Mrs. Jean Alexander, Creswell High School; Miss Carolyn Brinkley, Plymouth High School; Mrs. Mary Ann Combs, Columbia High School; Miss Gay Howell, Manteo High School; Mrs. Vivian Hughes, Weeksville High School; Mrs. Lucy Kittrell, Sunbury High School; Mrs. Helen Larabee, Central High School; Miss Frances Newby, Perquimans High School; Mrs. Jean Pope, Elizabeth City High School; Mrs. Edna Reaves, John A. Holmes High School; Mrs. Loraine Rogerson, Chowan

High School; Mrs. Frances Warren, Camden High School; Mrs. Evelyn Willey, Gatesville High School, and Mrs. Ramona Wilson, J. P. Knatt High School.

Frankly Speaking

By FRANK ROBERTS

Many people have asked me to continue my series of articles about various folks around town. Actually, I hadn't discontinued them, but due to lack of time it's been a long time between these particular articles. However, last week I did manage to talk to a gentleman I'd been wanting to write about for a long time now. He's one of our best-liked, most respected citizens... Ernest Kehayes. Mr. Kehayes, who was twice elected mayor of Edenton, traveled half way around the world before settling in Edenton. He was born in Istanbul, Turkey. He came to this country when he was ten, and his family settled in Roanoke where his father farmed and manufactured cheese. From Roanoke, they moved to Norfolk, where Mr. Kehayes went to school, finally graduating in Franklin, Va. Next, up to the big city, and for a good many years he was in the hotel business in both New York City and New Jersey. It was in New York that he met his wife. She had come to this country from Germany, and was working in New York as a governess. Soon afterwards, Mr. and Mrs. Kehayes moved down to Edenton, where they've been living ever since. When he got to Edenton he opened the Albemarle Restaurant at the current site of The Betty Shoppe. Business was brisk for the sixteen years the Albemarle Restaurant operated. For the past four years, of course, Mr. Kehayes has been co-manager of the P & Q Super Market. Still in the food business, but on a different level. No matter what business, though, he's optimistic about the future of the town he loves so well. Why the optimism? The locality, the weather, the promise it holds for the future, and the people. He feels that eventually, industry will settle here on a good scale.

I checked with Mr. Kehayes about one of his favorite subjects: food. He feels that, generally, the eating habits of people in our area are good, although there's probably not enough variety in menu-planning. By the way, the most popular meat, according to sales, is pork. Speaking of meat, I asked him why all the fuss and feathers about this Pro-Ten Meat by Swift. I know from experience, it is unusually tasty and tender, and now I know why. The cattle is injected just 90 minutes before slaughtering. The injection is enzyme from the papaya plant. Is this method proven? Well, Swift has spent millions of dollars and many years of research in perfecting this method they call Pro-Ten. By the way, P & Q pays a royalty of $25 to $30 or more for each cattle, but Mr. Kehayes feels the public gets so much more, that it's well worth it. Being so new, Pro-Ten is not featured by many stores at present. The P & Q was chosen by Swift for its honesty, integrity and fair dealing, a comfort thought for the shopper. Mr. Kehayes, when not busy at the market, finds plenty of other things to keep him occupied. I asked him about hobbies. He said: "fishing, hunting and little children." His children, of course, are grown-up but he's a grandpa three times over. His oldest son, Byron, has a son and daughter. They live in Durham. His daughter, Dolly, lives in Elizabeth City with her husband and daughter. His two other boys both go to school. Tommy is a senior at the University of North Carolina and Alex just started at Duke University. For relaxation with his family Mr. Kehayes likes movie spectacles. He's seen "Ben-Hur" once and intends to see it again. On television he divides his time, oddly enough, between opera and westerns. He also likes good books, preferring biographies and philosophy. Mr. Kehayes, it would appear, is a happy, well-adjusted, respected member of our community. Happy in his church-work, he's a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Happy as a successful member of our community. Well-adjusted, as he loves Edenton and considers it an ideal town for anyone for raising a family. He's respected by his employees, business associates, family and friends. Know what I just thought, coming to the close of this column? I can never remember seeing him without a smile, or without having a friendly word for his many friends.

Closing Thought: Today's forgotten man, is the guy who stopped advertising yesterday.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Salvation is attained through spiritual awakening, growth, and progress. This is the theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation After Death" which will be presented at Christian Science churches Sunday.

From John (5) will be read these words of Christ Jesus: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life."

One of the citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker

Eddy states: "Universal salvation rests on progress and probation, and is unattainable without them" (p. 291).

The Golden Text is from I Corinthians (6): "God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise us up by his own power."
