Awards to Be Presented to 28 at Colonial Motor Court Restaurant

Twenty-eight of Chowan County's top peanut growers will be feted at a special banquet meeting in Edenton's Colonial Motor Court's new restaurant Friday night, December 15, at 7 o'clock, according to Wesley Chesson, chairman of the Edenton Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Committee. The occasion, Chesson stated, is to present awards to those who qualified for the Ton and One Half Peanut Club contest sponsored by the Chamber. Qualifiers were those farmers who grew 3,000 pounds or more, dry weight, to the meas-

Main speaker of the evening will be William Campbell, entomology expert from N. C. State College in Raleigh. Mr. Campbell's talk will embrace the important subject of the influence of insects on peanut yields with particular emphasis on the destructive Southern Corn Root Worm. Mr. Campbell will illustrate upon his subject with colored slides. Also attending specialist, N. C. State College Water Conservation District.
