

Civil Defense Planning Key To Survival

By MURRAY D. ASHLEY
Chowan-Edenton Civil Defense Director

Word was received this past week from Civil Defense Headquarters in Raleigh, N. C., that we could expect an architect-engineer team to be in Chowan County in the near future to start the Fallout Shelter survey. This is part of The National Shelter Survey Program that was put in action to carry out the instructions of President Kennedy to Secretary McNamara to identify, evaluate, mark and stock existing shelter spaces. This survey will use recently developed techniques to conduct the nationwide inventory of existing shelter spaces. The inventory will cover the entire geographic area of the United States including its possessions. This shelter survey will not only obtain results regarding the shelter space available, but will also give us vital information needed to carry out a positive, well-planned Civil Defense Program. Many times in the past I have heard the comment that Civil Defense should be the responsibility of the Federal Government. Let me, again, repeat, "There can be no effective Civil Defense Program in Chowan County without the full cooperation of each and every citizen. While the Federal Government will survey these shelter spaces and furnish the necessary food, water, and radiation detection materials to stock the shelters, it's still the responsibility of your local director to mark these spaces, stock them with necessary supplies and provide shelter commandants and Radiation Detection Personnel. The key staffing list for Civil Defense Planning in Chowan

County has been completed. These some twenty-five key personnel will head up each separate branch of your overall Civil Defense Emergency Plan. Chances are that in the near future you will be asked to volunteer for some position on the Civil Defense Roster. You owe it to yourself and your community to give us your time and support. We can build an effective Civil Defense force in Chowan County if we try and since the need for Civil Defense is likely to be with us for a long time, we must not be swayed by the on and off cold war. We can't build an effective force just when it's needed, we have to plan now. We are still in need of personnel to Staff Communications Positions in Chowan County. At present we are holding communications classes at the Civil Defense Office Wednesday and Friday nights each week. We need personnel in the Center Hill, Cross Roads, Rocky Hock areas very badly. If you would like to attend our school, please contact us at telephone 3111 or come to Room 100 in the Joseph Hewes Hotel in Edenton. This course is free and we instruct you in Radio Morse Code and Radio Theory that is required to pass the examination for FCC Radio Operators and Station License Amateur General Class. Again I would like to say that the Chowan Edenton Civil Defense Agency was established to assist you, the citizens of Chowan in Civil Defense Planning and Guidance. Please call if we can help you in any way.

Land Considered For Bombing Range

undergrowth, estimated at about 30 tons per acre, provides fuel for forest fires.

To combat the fire menace, which constantly threatened adjoining lands, and to aid in the management of the area as a tree farm, several hundred miles of roads and drainage canals have been constructed by the paper company.

Establishment of a bombing range in this highly inflammable area undoubtedly would result in huge forest fires which could destroy much of the timber in the county. The organic soil existing in the area burns to a depth of several feet in dry weather. These peat fires have been known to burn for weeks and are impossible to extinguish except by inundation. Fire barriers, which are used to contain most forest conflagrations, are useless in this area since sparks carry for several miles under certain weather conditions. The paper company's evaluation of the fire situation is based partially on experience gained a few years back when a similar bombing range was established on lands in South Carolina. Fire from bombing and flares used in night-time operations caused numerous fires, not only on the target site, but also on lands miles away from the target area—and this on land not nearly as inflammable as those in North Carolina.

In the opinion of forest experts, fire hazards of these proportions would make it impossible to operate the land as a tree farm and probably would eliminate the present forest development program, allowing the land to revert to sub-marginal quality. This, in turn, would cause a loss in tax revenue and a loss in much-needed jobs. The company is spending nearly a quarter of a million dollars annually to manage and improve the Tyrrell County properties. Logging activity on the Tyrrell County lands now is at a high level and is expected to increase, provided the land can be managed for timber production and protected from fire. Proposals to build bombing ranges in the territory indicate a lack of knowledge of ground conditions and a disregard for the possibility of devastating timberlands of an entire county.

Fred Claridge, North Carolina State Forester, has stated that if a bombing range is established in Tyrrell County, the state might have to give up fire protection efforts in this section.
