Reports indicate that the community programs sponsored by Triangle and St. John Home Demonstration Clubs, in observance of Home Demonstration Club Week, were very successful. All clubs had as their goal, to reach non-members and have them participate in the different activities sponsored by each club.

SENATOR Sam Ervin SAYS

Washington — The investigation of the Billie Sol Estes case by the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, of which I am a member, is an investigation which I think ought to be made. The situation which has arisen and has become a matter of much public attention has come about in part due to the fact that we have entirely too much surplus grain stored under our agricultural program. The investigation will enter into not only the reported abuses of the farm program but will look into factors that have produced the abuses. Today we have a demand for price supports for certain crops which producers are unwilling to submit to controls. North Carolina is concerned with agricultural programs which govern chiefly tobacco, peanut and cotton production. These programs have been more or less used as a model for the 1962 Farm bill. I think the investigation will be a healthy thing for agriculture.

Tariff Bill — The House Ways and Means Committee has reported the Trade Expansion Act for 1962. The House is expected to vote on the bill sometime in June. Although the current law governing tariffs and trade will expire on June 30th, the bill is not likely to be presented in the Senate Finance Committee before July. Considerable hearings before the Senate Committee will make it likely that the bill will not come to the Senate floor before August. Congress has in times past in like situations involving the tariff laws granted by resolution a temporary extension of the current law until both Houses can act on the bill. A bill of this kind is one that covers such a wide area that it is difficult to predict what it will contain on final passage. There is known to be substantial objection to one part of the Trade bill which provides in essence that "conclusion of the President on any part of the bill, shall be conclusive". I think that will arouse some opposition. There is some feeling that it is an effort to "nail the courthouse door shut with reference to interpretation of the tariff act."

TAKING A POWDER—Although his face is comical, this young nomad boy willingly submits to the discomforts of being dusted with DDT and talcum powder at a "de-lousing" station on a highway near Malagan, Pakistan. The United Nations Children's Fund is helping with typhus control. Typhus has long been one of the nomads' major enemies.

National Guard and Reserves—Secretary of Defense McNamara

has proposed the elimination of eight national guard and reserve divisions. I am opposed to the curtailment of the strength of the national guard and reserve units. I think that in times past they have proven that they are a bulwark of strength to the nation. They have rendered a great service in all of our wars of the past generation. There is a constant "see-saw" battle that goes on about the national guard and the regular forces. The Eisenhower Administration once insisted on cutting the regular forces very substantially. Secretary of Defense McNamara apparently plans exactly the opposite approach. He wants the "see-saw" to go down on the other end and rise on the regular forces. Frankly, I think that we need both the regular forces and the national guard and reserve divisions, because we are living in a very precarious world. The only security we have lies in the strength of our defense forces. I think we have witnessed too much of this constant battle to curtail and then later reestablish these forces. There ought to be a policy of continuity in this area of national defense.
