

Brenda Mooney Weds In Raleigh

MRS. CHARLES SINGLETON LITTLE, JR.

Miss Brenda Deane Mooney, of Raleigh, formerly of Edenton, and Charles Singleton Little, Jr., of Fort Mill, S. C., said their marriage vows Saturday in All Faiths Chapel on the grounds of Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh. Officiating were the Rev. R. N. Carroll of Edenton and the Rev. William R. Steininger.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyd Mooney, Jr., the bride attended Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music for three years and will complete her education at Winthrop College. A former member of ter, S. C. After a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Fort Mill, S. C.

Music for the ceremony was presented by Miss June Crews of Creedmore, vocalist, and Ronald Coleman of Rockville, Md., organist.

Mr. Mooney gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was of organza and lace, scalloped scoop neckline embroidered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Long sleeves tapered to a point over hand. Tight fitted bodice, bouffant skirt was floor length with appliques of bows placed over skirt. Her veil was of French illusion attached to a coronet of seed pearls and lace. She carried a cascade of carnations and stephanotis centered with white orchid.

Miss Pat Mooney, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a lime green gown of Sata peau, scoop neckline, bell shaped skirt, large picture hat dyed to match gown. She carried three long-stemmed pink rosebuds tied with matching ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Minnie Hobbs of Edenton, Miss Meg Wiggins of Swansboro, Mrs. J. D. Burleson of Albemarle and Miss Jackie Mooney, sister of the bride. They wore identical outfits as the honor attendant, hot pink with matching accessories.

Little Miss Deanna Burleson was the flower girl. She wore mint green of Sata peau and carried a basket of mixed flower petals.

Best man was Doyle Spry of Cooleemee and ushers were Ralph Valentine of Chevy Chase, Md., Bud Skiles of Edenton, William Baucum of Garner and Ted Hardison of Raleigh.

The bride's mother wore a dress of mint green imported linen with an orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of beige imported linen with an orchid corsage.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception at their home where pink and white floral arrangements were used throughout. The bride's table, centered with the cake, was flanked with silver candelabra and epergnes of sweetheart roses and bridal wreath.

The table was covered with white organdy cloth, centered with silver candelabra, epergnes filled with a pink and white floral arrangement. Forty guests were members of the wedding party and friends of the families. Mrs. C. B. Mooney, mother of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. Charles Little, mother of the bridegroom, served cake.

The National Outlook
Business Still Not Doing Well

By RALPH KUBEY

William Mc. C. Martin, Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, said a few days ago, "You cannot say categorically this is a recession." That is true. He then added: "There is a lot of pessimism in some quarters but that pessimism is not warranted yet, in my opinion, by the figures." We think the current reports amply justify worry about the remainder of this year, and in many instances actual pessimism.

Here are some recent developments:

Total industrial production, seasonally adjusted, remained the same in June that it was in May. One can rationalize this by saying that the continued drop in steel, and a decline in automobile output as a result of a strike, were the cause of the overall stability. But if recovery were what it should be these developments would have been more than offset.

Personal income reached another new high in June, but the increase from the preceding month—$750 million—was the smallest since the start of 1962. The total personal income is now $440.5 billion, and such a limited growth is most discouraging.

Durable goods orders declined 3.5 percent between May and June. This was the largest drop in five months, and the backlog of orders fell for the fourth consecutive month.

Housing starts have been one of the really bright spots in the reports since last January. In June the number of private, non-farm starts fell to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,361,000. As compared with May this was a drop of 180,000.

Retail sales also eased off in June. The decline was 2 percent, and covered most types of stores.

Total employment, as customary, increased in June, but so did the number of unemployed. As related to the civilian labor force, the unemployed increased from 5.4 to 5.5 percent.

Common stocks—Fairly widespread pessimism continues on the level of the common-stock prices. There has been an appreciable rally from the low of June, but many careful students of the market believe this is merely a temporary rise, and that the June low will be tested and may not hold.

Gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced in the nation—has been revised again for the first quarter. The new figure is $545 billion. This is a downward adjustment of $3 billion. For the second quarter the total is up slightly to $552 billion. The old forecast of $570 billion for the year as a whole now appears fantastic.

The situation in the Congress remains extremely complex and confused. Defeat of the medicare bill by the Senate aroused tempers to an extraordinary degree, and it will be a long time before some of the things that were said are forgotten.

The Senate Finance Committee has made numerous important changes in the Administration's tax bill, and has now set it aside while it holds at least a month of hearings on the new tariff bill. During this time there will continue to be pressure for an immediate overall reduction of taxes. President Kennedy has not yet been convinced that there is need for such reduction at this time, and beyond doubt there still is a great difference of opinion in official quarters as to just what type of tax cuts should be recommended. Also there is no assurance as yet that this Congress would enact a tax reduction bill in the face of an unquestioned deficit for the current fiscal year.

These are only some of the rather obvious unfavorable developments. Certainly they warrant doubts as to whether this recovery can or will continue for the remainder of the year.

Dr. Salk Coins A Word: Bionauts

"Super stars" of science will make up the research team of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Dr. Jonas Salk, who will direct the Institute at San Diego, Calif., quite often draws analogies between sports and science.

He once said, modestly referring to his historic role in developing the polio vaccine, that "I just happened to be in the right place to catch a long forward pass."

Today he might select another sport and say that the Institute faculty members are the Mickey Mantles of science—they can hit home runs from either side of the plate. Dr. Salk points out that in recruiting his Institute Fellows he searched for and found versatile scientists "who have all been trained in a field other than that in which they are working today."

Dr. Szilard Dr. Salk Dr. Bronowski

Varied Abilities
They possess more than one skill or field of knowledge. They are not limited to biology. Some of the 10 Fellows already appointed are equally at home in higher mathematics and physics, or history and literature.

This unique combination of professional skills, versatility, imagination and intellectual curiosity has been described by many as the magic formula needed today to achieve the conquest of disease—from the common cold to cancer. They believe firmly that an assault on disease of the kind and magnitude planned by Dr. Salk and his colleagues could pave the way to revolutionary breakthroughs.

Just as the Mickey Mantles depend on the baseball fans who pay their way through the turnstiles, construction of the Salk Institute will depend on contributions from the general public.

The Institute, Dr. Salk has coined the word "bionauts." "If we can speak of astronauts," he asks, "why can't we think of 'bionauts'—scientists who are capable of doing in biology what has now been done in the fields of space and of atomic physics?" He envisages the Salk Institute as a sort of launching pad for the gifted "bionauts" of the scientific world who will comprise his faculty.

lected thus far are entering the stage of their most productive period. Their average age is 49 years but seven of the 10 are even younger.

Dr. Warren Weaver, vice president of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation and a Salk Institute Nonresident Fellow who is often described as the "elder statesman of American medical research," is 67; but Dr. Melvin Cohn, a famed American biochemist now with the Pasteur Institute of Paris, and a Salk Institute Resident Fellow, is only 38.

A-Bomb Architect

Dr. Leo Szilard, long-time professor of biophysics at the University of Chicago and celebrated worldwide as one of the "architects of the atomic bomb," a Nonresident Fellow, is 63. But Dr. Edwin Lennox, an American microbiologist now also on leave at the Pasteur Institute, and a Resident Fellow, is only 41.

Dr. Jacob Bronowski, of London, a Resident Fellow who is well known in the United States for his books and lectures, is 54. His versatility is outstanding—in mathematics, philosophy and history.

Dr. Salk has remarked that the professional and cultural interests of the Fellows happily overlap. At a recent meeting of several of these scientists in New York City, they chatted with vivacity of organizing competing string quartets at the Salk Institute next year, of sailing and swimming in the Pacific, even of shooting a round of golf now and then. These "super stars" of science who may be expected soon to revolutionize biology and thus "help man make the most of his gift of life" are human beings, too.

The conditions under which the Salk Institute "bionauts" will pursue their studies are probably unique. The physical as well as the intellectual atmosphere of the Institute has been designed so that the individual scientist can concentrate fully on productive work and thought. Laboratory equipment will of course be the most modern. A highly specialized reference library on biology and related fields will be maintained. The whole environment is designed to spur the Institute Fellow toward daring and uninhibited original thinking on how to reach the goal he is seeking—faster.

Pioneering Projects

In most great universities and other research centers scientists are obliged to invest a great deal of their time in teaching and in administrative detail. There will be none of these time-consuming duties for the faculty of the Salk Institute. Its members will spend all of their time on pioneering projects. Moreover, they will have complete freedom to launch whatever projects they elect and may change the direction of their research if they wish.

Experts familiar with the scientific world and its leaders agree that the 10 Fellows se-

$15 Million Goal

This summer all across the nation a campaign is in full swing to raise $15,000,000 to build and equip the Institute. The drive is sponsored by The National Foundation through the March of Dimes. It is a renewal of the partnership between all Americans and Dr. Salk—the man who did so much for them in developing the polio vaccine, and will do so much more as director of the Institute.

As another way of describing the scientists who will work at
