

SOCIAL SECURITY
Questions and Answers

George Dietrich, field representative of the Social Security Administration, is in Edenton every Thursday at the North Carolina Employment Security Commission office on North Broad Street.

Over 50 million people have now worked long enough under social security to qualify for cash disability benefits if they should become disabled from working. This means that they have social security credits for at least 5 years (20 quarters) in the last 10 years. In the case of a severe disability, the worker and his dependents may be eligible for monthly cash disability benefits if he has met this work requirement.

It is not necessary to be completely helpless in order to qualify for disability benefits under the social security program. These benefits are payable to those who have met the work requirement and who suffer from a severely disabling physical or mental condition which makes them unable to do any substantial and gainful work.

Disabled adult sons and daughters of retired, deceased, or disabled workers may also receive childhood disability benefits if they have been disabled since age 18.

Anyone suffering a severe disability which prevents his doing any real or substantial work should get in touch with the Social Security Office without delay. He may be losing benefits if he fails to file application promptly.

Most death-dealing highway accidents are caused by someone disobeying a traffic law. Some happen because of carelessness and some are almost unavoidable. In a special study of last year's mishaps the State Department of Motor Vehicles listed the following miscellaneous driver actions which led to fatal smash ups: Passing or overtaking another vehicle 59, avoiding vehicle 34, avoiding fixed object 3, avoiding pedestrian 5, vehicle skidded 258, driverless moving vehicle 2, backing 8. Also included in the summary of miscellaneous actions were 12 fatal accidents involving hit and run driving. Seven of the cases were cleared with the guilty driver apprehended.

ed mainly at taxpayers who are liable for social security and withholding taxes and excise tax on sales at retail and by the manufacturer. These are often referred to as "trust fund" taxpayers because they collect taxes from the general public which are required to be paid over to the Government.

As evidence of the service's intention to "crack down" on such delinquent payors and filers, J. E. Wall of the Greensboro IRS office said that during the past three months over 100 seizures of property have been made to satisfy delinquent tax liabilities. In addition, 4,774 levies have been served on third persons to seize salaries, wages, bank accounts and receivables in a massive further effort to enforce the internal revenue laws. Also, there were 897 tax liens filed.

Mr. Wall said that the number of "trust fund" taxpayers who are delinquent is small in relation to the total but his office intends to pursue its rigid collection enforcement policy until the habitual delinquent becomes a current paying taxpayer or his business is closed through seizure and sale of his assets.
