SOCIAL SECURITY
 Questions and Answers

George Dietrich, field representative of the Social Security Administration, is in Edenton every Thursday at the North Carolina Employment Security Commission office on North Broad Street.

Q—I am the owner of a retail business. What do I have to do about paying social security taxes on my employees?
 A—If you have not already done so, you should apply to the District Director of Internal Revenue for an employer identification number. This is used to identify your particular account when you pay the taxes for your employees. Then each quarter you should file your return (Form 941) with the Internal Revenue Service and pay the taxes due.

Q—Where can I get the forms for filing a quarterly report for my employees?
 A—It should be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue by the last day of the month following the end of each calendar quarter. Thus, the reports are due by April 30th, July 31st, October 31st, and January 31st for each of the four quarters.
 Q—You should get in touch with your local Internal Revenue Office and request either the regular form 941 for business employees or the simplified form 942 for household workers. That office can also give you the forms on which to apply for an employer identification number if you do not already have one.

Q—I am a housewife and have hired a cleaning woman to come in and help me two days a week. For this work I pay her $5.00 per day. Do I have to report her earnings for social security purposes?
 A—Yes, since you pay her at least $50.00 in cash per calendar quarter. If she works 10 days for $5.00 a day during any quarter, her wages would total $50; so you are required to report her earnings for social security purposes. This $50.00 rule applies only to household workers.

Q—What is the rate at which I must pay the social security taxes on my employees?
 A—At present, you should deduct 3½ percent of the employee's wages for taxes. To this, you, as an employer, must add the same amount. This total of 6½ percent of the worker's pay is paid to the Internal Revenue Service at the time the quarterly report is filed.

HAY FEVER
 Hay fever, producer of several million watery eyes, runny noses and sneezers each season, is produced by substances called allergens. One of the most frequently involved allergens in hay fever is ragweed pollen.

Q—What household workers are covered by social security?
 A—Anybody who performs domestic work in a private home. The exceptions to this are: work by a parent for his son or daughter, by a child under 21 for his parents, by a husband for his wife, or by a wife for her husband.

From mid-August to first frost is the worst season of the year for hay fever sufferers.
 When the hay fever allergen enters the body it speeds up production of antibodies. These chemical policemen rush to battle the allergen and the action releases powerful chemicals. One of these is histamine. The favorite temporary remedy is an antihistamine, to combat the effect of histamine in the body.

Q—Are there any special precautions for an employer to take when filing the quarterly report?
 A—Yes. You should be sure that the employee's correct name and social security number are reported along with the right amount of wages. Always be certain that you have copied in your records the name and number exactly as it appears on his social security card.

A tolerance to pollens can be built up by injecting a dilute solution of them under the skin, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association. The common method is to begin three months ahead of the season and inject increasingly large doses at five-day intervals. These shots must be given only by experts. Improperly used they could cause more trouble than the hay fever itself.

Q—As an employer, when must I file the quarterly return for Hay fever is a wide open field for the medical quack, and the sufferer will hear of a wide variety of "cures". Most of them are useless. The most common preventives for hay fever are:—Get specific anti-hay fever shots well ahead of the season.

 —Keep away from areas where ragweed pollen loads the air.
 —Air conditioning, both at home and in the office, combined with good air filters, will often help.
 —Antihistamine drugs lessen congestion and relieve itching.
 —Keep your home immaculately clean and free of dust.

Sunday School Lesson

THE COUNSELOR WITHIN
 International Sunday School Lesson for October 28, 1962.

Memory Selection: "Repent, and be baptized everyone of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins; and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit."

Lesson Text: John 14:16-17, 25-26; 16:4b-15; Romans 8:1-27.

This Sunday we seek a deeper understanding of the meaning and work of the Holy Spirit and try to discover how we can be aware of the Spirit in our daily living.

"We believe in the Holy Spirit, God present with us for guidance, for comfort and for strength." These are familiar words because we use them often in our worship services. We rejoice in a God who is present with us in our daily living. This experience of God's presence is what we mean when we speak of the Holy Spirit.

The Bible opens upon the work of the Spirit. And throughout this whole wonderful Book references are made to that Spirit—from the dawn of creation right up to the crucifixion and beyond. But we must never get the impression that Pentecost was only an experience of the past. The coming of the Holy Spirit is a continuing experience. To the questioning group on the day of Pentecost Peter said, "The promise is to you and to your children."

(Acts 239). It is important to note that the Holy Spirit did not come to individual followers of Christ in isolation. Rather, the Spirit became real to them when they were in fellowship with one another. Today the church at worship is a natural setting for becoming aware of the presence of the Spirit. And where better to enter into that spirit of expectant receptivity and willing obedience necessary if we are to

The Hand of Trust

Almost every frightening step of childhood is marked by a singular emblem of trust. A child's trembling fingers grope upward. A parent's warm grasp is felt. And youth steps forward into new paths, fear melting into confidence.

God must count on parental hands to lead His little ones to Him. For religious training is part of the vast unknown until Mother and Dad begin to lead their child each week to Church.

Yes! God counts heavily on our hands. There is no one else into whose palm our child's fingers slip so readily. No others can teach the early lessons of faith and prayer so simply, nor illustrate them so vividly at home.

Indeed, that loving hand of trust which leads a child to Church seems in turn to be clasped by the hand of God.
