

The Roundup

By WILBORNE HARRELL

In my opinion, although the immediate threat of war has lessened, we are right back where we started. We have been fighting a cold war for many years, thrust and parry, with neither side actually winning. Now, we have called a truce to give both combatants a breathing spell, and then another cold war will begin all over again. And what direction this cold war may take, no one knows. As one commentator put it, Khrushchev may claim that Kennedy did a monstrous thing when he brought the world so close to the brink of nuclear war, and that it was he, Khrushchev, who halted it. Khrushchev could, to less informed countries, point to himself as the saviour of the world. And so insidious is Communistic propaganda he will be believed in some quarters. There will be no peace in the world until the monstrous doctrine of communism is supplanted by the Sermon On The Mount. It has taken nearly 2000 years for the teachings of Christianity to be accepted by many peoples of the world. Many have rejected the Christian doctrine, but Christianity is forging ahead and becoming stronger. It may take another 2000 years for Christianity to oust Communism completely. Not within the life-span of anyone now living will there be complete peace; and maybe not for generations to come. But we can still live with dignity, fight communism wherever it rears its cobra-like head, and if need be die for what we believe to be the right and true way for free-born human beings to live.

PHIL OSOPHER SAYS — Outraged public opinion is the only weapon that can successfully oppose unwise, unjust and unfair laws.

OBSERVATION — Those of us who live on the Carolina coast know the tension an oncoming hurricane can build up in one, and the palpable relief when it passes. With the easing of the Cuban crisis, the relief voiced on all sides reminded me of the aftermath of a Hazel or a Donna.

Trick or Treat is rough on TV, especially if one is viewing something one is particularly interested in. But, so what, Trick or Treat comes but once a year and I have TV every night—so what am I grumbling about.

Fisher writes: "I accept your offer to sell your store building for $30,000." Is there a contract?

Yes. A mere inquiry from an offeror as to whether the offeror would consider selling at a reduction from the offered price is neither a counter-offer nor rejection.

Fisher's first reply to Darr is not a counter-offer, because Fisher has not promised to buy at $27,000 even if Darr will sell at that price, and it is not a rejection for so far as appears Fisher may still be considering the acceptance of the $30,000 offer.

Gardner offers in writing to sell his home to Harding for $40,000, stating that the offer will remain open for ninety days. Within a few days after receiving the offer, Harding replies: "I am keeping your offer under advisement, but if you wish to close the matter at once I will give you $35,000." Gardner does not reply, but within the ninety days limit of the original offer Harding writes: "I accept your offer to sell your home for $40,000." Is there a contract?

Yes. A communication from an offeror other than an unqualified acceptance is not necessarily a rejection.

No rejection of the original offer can possibly be implied in this case from the fact that Harding countered with an offer to buy at $35,000, since Harding made it clear that he was still considering whether to accept Gardner's offer to sell at $40,000.

Another in a series of articles in Motor Vehicles explores some of the significant facts behind last year's traffic accident toll.

Who rides the roads? Well, at least two million drivers in the Old North State. They are licensed and drive with a watchful eye for the most part. But the State Department of Motor Vehicles has an official record of 100,923 drivers who were not so watchful last year—they had accidents. This is what they were doing wrong mostly: failed to give the right of way, speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road. Their carelessness built up big and tragic figures like 1254 dead, 24,438 injured and a 207 million dollar economic loss.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The enlightened nature of the man of God's creating will be explained Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Selections from the Bible in the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Adam and Fallen Man" will include these verses from Ephesians (5): "Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children;... For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of light."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (p.200): "The great truth in the Science of being, that the real man was, is, and ever shall be perfect, is incontrovertible; for if man is the image, reflection, of God, he is neither inverted nor subverted, but upright and Godlike."

Something To Worship

By TERRY JONES

"... Up, make us gods, which shall go before us;" (Exodus 32:1)

I have often longed to see a picture of Jesus, to know what He actually looked like. Many artists have dug down into their imaginations and drawn portraits of what they think Jesus might have looked like. If God gave the people of nearly three thousand years ago the opportunity to actually see Jesus Himself, then why can't we at least have a real portrait of Him. God did the right thing after all. For if man had a real picture of the Lord to see, then man might come to the point that he would worship that picture. It would probably be hung in some large cathedral for man to bow down to and the sin of idolatry would be committed.

We men have a tendency to worship things we can see and touch. Some even want to bow down to mortal men or something that is "holy". Remember in the Bible what John did after he had been shown a revelation of the things to come by an angel (Rev. 22:3). John fell down to worship the angel. But the angel told him not to worship him, but to worship God.

We should never worship the cross, or the place where Jesus was born, or a picture of Him but only God Himself.
