Edenton $10 Fee Per Day For Picketing Operations Ruled Unconstitutional

Major Portion of Court Term Is Devoted to Picketing Ordinance And Trespassing

William J. Bundy of Greenville is presiding over a term of Chowan Superior Court which convened Monday morning. The greater portion of the time was devoted to trespassing in connection with an integration movement in Edenton and the legality of an amendment to a picketing ordinance on the books of the Town of Edenton.

Shortly after the term of court was opened by a prayer by the Rev. Hugh S. Evans, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, the grand jury was chosen which included the following: John L. Parrish, Carlton Milton Ober, Melvin E. Copeland, Walter W. Small, Claude W. Griffin, W. C. Bunch, E. D. Copeland, Harry L. Winslow, Carroll G. Lane, Joseph Hathaway, Lawrence Dowd, J. Wallace Goodwin, Jr., Wesley M. Chesson, Jr., J. W. Morris, Ralph Eugene Saunders, Linwood Lane, Billy G. Leary and Warren J. Twiddy. Wesley Chesson was appointed by Judge Bundy as foreman.

In a brief charge to the grand jury, Judge Bundy pointed out the various duties of the body and spoke at some length about administering justice.

A goodly portion of Tuesday was devoted to the legality of the recent amendment to the town's picketing ordinance during which all members of Town Council, together with Town Clerk W. B. Gardner were put on the stand. The Councilmen were questioned by William N. Kuntzler of New York and George Tillet, local attorney.

Following the testimony, Mr. Kuntzler offered a motion to quash charges of violation of the ordinance.
