

AROUND THE FARMS IN CHOWAN COUNTY

By C. W. OVERMAN, Chowan County Agent

Mechanical Harvesting and Curing Peanuts: Peanut harvesting will get under way this week in full swing. Last week I examined the maturity on several fields; Astor Perry, the Extension Peanut Specialist, examined some with me, and concluded that peanuts planted around the first of May should be ready for harvest the latter half of this week and next week. We hope to get our all-practice demonstrations harvested during this period as they were planted on May 6 and 7.

Digging and winnowing should be done 4 to 6 days prior to combining, dependent upon the weather. If reshaking is necessary to remove dirt from the peanuts, this should be done within the first two days after digging.

In combining the combine mechanical speed should be adjusted to the condition of the vines. Tough vines require aggressive picker action. As vine conditions change during the day, a difference of not more than 10 deg. or 12 deg. Peanuts should not be cured below 10% moisture. At the end of curing, peanuts at the top layer will have about 2% more moisture than the bottom layer. The curing process must not be rushed if good quality peanuts are to be the result and good quality is the thing that will keep us in the peanut business.

Successful Apple Enterprise: Louis Winslow of the Chappell Hill Community, had his first sizeable harvest from his young apple trees this year. Mr. Winslow has approximately two acres set to apples of the Red Delicious and Golden Delicious varieties with enough Jonathans interplanted for pollination. Mr. Winslow has done an excellent job on fertilizing, pruning and spraying his trees from the beginning. This year he harvested some over 60 bushels of nice large, excellent quality from about 9:00 in the morning until about 4:00 in the afternoon. A humistat, properly set, will turn the heat on and off at the right time. The heated air going to the peanuts should never be more than 15% higher than the outside temperature, we recommend medical science. But again, like venereal disease, alcoholism is a disease of sin. Alcohol slows up the reaction time of the human body—and thus makes the drinker a menace in the operation of powerful machinery. It weakens his powers of moral judgment. It deadens his sense of decency. And eventually it destroys human personality until it is next to impossible to recreate a stable person. How badly are the concepts of Christian living needed here!

Paul never understood the Christian life to be the function of other worldly, disembodied spirits. It was to be lived out within the rough-and-tumble struggle of a dirty world. And anything which impairs the physical strength of the Christian to that extent weakens the witness for God. Disciplined living is the Christian way. Indulgence is the mark of the uncommitted life.

Those who attain to any excellence commonly spend life in some one single pursuit, for excellence is not often gained upon easier terms.

—Samuel Johnson.

There've Been Some Big Changes Made

The bus at the top was fine for 1933. It made frequent stops, operated on two lane roads, and encountered little traffic.

Today's bus is designed to run hundreds of miles without stops. Its motor is more powerful, yet quieter; and the coach is air conditioned, rest-room equipped.

But one thing is the same—the Trailways spirit of neighborliness and helpfulness to the traveler. This spirit, we feel, is why Trailways has grown in service to your community and the nation.

man for one woman. Anything less falls short of the ideal for the home life of a Christian culture.

Alcohol is an enemy of healthy living. Alcohol is a killer. It destroys the body, the mind, human respectability, decency, and everything else which contributes to a wholesome society. Is it possible that we are being anesthetized by the current slogan that alcoholism is a disease? Of course, medically speaking, when the unfortunate victims of drink reaches the pathetic stage of helplessness designated by the term "alcoholism," it is a disease; and it must be treated with all the skill of
