Soil Stewardship Week May 3-10

SOIL
STEWARDSHIP
WEEK
MAY 3-10, 1964

To each among us...
A SHARE

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which places emphases on man's obligations to God as stewards of the soil, water and other relation resources, will be celebrated locally May 3-10, according to L. C. Bunch, chairman of the Chowan Unit of the Albemarle Soil and Water Conservation District and other members of the local board, Messrs. Fahey Byrum and Joe Webb, Jr.

This year's observance, with the theme, "Each Among Us—A Share", underscores the responsibility which each citizen has in meeting the responsibilities of soil stewards. The Albemarle District along with other districts throughout the nation are sponsoring this event for the 10th consecutive year. The district will distribute, upon request, bulletin inserts and booklets created particularly for this year's observance.

We all depend upon good land and pure water for our food, our clothing and many articles we use from day today. We all have a responsibility to see that our good farmland is well cared for so it will continue to produce an abundance of good food.

The amount of good land in the United States has been reduced to about two acres per person on which to produce the food and clothing we use.

How well is your two acres being cared for? Will it continue to produce good food for you? Or will it become depleted, washed away and unproductive? YOU have a responsibility to see that your two acres is well cared for in the future.

Dr. Courtenay's commentary raises some needed questions about a philosophy that seeks a modern world: Men walk stary eyed through streets and halls dreaming of new days and improved status. The whole world seems in a pep-rally mood, and the bonfires grow larger and burn more fiercely, even as the songs, chants, and shouts of the participants become louder and more fervent. In a thousand tongues men scream their demands for equality, for place, for recognition, for rights, for privileges.

"In my summer setting, close to nature, I looked around for evidences of equality in nature, and found none. Trees and hills are not the same in breadth and height. Rivers and lakes are not of uniform size.

"As I thought of it, the same seemed to be true of history. Nations and races do differ in size, wealth, prestige, power, creativity, and vision. Some soar like eagles. Some build like beavers. Some grow like vegetables and weeds in the garden called the earth. Between individuals, races, groups and nations, there are broad differences, and equality is not a character-legislative solution for problems that cannot be solved by laws, but could endanger the rights of all.

SENATOR Sam Ervin SAYS

Washington — The battle over the so-called civil rights bill continues in the Senate. As the debate has progressed the country has learned more about the provisions of a bill that is probably the most deceptive piece of legislation presented to Congress in many a year.

Indicative of this is a statement attributed recently by the Augusta Chronicle to Congressman Frank Chelf of Kentucky, who co-authored the measure in the House as a member of the Judiciary Committee. Later, after studying the bill more carefully, he reportedly said: "It's an awful bill. I hadn't realized how bad it is."

If one wonders how a situation like this could occur, it would be well to recall that this bill has never yet received legislative hearings either in the House or in the Senate, and that thousands of its most ardent supporters have never read the bill.

When emotionalism rather than logic becomes the standard by which legislation is to be judged, perhaps the nation needs to reflect upon some things which it knows to be true. Dr. Walter R. Courtenay, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Nashville, Tennessee, in a sermon which I placed in the Congressional Record some time ago, said as much when he reminded us of the realities of our world, as follows:

"Equality has intoxicated the
