

Planning Ahead

R. C. Ward in the Ryland community recently made application for planning assistance in developing a complete soil and water conservation plan for his farm. Mr. Ward will be furnished a conservation plan and land capability map to use in planning. He will determine the entire needs of the farm such as improved cropping system, cover cropping, crop residue use, open ditch and tile drainage and woodland improvement. A plan will then be developed to meet these needs in a systematic manner. Mr. Ward will have a guide to go by in making the improvements he would like to over the next few years.

District Supervisors' Meeting

The local board of Albemarle Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors, Lloyd C. Bunch, Joe Webb, Jr., and Fahey held their regular meeting in the work unit office in Edenton Wednesday night, July 15 at 8 o'clock. The supervisors hold regular meetings to plan the district activities to carry out in the soil and water conservation district program. Plans were made for conducting the woodland clinic in the early fall for the vocational agriculture students in the district. Applications were also considered for technical assistance. The public is always invited to attend its district meetings.
