

BROAD STREET BULLETIN

By KATE

While making my weekly visit to the hospital, I found that it is as most times, filled to capacity. While it is comforting to know that we have such a good hospital, it is better to be able to come and go at will, rather than having to lie there day after day. Each time I leave there I am so thankful that I can get outside and put my feet on solid ground and walk. If you get to feeling grumpy about something, visit someone who is ill, then walk home and count your blessings along the way.

It's time to dig up your geraniums, coleus and other house plants which have spent the summer in the yard. After potting them, let them set in the yard for a few days before bringing them in the house. Each year I plant quite a few geraniums, but get no blooms during their stay in the house. Do any of my readers know how to keep them blooming?

Have you ever seen a sale on unlabeled cans in a grocery store? Many times the labels get lost and the cans are put on sale at a greatly reduced price and the shopper takes a chance on them. Somehow, I can't resist buying some of these cans and really it's lots of fun. It might be dog food, sardines or dried, flaked potatoes, which I thought were soap flakes.

I've had several requests for the green tomato pie recipe, so here it is: Line pastry shell and cover with 1 tbsp. flour, add one layer of thinly sliced green tomatoes, dot with butter, a pinch of salt. Make three layers, cover with ½ cup brown sugar, 1 tsp. flour, butter, all spice and (heavens help me) a handful of water sprinkled over it. Cover with a lattice top and bake in 375 degree oven. This is better eaten cold, gets nice and gooey. (Mrs. Slagle's recipe). Another recipe sent to me from Mrs. Spencer Graham of Bricktown, New Jersey, calls for 1 tbsp. of vinegar and instead of just all spice, cloves and cinnamon are also used. Next time we get some green tomatoes I shall try that recipe.

five children and a very capable minister's wife, seems to be Jane's world and a very happy one, too. She certainly is an asset to our Methodist women and our church.

Ideals—

- To be oneself.
- To keep a laugh in heart and throat.
- To win friends by being one.
- To be captain rather than victim of my moods.
- To hold my head up high and face the storm.
- To wipe up spilt milk and try to hold onto the pan next time.

Elmore Appoints C. Of C. Committees

Conger, Jr., chairman; Education, James Bond, chairman; Health and Safety, Pete Dail, chairman; Highway, West W. Byrum, chairman; Industrial Development, George A. Byrum, chairman; Legislative, E. L. Hollowell, chairman; Membership, Warren Twiddy, chairman; Merchants' Committee, Caswell Edmundson, chairman; Parking and Traffic, Henry Quinn, chairman; Recreation, John Ricks, chairman; Tourist, W. J. P. Earnhardt, Sr., chairman.

Probably the first committee to see action, Elmore said, will be the important Membership Committee. "Our membership relies, of course, on voluntary leadership for manpower," he said, "but also needs voluntary memberships dues to continue the Chamber activities and projects."

The membership drive for the new fiscal year will follow the annual banquet which is to be held October 13. There will be a kick-off breakfast the following morning for the membership drive. It is planned to have those working on membership solicitation divided into two teams with the losing team to buy the winners a steak dinner, while the losers eat beans. Last year's membership dues failed to match the actual budget needs and it is hoped that with the two teams competing, the necessary budget will be raised handily.

Community Groups Named In Election

teemen will play a large part in administering farm programs in 1965 and will take office October 1.

Friday, September 18, the delegates to the County Convention met for the purpose of nominating and electing the County Committee for 1965. The following County Committeemen were elected to serve for the coming year:

A. O. Griffin, chairman; E. E. Boys, Jr., vice chairman; Ray Byrum, regular member; Leonard Hare, first alternate; E. M. Howell, second alternate.

This committee will also take office Thursday, October 1. The ASCS office reports that peanut cards have been prepared and will be mailed about October 1.
