

County Commissioners And School Boards Are 100 Per Cent In Favor Of $100 Million School Bond Issue

Committee Appointed To Work For Passage In Election on November 3

Chowan County Commissioners and both the Edenton and Chowan County School Boards have adopted resolutions in favor of the proposed 100 million dollar school bond issue which will be voted on in the general election on Tuesday, November 3.

C. C. Walters, superintendent of the Chowan County school unit, and Hiram J. Mayo, superintendent of Edenton schools, appeared at the County Commissioners' meeting on Monday morning in behalf of the bond issue.

It was pointed out that if the bond issue passes, Chowan County will receive a total of $282,225.91, of which amount $201,164.86 will go to the Edenton administrative unit and $81,061.05 to the Chowan County unit. These amounts are allocated on the basis of 1961-62 average daily membership, which for Edenton is 2,231 and Chowan 899.

Mr. Walters pointed out that in his unit the vocational agricultural shop is not adequate and that about $50,000 is needed for expansion and equipment. He also said renovations are necessary at the library and gymnasium.

Mr. Mayo said at the D. F. Walker High School the vocational agricultural shop should be doubled in size, which will cost $30,000 and eight additional class rooms are needed.

Nurses Needed For New Nursing Home

Unit Ready For Operation When Adequately Staffed

It was reported early this week that Chowan Hospital has its chronic and convalescent unit (nursing home) finished and practically staffed and ready to open and accept patients. However, the unit cannot open until it has adequate registered nurses and licensed practical nurses.

This is the former nurses' residence which has been converted into a long term case unit. It has 15 beds and all modern conveniences for patient care. It is hoped enough nurses will apply for positions so that the unit can open and accept patients.

Less Woodland Fires Reported In Chowan County Than In '63

Roger Spivey, Chowan County ranger, reports that Chowan County had eight woodland fires this far this year, which compares with 15 fires in 1963. He points out that this past spring fire season was not as severe as last year, one reason for fewer woodland fires being that people who use fire as a tool are more conscious of fire danger.

Mr. Spivey also says that the burning permit law also helped in decreasing the number of woodland fires. This law states that a burning permit must be obtained from the State Forest Service before starting or causing

Appeal Is Made To Observe Parking Area At Local Library

The cooperation of the public is again requested in observing the parking rules posted on Church Street for the use of library patrons. Although it is clearly marked, a car Monday parked from 2:30 until 5:30 in this area. There were three cars which did not belong to library patrons which were parked in this area during the very worst of the rain. One patron had to park almost at Granville Street and walk the whole distance with heavy books in her arms.

The library tries to give the best possible service to the public but there was a noticeable decline in circulation in September as compared with recent years and it is feared that the difficulty in parking is the reason.

It is also requested that the first person to park in the reserved area pull up as far as the white line if no one else is there first. This enabled the next person to turn the corner and park easily.

Patrons will also be glad to know that there is now heat in the library. So they can come and read and browse and enjoy the many new books which have been acquired.
