

I had missed Cap'n last time I made a trip to his coastal area. However, as we met the other day he flagged me down with a long sheet of paper. "Howdy Cap'n—Seems like a signal flag about to be hoisted with that big sheet," I greeted. "Hmmpf," Cap'n snorted. "Did you see this market report?—No Production Reported—What does it mean? I saw three boats dock yesterday, saw 'em myself."

"Well, let's slow down a minute, Cap'n," and I agreed he had a point to argue over. We know, Cap'n and me, and maybe a lot of others do also, that reporting production "is" most necessary. No one is snooping for tax purposes—just trying to get an accurate picture of our catch. Aside from just getting a lot of figures together, there is good use made of this.

Cap'n fidgeted a minute, then jibed me a bit on how this catch data was so important. Well Cap'n, I replied, remember the inlet you all want dredged by the Corps of Engineers? "Sure do. Still need it." Well, the catch landed nearby, the number of boats using the inlet and the value of income to local people all help justify the expenditure of money for dredging. So every fish counts when we look at projects like dredging an inlet.

Another important use of catch data is when Uncle Sam allocates funds for research as under the Commercial Fisheries Research and Development Act (Public Law (85-309) last Congress. N. C. really didn't do so well because our reported catch figures are low compared to the quantities probably landed. So, if we shy off in reporting accurately and on time, we suffer.

Remember back a couple of years ago or so Carteret County was preparing an Overall Economic Development Plan (OEDP). Well, they certainly had to dig into the landing of fish and shellfish, number of boats, people employed, value added by processing to mention some of the data needed. This helped the county get funds for an ARA project on fisheries and seafood processing. Cap'n just read in the paper recently where the Economic Development Act renewed this project for another year on a revised basis. Bet they used the catch data again.

So, Cap'n there are many good reasons for reporting correct figures on our fisheries landings. It is all aimed at helping do a better job.

Cap'n nodded in agreement. He knew, I knew, but does everyone else really understand how much more status, more aid, more business would be ours if we reported our catch and other information like good old salts should?

Farm Program Deadline Nears

Growers were reminded today that April 1 is the last day for filing applications to take part in the 1966 feed grain program.

H. O. West, office manager for the Chowan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, points out that only growers who participate in the program will be eligible for price support on their 1966 crops of corn, barley and grain sorghums. As last year, the support is made available through loans, purchases and price-support payments.

Besides qualifying for price-support, purchases and payments, the participating grower also earns a diversion payment for shifting part of his feed grain base to a conserving use; the payment does not apply to the first 20 per cent diversion except on farms with small bases. The price-support payments may be earned on the projected production from an acreage up to 50 per cent of the total feed grain base for the farm by planting one or more of the feed grains corn, grain sorghums or barley or by planting soybeans in lieu of a feed grain. West urges farmers who are interested in taking part in this year's feed grain program to call at the ASCS county office as soon as possible, since there are only two working days left before the sign-up deadline, and signing up as a necessary first step in program participation.

Through March 23, 222 growers in Chowan County had signed up to divert 2,683 acres for payment under the 1966 feed grain program. Department of Agriculture officials are stressing the continued need for full participation in the 1966 feed grain program. Feed grain stocks remain more than sufficient.

Feed grain program applications may be filed at the Chowan County ASCS office. Office hours are from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. Sign-up deadline is Friday, April 1.

Beauty is now officially recognized. The Internal Revenue Service says you can make income tax deductions for some contributions designed to help conserve the nation's natural beauty.

It's a step in the right direction. Now, how about some consideration for deductions for hairdos, girdles and toupees?
