Meaningful work or training for one younger person for each 100 regular employees in the VA regional office at Winston-Salem is the goal of W. R. Phillips in pledging cooperation in President Johnson's campaign to find summer jobs for the nation's youth.

"The 'one for every 100' aim is to provide opportunities to boys and girls 16 through 21 who need them more because of economic or educational disadvantages," Phillips said.

The White House has pointed out that 1.8 million of our youth will look for summer work without being able to find it. Getting a job for many of them will mean the difference of going back to school, or becoming a "dropout" against their will.

Phillips added, "As the President says, 'If we fail them it will mean we are failing our future.'"

The cooperation of private industry, labor unions, news media, state and local governments is being enlisted.

Focal points for filling employer needs will be the State Employment Service offices. Information for interested youths and employers will be furnished at these offices.

Around The Farms In Chowan County

By C. W. OVERMAN, Chowan County Agent

Chowan County Referendum Vote: In the three commodity referendums conducted last Wednesday, April 27, the vote was strongly favorable for program continuation, but was light.

Thirty beef cattle producers voted for and one against continuing the assessment of ten cents per animal sold for slaughter. Forty-one swine producers voted for and one against continuing the assessment of five cents per animal sold for slaughter. Eleven egg producers voted for and two against continuing two cents per case of eggs marketed.

The word "Investment" may be more proper than "Assessment." These promotional programs are actually investments in market improvement. The American Dairy Association has just published information on results of an advertising campaign covering a one year period. The report shows over a five per cent increase in milk sales. It also shows a substantial net return on promotional investment based on market records.

Crotalaria Contaminated Grain: Extension Specialists T. E. Nichols, Jr., and Howard Small say that several grain marketing firms have reported an increase in crotalaria contaminated grain showing up at their elevators this year as compared to the last few years. I hope there was none from Chowan County but we must watch out for and destroy any crotalaria plants that appear in our fields.

Crotalaria seed have been found to be poisonous to livestock and poultry, even in small quantities. The production of top-quality grain and soybeans stimulates good market acceptance. Good markets provide better income for producers.

Peanuts: As I write this on Monday afternoon, we have had between one and two inches of rainfall over Chowan County. Our soil moisture should be fine for peanut planting as soon as the soil dries enough to work. Early planted peanuts usually make the best yield and quality. Try to finish planting peanuts this week or early next week, if possible.

Weed Control in Peanut and Soybeans: Vernolax (Vernam) properly applied and incorporated into the soil prior to or immediately following planting is giving good results on both peanut and soybeans. The word "weed" includes grass. Trifluralin (Treflan) properly applied and incorporated is giving good weed control on soybeans. Do not use Treflan for peanuts.

Carefully read and follow the manufacturer's direction on using herbicides and other chemicals. Amiben may also be used on soybean within three days after planting. At cracking stage o plant emergence Dinitro, Dyphenamid - Dinitro combination, and Alanap - Dinitro combination may be used on both crops.

Control of Thrips, Leaf hoppers and Aphids: Thrips, aphids, and leaf-hoppers attack both cotton and peanuts. Excellent results have been obtained by applying granular Thimet or Di-Syston a peanuts and cotton are planted. Apply eight pounds per acre on light soils and ten pounds per acre on heavy soils.

Sgt. Williams' Unit Is Winner

HOMESTEAD, Fla. — Chief Master Sergeant Jesse J. Williams, whose wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Sweeney of Lakeland, Fla., has helped his unit at Homestead AFB, Fla., earn an outstanding rating for combat readiness.

Sgt. Williams and other members of the 19th Airborne Missile Maintenance Squadron were cited by Strategic Air Command (SAC) headquarters officials for demonstrating superior operational capability during a recent "no-notice" testing exercise.

The sergeant is a missile systems analysis supervisor in the SAC force which keeps America's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers constantly alert.

Sgt. Williams, who attended Edenton (N. C.) High School, is the sister of Mrs. Louise Rae of Edenton.

What happens when V-C Nitrogen Solutions go down ahead of planting? Plenty!

Nitrogen goes to work deep in the soil, speeds residue breakdown and builds soil tilth. Your crops get nitrogen early for a fast, healthy start. They are deep-fed in the summer and make the most of available soil moisture.

You save time... especially with wide-boom applicators. You save money, too. V-C Nitrogen Solutions are economical sources of N. Get a head start on profits this year. Call us now and make a date for delivery. Or tell us when you would like custom application service.
