

BROAD STREET BULLETIN

Will there be Peace at Christmas?
With all the world in strife?
It's up to all of us for good
To work at Christ-like brotherhood.

Ever since I can remember, we have talked and read about Peace on Earth at Christmas. Will it ever be?

Wasn't it a lovely parade Monday afternoon? The floats, especially those with children taking part, gave everyone a real feeling of anticipation of the coming holiday season. Our small grandchild had never seen a parade before and it was a real pleasure to watch her as well as the parade.

I received a pleasant note this week from our friend Frank Muth, who some time back was immobile because of an accident with his foot. We were very glad to know that Frank is again able to be about, as we've missed seeing him, tall and straight, walking along the street with a cheerful word for everyone.

Another person whom we miss very much is our neighbor, Mrs. Ida Mae Roberson, who is still with her ill sister in Washington, D. C. From her correspondence, she sounds mighty homesick, so let's send her some cards. Her address is: Mrs. Ida Mae Roberson, 3308 19th St., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20010.

Here's a good recipe for

Black Walnut Taffy:
2 cups corn syrup.
1 cup sugar.
1 tablespoon vinegar.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 cups walnuts.

Put first four ingredients into a skillet. Cook slowly until small amount becomes brittle when dropped in cold water. Add vanilla and stir quickly. Pour into greased pan.

Here's how to make Pomander Balls, an old time gift for Christmas: Select large, firm Florida oranges. Stick whole cloves into each one until completely covered. Roll in a mixture of equal parts of ground cinnamon and orrisroot; use about 1 1/2 tablespoons of mixture for each orange. Pat in as much of the powdered mixture as will adhere to the orange. Wrap the Pomander in tissue paper. As the Pomander dries and shrinks it develops a spicy fragrance. Remove from paper, shake off loose powder and the Pomander is ready for use.

Helpful Hints
Dried orange and grapefruit peel and rinds make good fuel for the fireplace and also give off a lovely aroma.

Keep stray thumb tacks on a cork. They're handy when you want them and easy to remove.
