

The Roundup

By WILBORNE HARRELL

Are there any "giants in the earth" on the horizon? Among the men, now that Senator Kennedy has announced his candidacy, that are seeking the presidency, is there a "giant" that will rise up and lead us out of the wilderness? There is no denying the fact that the United States is in trouble, both at home and abroad. But I submit it is not so much the country that is in trouble, but the individual. I am in trouble, you are in trouble, the man across the street, your next door neighbor. What are these United States? In the final analysis it is the collective minds and hearts and souls of the individuals that make up the country. And I further submit that if we, as citizens, do not re-assess and re-evaluate our collective attitudes and postures, we will sink further into disorder, unrest and finally, defeat and loss of all this country stands for. If we do not have a moral and spiritual rebirth, no "giant in the earth" will be able to pick up the pieces and put the country together again. Caesar was a giant, but Rome fell.

PHIL OSOPHER says: Anything you don't say, nobody can repeat.

To see Mrs. Bufflap (Kate, to you) back in the office again, was like seeing a sailor home from the sea, or a soldier home from the wars. And the absence of her warm and homey column from The Herald, left a vacancy that was keenly felt by her many readers. And this co-worker, too, was getting a little lonesome. Welcome back to BROAD STREET, Kate!

Recently I received a Bible, handsomely bound and printed, by saving enough cigar bands. On showing the Book to a friend, I remarked that the only thing I disliked about it was, it was bound in white and would gather dirt and dust. He replied, "Don't worry about that; you'll probably never use it enough to get it dirty."

Holmes High News

By Martha Britton and Amy O'Neal

At John A. Holmes High School things slowed down a little this week while the whole school took achievement tests on Wednesday and Thursday and all the junior and senior math students took the national mathematics examination on Tuesday.

In club news, the Tri-Hi-Y attended the Macedonia Baptist Church Sunday; the Debating Club competed against three other schools in Sunbury Tuesday, and the Future Homemakers of America chose their Mother-Daughter Banquet steering committee on Wednesday.

In an attempt to improve the school, the Student Council has initiated a student court system by which student offenders will be tried by their fellow students. Popular opinion favors this idea in the hope that student crimes will be prevented, as well as detected.

In the past few years the Aces' baseball team has not been very well supported. Let's amend this error and make this the Aces' best year yet.

A point of interest directly related to this column is that it is broadcasted every Saturday afternoon on WCDJ by different Holmes High students.
