Around The Farms Club Golf Event Plans Are Made

By C. W. OVERMAN

Corn, Soybean and Swine Field Day: The annual field day at the Tidewater Research Station near Plymouth will be held Tuesday of next week, August 29, from 9:30 to 4. For more detailed information on this field day, please see the special article elsewhere in this paper.

Peanut Field Day: The annual peanut field day at the Peanut Research Station at Lewiston is scheduled to be held on September 10 from 9:30 until 4 in the afternoon. I suggest that you jot this date on your calendar and also watch this column for further information about the field day.

Cotton Information: Two cotton variety test demonstrations are being conducted in Chowan County for observation and performance. One of these is being conducted with Carroll and Fahey Byrum in the cotton field behind Carroll's home. The other one is being conducted with Joe Hollowell on the Bertam Hollowell home farm.

Each of these demonstrations have a sign on the highway, pointing to the location of the plots. Each plot is labeled with the variety name. Those interested should visit these demonstrations and observe the fruit setting.

The cotton insect situation has made a slight change. Cotton is nearing the end of square. The weevil puncture square count this week remains from none to 54 per cent, averaging 10 per cent. The two-spotted spider mite and also red spider is present in some fields. Azodrin sprayed at three-fourths pound of actual or a little over one pint in 10 or more gallons of water per acre should do a good job on mites. Trithion or Ethion is the best dust material for mites.

The cabbage loopers that have given us so much leaf damage in the last two or three weeks has about met his end by the virus disease attacking it. We still have not found any chemical for safety use on cotton that will control the pest.

New Careers Launched

Twenty-four participants in the New Careers program of Economic Improvement Council, Inc., received two days of orientation and counseling last week at John A. Holmes High School.

Rev. H. L. Mitchell of Gatesville, program director, said New Careers has a good potential for assisting these individuals as well as assisting various community agencies.

During their training period, these workers will be paid by the federal government. They will receive formal education through the Learning Resources Center in Edenton as well as have on the job training at the different agencies.

Four are working in Chowan County. They are: Willie Mae Stallings at Swain Elementary School; Bernard Taylor, Ernestine Shannonhouse and Arnette Hathaway, at D. F. Walker School. All will be training as community recreation aides.

During the first 19 weeks the students will work on the job on Tuesdays and Fridays. On Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, they will receive counseling, remedial instruction, supervised study, specialty training and Core training.

The following 19 weeks will find the students on the job three days each week with the remaining two days set for the other activities.

Mr. Mitchell released a backgrounder on New Careers which states the philosophy proposes that all the human service occupations can be analyzed and recognized so that persons with little or no skills can become immediate earners giving valuable assistance to the professional staffs of health, education, welfare and municipality agencies.

It further stated that the New Careers is dedicated to the concept of self-help, self-improvement and opportunity for all. "It seeks to avoid the traps of placing unemployed or underemployed persons in dead-end, entry-level jobs without futures.

The program is being operated out of offices on Base Road. In addition to Mr. Mitchell, the staff includes: William Madrey, Jr., deputy director; Mrs. Naomi C. Hester and Mrs. Grace Cox, counselors; Mrs. Elizabeth Winslow, bookkeeper, and Miss C. Jordan, secretary.
