A Thought to Remember

By MARVIN BARHAM

We live in a mechanized world—everyone agrees to this.

Just forty years ago when the farm was beginning to become mechanized—the farmers made this statement: "they may get all kinds of new fangled farm machinery, but there will always be the need for a mule." Well, time has proven them wrong. The mule has been replaced, and has all but left the American scene.

There are some things, however, that time doesn't change. These are honesty, integrity, sincerity, love, devotion and a hundred other qualities that are essential to happiness. Our world may change beyond our wildest dreams, but these basic truths will always be necessary.

To live contented and happy—these ingredients must be in abundance in all our lives. These cannot be replaced.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: ALL FOUNDATIONS HAVE ONE THING IN COMMON—THEY BEGIN AT THE GROUND.
