Spivey Convicted

A man who admitted dating another man's wife was convicted of trespassing in Chowan County District Court Tuesday.

Judge Fentress Horner found Gary Spivey guilty of trespassing on the property of Billy Cooper.

Spivey testified that he had been dating Mrs. Cooper but only after she had shown him her separation papers. Cooper testified he and his wife had gotten back together and still Spivey and other men were dating her.

Spivey was sentenced to 90 days, suspended upon payment of court costs. He was ordered to stay off the Cooper premises.

In other cases called by Solicitor Wilton Walker, the following action was taken:

Lacy Edward Holley, improper parking, $25 fine for failing to appear in court and costs.

Douglas A. Stallings, driving too fast for conditions, costs.

Cornwallace White, disregarding a stop sign, not guilty.

James Walter Rome, speeding, $7 fine and costs.

Lena Cahoon Wheeler, drunk driving, 90 days, suspended upon payment of $100 fine and costs and not drive for 12 months. Notice of appeal entered and bond set at $200.

Cecil Holley, larceny, not guilty.

Dr. Holleb Named

NEW YORK—Dr. Arthur I. Holleb is senior vice president for medical affairs of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Holleb is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Oglesby of Edenton.

Dr. Holleb succeeded Dr. James P. Cooney, who retired to private life in Atlanta, Ga., after eight years of service to the society. The office of the senior vice president directs the national programs of medical affairs, which includes professional education and service to the patient.

"We are extremely pleased to have Dr. Holleb in his highly important position," said Lane W. Adams, executive vice president of the society. "He brings to us his knowledge as an eminent surgeon and teacher as well as his expertise in the field of breast cancer. He is a physician with a deep commitment to the fight against cancer."

Dr. Holleb served as the assistant director of the service division in the national headquarters in 1948 and as the medical producer-director in 1953-54 of the first closed circuit color television series on cancer control for physicians—a dramatic innovation in professional education. From 1964-67, he was a member of the board of directors of the society's New York City Division.

Dr. Holleb joined the society from the University of Texas, M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute at Houston, Tex., where he was associate professor of surgery and associate director.

Dr. Holleb is married to the former Carolyn R. Oglesby and they are the parents of 13-year-old twins, David and Susan.

Heard & Seen "By Buff"

Here's one who must have been born far too soon so far as newspapering is concerned. Various speakers were on the program at the N. C. Press Institute in Chapel Hill the latter part of last week. Some of 'em spoke about getting out newspapers by using computers and other gadgets with reading matter being ground out faster than a fellow can even think. In fact, they might as well have spoken in a foreign language for me to understand what they were talking about. Anyway, newspapers, like many other things, have made great progress, so much so that a lot of us old time printers could hardly hold down a job in many of the printing shops of today.

And speaking about the press meeting, one of my Western North Carolina friends has gone a long way in his successful newspaper career despite being very poor. This fellow told me that his family was so poor when he was a boy that his mother hung a ham hock in the kitchen window. Eagerly, he said, the whole gang would wait until the sun came up and cast a shadow of the ham hock on a platter on the kitchen table. "We sopped up ham shadow until the sun passed," he said. But then he should have been very grateful, for without the ham hock the whole works might have starved to death.

Of course, some automobiles consume more gasoline than others, but I heard the limit the other day. A fellow was telling me that a man and woman drove up to a filling station with the Missus driving. She told the filling station attendant to fill up the tank, but did not cut off the motor. The attendant, noticing that the motor was running, yelled to his wife, "Good heavens, Honey, take out the switch key. That darn car will burn up the gasoline as fast as it is pumped in the tank." Well, that's about the way it seems sometimes, especially when a fellow is on one of these super highways with filling stations few and far between.

Herbert Chappell was a little fooled the other day. While walking in a field he spied what he thought was an Irish potato. However, when he picked it up, it was a solid rock with eyes indented just like a potato. It's good the potato was not included in a harvest and somebody bought the potatoes by the pound, for somebody would have been gipped.

In reading about happenings at the inauguration of President Richard Nixon the other day, I came across this statement: "Police said 15 of those arrested were men and three were women. The sex of another was not announced." Well, if some of the characters seen in and around Chapel Hill is an example, it's no wonder the police could not determine the sex by merely looking at 'em.

Once again we're reminded that in the midst of life there's death. Sunday the scythe of time cut the little thread of life of R. T. Pickler. Though he was in the prime of life, he was suddenly called upon to drop the working tools of life. Which again should be a reminder to us all that no man knows the hour when he will be called upon to meet his Creator. Friend Pickler's sudden death was a distinct shock to his family and host of friends, so that here's another who extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

Billy Arthur, diminutive former legislator and newspaperman, now living at Chapel Hill, got one fellow straight at the press institute last week. This fellow was complaining about the rough road from Raleigh to Chapel Hill. "You're mistaken," said Billy, "you must have been riding on the shoulders."

With two little children, a nurse and a dog at the Bufflap home for about two weeks, how in the dickens can a fellow have time to fill this column? Anyway, the worst thing about having a lot of company is the void in the house after they are gone.

Interviews Held

WILLIAMSTON—Matthew Garrett, a senior at Chowan High School, is among 19 high school male seniors from 15 counties in this area being interviewed today (Thursday) by the District I Morehead Selection Committee. The interviews are being conducted at Roanoke Country Club.

Thomas J. Pearsall of Rocky Mount is chairman of the committee. Members are Ralph L. Basnight of Ahoskie, Lorimer Midgett of Elizabeth City, W. Stuart Ficklen of Greenville, and Francis P. Jenkins of Tarboro.

Six finalists will be chosen to appear in Chapel Hill February 27-March 3 for interviews with the central committee.

Morehead Awards provide all-expense-paid undergraduate educations at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. They are valued at $8,000 each for four years of study.

according to Sanford it would be Pasquotank. For, you see, he appointed Chowan's Gilliam Wood to his highway commission four years ago.

This writer readily admits Chowan doesn't have a claim on the seat. It is only because we have the best qualified candidate, in service and ability, that we speak.

Mayor John A. Mitchener, Jr., has provided excellent leadership at home and abroad. It is the latter which places him head and shoulders above anyone else in Northeastern North Carolina or in the First Highway District, for that matter.

He has served with distinction as president of the influential N. C. League of Municipalities and as chairman of the AADA Planning Committee.

It was the AADA post which proved him to be a master of tactics and a solidifier of factions. It brought forth a plan for development of the entire Albemarle Area accepted by all involved. It is believed to be the first thing in decades, if not in history, to bring unity to Northeastern North Carolina.

The recommendation for Pasquotank commissioners and Elizabeth City councilmen indicates they have learned a lesson in unity themselves. But they have left their motives showing.

Their own newspaper has been promoting "Mitch" for nearly a year. Jack Aulis established him as a "candidate" for the post, but since he moved on to our least favored daily newspaper, someone in the Holy City of Pasquotank has not been able to stay hitched.

Nevertheless, we'll have to say "No Thanks, Terry" to your advice on this matter. And if you are going to speak for Gov. Bob Scott you need something in writing.

Rain Hurts Drive

Rain prohibited all volunteers to complete their solicitations Sunday during the Mother's March here for the March of Dimes campaign, according to W. B. Gardner, campaign chairman for Edenton Jaycees.

Gardner said Mrs. Sarah White and the other volunteers are now completing solicitations and a report is due soon. Also, he said the Jesse Jones meat sale in local businesses was successful.

Jack Evans heads a committee conducting solicitations of local merchants. The March of Dimes campaign here is to raise $1,500. Gardner said it now appeared that all activities could not be completed during January and it will be the first week in February before the campaign will be brought to a close.

COUNCIL BALKS

Griffin, a member of the elections board, quipped: "You politicians worry too much."

Griffin stated that the board is interested in having a smooth operation. Other board members, as well as councilmen agreed with him that there has been considerable confusion in the past.

Election board members said they had been led to believe the council understood that a change would be necessary in order to use one set of books. It was pointed out that the town has spent nearly $5,000 as its share of the new registration. If the wards are maintained, according to Mrs. George C. Hoskins, elections board chairman, a polling place would be necessary in each ward and the books divided. There might be a necessity for a new town registration, which all agreed would be bad.

Town Administrator W. B. Gardner, who was not present, will be instructed to contact the League of Municipalities and work out details for new legislation to allow balloting in two places with districts being established for councilmen.

Councilman Elliott pointed out that action by the council several years ago for at-large voting for candidates, laid the groundwork for establishing a joint set of books with the county and having but two voting places.

INTEGRATION STAY

said he and other board members understood why the county couldn't increase taxes at this time for schools, because of other obligations. "We are just trying to show good faith with the federal court," he said.

Commissioner C. A. Phillips asked if the board had established any priorities on the projects. Dr. Edward G. Bond, school board chairman, said there was some disagreement among board members on what should have the priority. This was settled Thursday night when the majority voted for the Holmes addition, delaying the cafeteria.

School officials were conferring with W. J. P. Earnhardt, Jr., this week on procedures to request a delay. No appointment had been set with Judge Larkins at presstime.
