PASSION FOR PEACE

The three tenets of the UN Charter which held the greatest appeal and extended the greatest hope to the free world were: "To maintain international peace and security . . . suppression of acts of aggression . . . the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples."

The record is that the UN has failed miserably in the first of these aims. And after 23 years, the UN has not been able even to define aggression; nor will it be able to do so as long as the Soviet Union holds a veto. On no less than 105 separate occasions, actions desired and desirable to the free world, were denied by use of the Soviet veto in the Security Council. Times without number similar measures consonant with the provisions of the Charter were not even submitted because of the certainty of a Soviet veto.

Self-determination of peoples went out the window early when the USSR violated the promises made at Yalta and refused free elections in any of the States of Eastern Europe. When the USSR attacked tiny Finland without cause in 1939, it was expelled from the League of Nations. No such action was suggested when the Soviets crushed the uprising of the Hungarian Freedom Fighters twelve years ago. Nor has anything been done about the recent rape of Czechoslovakia.

But there are areas of the world where peace is precious to the UN. The General Assembly has just passed a resolution calling on Great Britain to use force to topple the Rhodesian government, headed by Ian Smith. And it has proposed extension of UN sanctions to Portugal and South

Calling upon Britain to use force against Rhodesia is a strange way of fostering "international peace and security." Equally strange is the language of the resolution which (and this is verbatim), "notes with appreciation the offers by Zambia and the Demoratic Republic of the Congo to make available their territories and air space for this purpose;"—the purpose being the implementation of force.

The United States voted against the resolution, but it carried, 89 to 9.

U Thant has been all wrought up over the Vietnam war, where Communist aggression is being resisted. He wants that one stopped. But he can't wait to get at Rhodesia.

Deadline Nearing

Many Chowan County citizens have not listed their property for taxes and the deadline for doing so is February 3, says Sherlon Layton, tax supervisor...

quet meeting held at the Jaycee Community Building on Base Road. Thirteen of the 20 past presidents and 10 of the 15 past DSA winners were in Chaplain Junius Britton gave the invocation; Wayne Ashley and Albert Ward recognized special guests; and John Becker provided entertainment.

In a brief note from Mrs. Jim Jenkins, now living in Asheboro, she says: "We're pretty well settled here, but we miss the folks in Edenton very much. We look forward every week to The Chowan Herald to keep up, and don't want to miss a single issue. Keep up the good work."

Then another brief letter was sent by Mrs. Adelaide T. Chesson, who lives at Hamden, Conn. "My aunt, Miss Elizabeth Wozelka, of Washington, D. C.," she said, "has left Washington and is now making her home with us." Many Edentonians will remember Miss Elizabeth, who for many years was a big gun in the John C. Bond Hardware Store here. Later she accepted a government position in the nation's capital and now has moved further north to Connecticut. What strikes me is that one seldom hears of anyone from these parts retiring and going north to But here's betting a good stoogie Miss Elizabeth will be happy to be with the Grady Chessons.

The Kitty Hawk section on Sunday took on the appearance of one of the summer vacation days. The highways were lined with cars and in at least one of the restaurants a waiting line formed just like in the middle of the summer. It wasn't especially warm weather that attracted so many to the beach over the weekend, but the major attraction was the big grounded vessel just off Southern Shores. Aside from a few times my skiff got caught on a stump, it was the first time I've witnessed a grounded vessel which is over 400 feet long, and from a distance appeared to be resting on the beach. And with all the efforts put forth to get the vessel into deep water, it may be that the boat will be a victim of the "graveyard of the Atlantic." It may be unfortunate for the owners of the boat, but one of the residents of the area said it would be good for business during the part of the year if a boat grounded every winter.

Raymond Everett, now living in Louisville, Ky., saw in The Herald that barbers in Edenton have increased the price of hair cuts from $1.25 to $1.50. Said Raymond in a brief note: "Be thankful and grateful. Here babies and bald heads both pay $2.50 for hair cuts. Better not publish this note, for it might give the barbers ideas."

Members of the Methodist Men's Club will put on another pickled herring breakfast Saturday morning. The meal will be served from 7 to 9 o'clock and, as usual, the "waitresses" will see to it that everybody who attends gets a belly full.

A group of Edenton couples spent the weekend at one of the prominent motels at Nags Head-with the weekend costing just about as much as a day would cost during the summer season. Of course, it was not exactly fishing weather, so some of the men went out to play golf. But they might as well have gone fishing on the golf course, for one of the local fellows lost nine golf balls in the puddles of water on the course. They might have fished for

Just a reminder that precious little more time remains to list property for taxesunless a penalty is desired. Property must be listed during January, and if you look on the calendar, January is just about at the end. Then, too, 1969 automobile license plates must be displayed before February 15, and there's not many days before the deadline arrives. Better display your tags rather than have an argument with a highway patrolman and a judge.

According to what one reads, it is hard to determine whether Lloyd M. Bucher, commanding officer of the USS Pueblo, captured by the North Koreans, received much worse treatment by his captors than he is receiving in the good old USA. He did what he thought was right and here's cne who wonders what the "top brass" who are trying him would have done had they been in the same situation.

Gains Reported

A 23 per cent increase in sales by United Piece Dye Works in 1968 was reported recently by Harold Welburn, chief executive officer.

Welburn told members of the board of directors that sales in 1968 were $25,672,000 as compared to $20,832,785

Net income of UPDW after provisions for federal income and surtax was estimated at about $1,544,000, approximately 70 per cent higher than net income after federal income taxes for 1967. UPDW has a huge operation on Chowan River, 12 miles north of Edenton.

passed, would bring in $36,000 less, or $116,000.

It is believed that the Town of Edenton's share of the $152,000 would be more than $40,000. It doesn't take a sharp pencil to figure this to equal a 40 cent increase in the town's tax rate.

A municipality can increase local taxes 10 to 15 per cent and justify it to the satisfaction of the citizenry. It would take the best from Madison Avenue to convince those who put the ballots in the box and the money in the treasury that a 40 per cent increase is necessary.

Local property taxes, by necessity must be increased. The local share of a statewide sales tax increase would be one way of helping the hurt. .

Unemployment

During the month of December, unemployment rose slightly in the local area due to weather conditions affecting most outdoor work.

According to Neil E. Thagard, manager of the Edenton Employment Security Commission Office, the average weekly rate of insured unemployment was 3.2 per cent as compared with 2.9 per cent in November. During the month 87 persons registered for work with the local office, and 150 persons were referred for interviews for jobs which resulted in 108 job placements.

At the end of the month only 19 job openings remained unfilled. This small number of unfilled job openings is the result of local employers being willing to train the unskilled and their cooperation in training the disadvantaged to become gainfully employed.

There is still a need for qualified applicants in many areas of work. If you are in need of assistance in finding a job you are encouraged to apply in person at 709 North Broad Street to register for work.

Earnings Increase

Net operating earnings for First National of Eastern North Carolina jumped 22 per cent during 1968 over the preceding year, it was revealed at a heavilyattended annual stockholders meeting at the bank's headquarters in Jacksonville.

The total increase was from $538,140 in 1967 to $659,008 in the year just ended. The operating earnings per share of common stock was $3.03 as opposed to $2.47 the preceding year.

Total assets also increased slightly more than 20 per cent, ending the year with a record $91,442,325 as compared with $75,918,289 the previous year.

In a colorful 16-page annual report distributed at the meeting, a letter from President M. F. Allen, Jr., reported that the year was "the fastest-moving . . and the most productive of any period vet in our short 16-year history.

This was due largely to the fact that nine departments were either added or greatly expanded during the year. Also some 100 new employees were recruited into the First National system.

It also was projected that the coming year would surpass last year's record accomplishments.
