I like the old, old custom
Of sending Valentine greetings;
It brings your old friends closer,
In fact, it's like a meeting.
So let them know they're on your mind
And send them each a Valentine.

As I sometimes do, I procrastinated this week until the last minute on this little bit, and developed a severe headache, so it's somewhat of an effort to even open my eyes, much less think what to write. Someone suggested that the best thing to do with "old plugs," when they got out of whack was to shoot them, and I must agree.

All you Methodists—there'll be a fellowship supper at the Methodist Church this coming Sunday night, with each one bringing food. It will begin at 6:30, so bring your family and join the fellowship and fun of being together.

There'll also be a pan cake supper at the Episcopal Church this coming Tuesday, Shrove Tuesday at the hours between 6 and 7:30. I'm sure you'll enjoy the food and fellowship there, too.

As usual, when one gets too "upitty," we're bound to get a take down "a peg or two." So it was with me last week. I was feeling pretty good when a very nice lady asked me if I wasn't Mrs. Bufflap. I said I was and asked her how she knew and she told me she recognized me from my picture in The Chowan Herald. Personally, I think the picture is terrible. It actually came from a passport picture—but anyhow—it's how others see us.

Here's a recipe that I had a request for this week. I hope you like it. I've had several friends send me new recipes and I do appreciate them and will use them each week.

Fruit Cocktail Cake
Add juice of fruit cocktail (No. 303 can) to two beaten eggs. Add two cups flour, sifted; 2 tsp. soda and 1½ cups sugar. Beat until smooth. Pour fruit cocktail in and stir.

Pour in long pan (greased). Sprinkle on top ½ cup (lightly packed) brown sugar and 1 cup chopped nuts; mix first. Bake 350 degrees for 45 minutes; cool five minutes.

Icing
1 stick butter.
1 tsp. vanilla.
½ cup sugar.
½ cup condensed milk.
Mix and bring to boil. Cook two minutes. Spread on cake.

Revival Slated At Local Church

An eight-day revival is scheduled at First Assembly of God Church, February 16 through 23, according to Rev. William Tyndall, pastor.

Rev. Roland H. Blount, evangelist of Durant, Fla., will be the guest speaker for this series of services. Services will begin nightly at 7:30 o'clock.

Special singing and music will be provided at each service. Mr. Tyndall extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend.
