

BROAD STREET BULLETIN...

By Kate

There's nothing like the chatter
Of a little girl of three,
Or the questions she can ask me,
As she laughs so merrily.

Where is this and where is that?
And why is it going to rain, Why do I have to go to bed?
Answers I can't explain.

But each day I thank the Lord,
For this little girl of three,
Who in just a few short visits Has brought such joy to me.

My son Martin, who has two sticks cinnamon and been visiting me this week, two tsp. whole spice. predicted that this column, Cook rind slowly until would be filled with nothing transparent. Pack in sterilized jars. Cover with syrup and seal.
A Few Hints
After freezing fish as they come from the water, as many people do, they can be scaled easily by allowing them to almost thaw, then scaling them under water with a teaspoon.
If a screw breaks off in wood, drive it in further with a nail, fill the hole with plastic wood and then use a new screw.

This is a good time of year to enjoy all the delicious fresh fruits and vegetables at their peak.
It's not very hard to plan menus around fresh snap beans, butter beans, beets, corn, crowder peas, squash and new potatoes. Oh, and I forgot to mention the red ripe tomatoes, now in full harvest. In fact, I canned a bushel of them this week, after which I was ready to collapse.
However, when I know how much they'll be enjoyed, the hard work was worth it.

Here is a recipe for watermelon rind pickles, which I have used and had excellent results:

7 pounds rind.
1/2 cup lime (can be purchased at drug store).
Soak rind overnight in lime water.
Cover with fresh water;
boil 10 minutes and drain.
Make a syrup of seven pounds sugar, two pints of vinegar, two tsp. cloves,
