Budget Adequate

Chowan County Department of Social Services is expected to have sufficient money in the 1969-70 budget to take care of additional payments being made to welfare recipients.

While across the state a hassle has developed over cuts and reinstatement of funds, Chowan seems to be in good shape, says Robert Hendrix, director.

Hendrix told county commissioners Monday the local share of the revised budget would be $304.52. However, he said he felt there would be a sufficient amount in the current budget to take care of this item.

The director said one reason for a possible surplus is that those receiving the aid to dependent children is less than anticipated. He could give no reason for this, however.

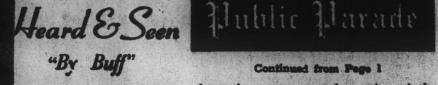

Hendrix said the only trouble the department is in now is in medical aid to the aged. More people are confined to nursing homes than was anticipated. Pete Thompson, extension director, appeared to make his first report. He commended his assistant, Harry Venters, for the work he has done in the field of livestock. "This (livestock) is going to mean a lot to this county," he stated. Thompson said Chowan is actually ahead of other counties in the area in expansion of livestock.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Goodwin, tax collector, gave the commissioners something to smile about. She reported collections running ahead of last year.

Roy Harrell, an employee of the federal Rural Fund for Development, appeared as a private citizen to criticize the manner in which some property was being listed for taxes. He proposed a citizens' committee to work with Tax Supervisor Sherlon Layton to audit the returns.

Layton later told commissioners he did not feel such a committee is neces-

Just a brief report from the Bufflap home where, at present, things are looking up a bit. After another brief visit with Dr. Polk Williams at Albemarle Hospital Monday morning, the Missus appears to be on the mend and is gradually regaining some of her strength—enough, at least, to down and go up the stairs alone once come a day, and to walk about a little in the house unaccompanied. She's hoping to soon be able to be outdoors to mingle with her many friends and to, in the not too far distant future, again have a fling at trying to catch some fish. Anyway, at this writ-ing she is much better and again is so very appreciative for the many kindnesses on the part of her friends.

With the passing of Jack McMullan Sunday, my longest friendship of an Edenton person terminated. It was back in 1923 when I came to Edenton at the urging of the late R. G. Shackell, then editor of the struggling little Edenton Daily News. His lone Linotype operator quit suddenly with a typecasting machine in such condition that hardly a line of type could be produced. It was while getting the machine in shape that Jack McMullan and the late S. Vann, both very much interested in the success of the paper, spent much time in the News office. On one occasion Mr. Vann asked me, "In your opinion do you think such a machine is practical?" Any-way, Mr. McMullan at once was very friendly, telling me about the purpose of the newspaper, as well as a lot about Edenton and Edenton people. This friendship continued over the years and when Hec Lupton and I started The Chowan Herald from scratch back in 1934, Jack McMullan had often offered some very valuable advice, and over the years furnished me with items for this column which were very informative and interesting to Herald read-ers. Jack McMullan had a yen for keeping records and chroniciling matters of public interest. He has compiled much about the progress of Edenton from way back when a lot of opposition arose relative to building the bulkhead along Water Street in front of the Court House Green. His notes go back to the days when Edento had no water and sewer systems and was without electric lights. In fact I'd like to include some of his records in this column. He was of a progressive nature and contributed in many ways to the progress of Edenton, none the least of which was giving the northeastern part of the access to the mainland by bridges state over Chowan River and Albemarle Sound. He was ever in the forefront in any project or movement which had for its purpose the progress and welfare of Edenton. It was a privilege for me to serve on Town Council under Jack McMullan as mayor of Edenton. He had the faculty of maintaining a harmonious group of Councilmen and at the same time bringing about many worthwhile accomplishments. Jack McMullan has passed on at the ripe old age of 87. He has made a very valuable niche in Edenton's progress and led a life that is well worth emulating. His influ-ence has been and will be felt for many years to come. The family has lost a wonderful husband and father and the community a very valuable citizen.

And while on the subject of death, Edenton has had its share lately. One of the most tragic, however, is the unfortunate deaths of the two Robey brothers. Of course, the hearts of the entire community go out to the Robey family in their deep sorrow. One cannot predict what ordeals lie ahead, but we are not to be able to from the recent annual meeting of the Albemarle Area Development Association and placed second in the entire 10county area.

Jones said 42 people were placed on jobs and his follow-ups indicate they are making good employees.

All of this was not accomplished by Earl Jones. He is merely an example of the type people we have working in Community Action-paid and volunteers -who are motivating those who for far too long have been passed over as hopeless Community Action is but one phase of good work by EIC among the less fortunate along the Public Parade. This is a self-help program where one community competes against the other, resulting in pride for both.

Until a problem is recognized little can be accomplished. Once it is recognized and no action taken to solve it, things get worse instead of better. There is no status quo in this field.

And there ain't no grass growing in the paths of Earl Jones and others like him who want to see things happen along the Public Parade.

plete family shopping center within one store to the residents of Chowan County.

The Mack, Company is well represented in coastal Carolina. It presently operates six stores in the Myrtle Beach grand strand area. Two stores are op-erated in Carolina Beach. Macks' new Edenton store will bring to 57 the number of stores operating in the four Southern states of North Carolina, South Ca-rolina, Georgia, and Virginia. The headquarters incorporating the general offices and warehouse are located in Sanford.

McIver stated that Macks is greatly impressed with the rapid expanding economy of Edenton and Chowan County and this new store will be an evidence of the company's confidence in the area.

At present management plans are in-complete, but will be announced in the near future.

Commissioner C. A. Phillips said it has always been the intent of the county board to operate in a businesslike manner, not only in the tax office but in every department. He said as long as he was a member of the board he would continue to press for such a policy.

understand the mysteries of life. It is comforting to know, however, that "All things worketh together for good for those who love the Lord.'

At least one person (and far above the age when children believe in Santa Claus) now does believe in Santa Claus. She is Mrs. Margaret Moore, a former nurse at Chowan Hospital and wife of Billy Moore, son of Mrs. W. C. Moore. Billy and Margaret now live in Chicago, Ill., and before Christmas Margaret received round trip airplane tickets to Edenton to visit her mother, Mrs. Fate Forehand. The only way she knew who sent her the tickets was a note signed "Santa Claus."

I'm one cigar richer due to the first baby born in Chowan County in 1970. The newcomer is Linda Gail Twiddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvie Twiddy. The youngs-ter put in her appearance at Chowan Hos-pital at 1:42 P. M. New Year's day, tipping the scales at eight pounds and 131/2 ounces. She is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs, Herbert Twiddy, so I don't know who was responsible for the cigar. But anyway, t'anks!

Of course, the new year 1970 will cause some problems. The first one I've encountered is to date any correspondence 1970 in-stead of 1969. How about you?
