

Senator Sam J. Ervin Says

WASHINGTON — For the first time in this decade, the Senate has taken a hard look at federal guidelines and business plans that have been used to force integration in the South even though such guidelines have not been used to deal with similar situations in the North.

After two weeks of Senate debate on a four-year education authorization bill for elementary and secondary schools, the South has won at the least a symbolic victory and probably much more. The Senate approved the Stennis amendment to require the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to use the same public school integration guidelines in all of the nation. Here-fore the department has used its powers almost exclusively to force Southern schools to comply with orders to desegregate and overcome racial imbalance by geographical rezoning of school districts or by busing of students from one district to another.

The Senate also adopted any amendment to prohibit any department or employee of the executive branch of the federal government to require assignment or busing of students or teachers in order to overcome racial imbalance or alter racial composition of schools. In effect, this was a restatement of prior Congressional enactments on this subject, but one which I believe is much needed to clarify the law governing HEW guidelines on this subject. I deeply regret that the Senate did not fully face up to problems brought about by federal judges and HEW officials acting as "school boards," and adopt my "freedom of choice" bill. Simply stated, this amendment would have secured the right of any child to attend the public school nearest his home.

Walker High School News

On February 19 a FFA contest on public speaking was held at Northeastern High School in Elizabeth City. Ralph Nixon, representing the Walker group, won first place and received a gold tab. He will compete in the district competition in May. Walker's FFA is sponsored by Eugene Rascoe.

Lately the FHA, under the direction of Miss Doris Ragland, has had several meetings and are presently planning on an evening for the fathers. It is called "Daddy Date" Night and will be held in March.

Something that has caused a great amount of interest among girls in grades seven to nine has been the organization of girls' intramural basketball teams. The seventh and eighth grade girls have four teams and the ninth grade girls have four teams. The girls get together and practice and will have assigned games after school.

The Hornets have played many games and have not been as successful as hoped for, but there are many good players on the two teams. On the ninth grade team the players are: Jerry Castello, Bill Chesson, Jeff Covington, Carlington Creighton, Chris Elliott, Kel Elmore, Rudolph Foxwell, Henry Johnson, Walter Norman, Shack Small, Clyde Spear and Paul Wilson.

The seventh and eighth grade team players are: Adrian Baccus, Douglas Barham Willie Bond, Carrol Bonner, Donald Ferebee, Bruce Jones, Adonis Leigh, Ben McPherson, Haywood Phthisic, Leonard Small, Chuck Smith, Ronald Sutton, Jason Weeks and Vernel Williams.

This week is "Clean Up Week" at Walker. It is being promoted by the Student Council and through the combined efforts of the teachers, students and Student Council members, it is hoped to be a great success.

News From Chowan Golf Club Pro

By Lew Dexter

Ladies' day at the club drew a large group for the fashion show but not very many girls played golf. A tournament was held and this week there were two prizes. Fewest number of putts was won by Mrs. Lena Griffin and the closest to the pin on No. 2 was Mrs. Alice Malone. I would like to see as many ladies interested in golf as there were the fashion show. Maybe with the warm weather and ladies' clinics coming up we'll have just that. Huh, girls?

As you may have noticed, I was not at the club on Monday and Tuesday. I and all the rest of Class "A" golf professionals in North and South Carolina were at the PGA seminar in Durham. This sectional educational and teaching seminar" is held annually for all Class "A" professionals, so you see we are always trying to learn more in order to take the best care of our members. Two of the speakers were Jimmy Demaret and Mike Souchak. Last year we had some fellow by the name of Arnold Palmer.

I have noticed a lot of our members swinging clubs not suited to them. Some are too light and some are too heavy for the player using them. This game is tough enough as it is, so why, when you buy clubs, don't you see your PGA pro and get fitted correctly with the proper swing weight and the proper shaft for you as an individual?

There are a lot of things to take into consideration for a pro to make a decision for you, such as body structure, large or small boned, height, weight, fast or smooth swing and, of course, "age." If you are a small person, there is no sense you trying to swing a club too heavy for you because all you're doing is trying to fight the club to get it down, and when you do this you not only can't hit the ball to your best ability, but you don't enjoy yourself and you get tired and, of course, you have a higher score. Swing within yourself. This means getting fitted right. Speaking of not enjoying yourself while playing, why not take a lesson? You'd be surprised what a lesson or two can do for you. Practicing all day long will not help you if you don't know what to practice. Take a lesson, learn what you are doing wrong and how to correct it—then practice. Remember, practice what the pro tells you to practice or you are just wasting your time and money and his time also. I have seen players waste money on range balls—practice till their hands were sore—day in and day out—and all they might have to do is some little thing like move their right or left hand a little one way or another, and they would be hitting Nu-Curl Beauty Salon, Mar-the ball great. Golf is one game where you can't see yourself swing, so no matter how much you know, you can't possibly know what to correct. A golf professional can spot your fault in most cases right away, and there you are, on your way to recovery in one easy lesson—that is, if you practice what he has showed you.

Keep your head down and the ball in the middle of the fairway.

ATTEND CLINIC

A Beauty Shop Operators Educational Clinic was held in Greenville Monday, sponsored by Honeycutt Beauty Supply. Edenton concerns represented at the clinic included: Anne's Beauty Salon, Nu-Curl Beauty Salon, Mar-the ball great. Golf is one game where you can't see yourself swing, so no matter

New Camaro. Feb. 26th.

We've never announced a car at this time before. But then nobody's ever announced a car like this before.

Super Hugger

If it were an ordinary sportster, we'd have introduced it at the ordinary time.

Instead, we took the time to build a whole new Camaro.

We started with a sleek new shape and a low road-hugging stance.

And added more hood. A faster backseat. Wider doors. And new deeply contoured bucket seats.

The instrument panel wraps around you. With enough dials to make you think you're piloting a 747.

There are four transmissions. And six power plants up to the Turbo-Jet 396 V8 that you can order.

Pick the one that best suits your driving. Then go pick on an open road.

And make it one with plenty of twisting turns. Because Camaro has a remarkable new suspension. And standard front disc brakes for a leech-like grip on the road.

New Camaro. The Super Hugger.

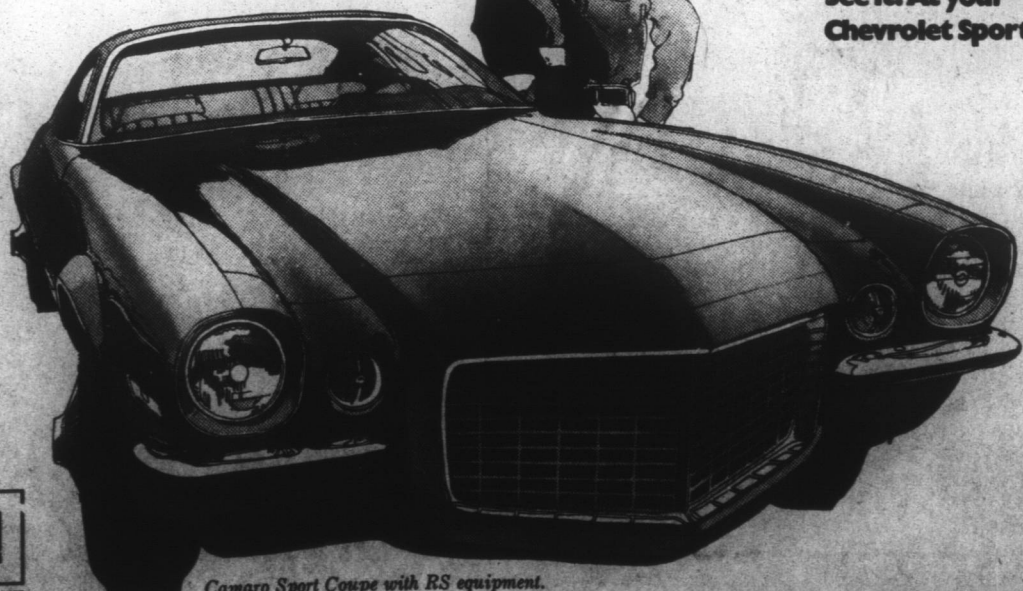

Other sportsters always feared it might come to this.

And they were right. Only their timing was wrong.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

See it. At your Chevrolet Sports Dept.
