

Mr. Byrum, 80, Taken In Death

Walter Trotman Byrum, 80, of Ryland, died Tuesday at Chowan Hospital after an extended illness. Mr. Byrum was a retired farmer.

He was born January 15, 1890, in Chowan County, son of Mr. and Mrs. Copeland Byrum.

His marriage was 56 years ago to Mrs. Pastoria Ward Byrum, who survives.

In addition to his wife, surviving are two sons: McAuley Byrum of Salisbury, and John Butler Byrum of Ryland; one daughter, Mrs. Regina Bunche of Ryland, eight grandchildren, and four great grandchildren.

He was a member of Happy Home Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Funeral services will be held at Happy Home Church at 2:30 P. M. today (Thursday) with Rev. Harold Leake officiating.

Willford Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

TO PARTICIPATE IN CONCERTS—The East Carolina String Trio, pictured here, will join Albemarle Choral Society in two concerts, first in Elizabeth City on Sunday afternoon and then Monday night in Edenton. Left to right are: Paul Topper, violin; Rodney Schmidt, cello; and Dr. Clifford Bair of the College of the Albemarle will direct the anniversary concerts.

ECU String Trio To Join Society

The joint concerts to be presented by the Albemarle Choral Society Sunday at 4 P. M. in the First Baptist Church, Elizabeth City, and Monday at 8 P. M. in the Edenton Baptist Church will feature an instrumental interlude by the East Carolina String Trio.

Members of the trio, all resident artists at East Carolina University, include Paul Topper, violin; Rodney Schmidt, cello; and Rodney Schmidt, viola.

The trio was organized the spring of 1969 and has already performed a number of concerts in Eastern Carolina before adult audiences. Lecture demonstration concerts have also been presented to in-school children audiences and the group has recently completed a series of video tapes for instruction in music appreciation at both the public school and college levels.

Violinist Topper is a graduate of Juilliard School of Music, the University of Missouri and Michigan University. He has played professionally with the Indianapolis and Chataqua Symphony Orchestras. Before coming to East Carolina University to head the string faculty, he was awarded teaching fellowships by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, the University of Michigan and Yale University and has served on the music faculties at Stephens College and Colorado State University. His pupils include members of the St. Louis, Atlanta and North Carolina Symphonies. Others hold responsible teaching positions in colleges and public school systems.

Celloist Kosower completed two degrees in cello and one in organ at the Cleveland Institute of Music and toured professionally with the Philharmonic String Quartet which has since become the resident quartet at Indiana State University. He is a frequent soloist on faculty recitals and in concerts at East Carolina University.

Violist Schmidt, assistant professor of violin and viola at East Carolina University, has taught at the University of Colorado, Jacksonville University and Clarion State College, Pa. He holds degrees from Oberlin Conservatory and San Fernando Valley State College in Los Angeles. Schmidt directs the Pilot String Project of the university which teaches string instruments to children from the Greenville City Schools and is heard frequently in solo recitals.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ward of Sunbury spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ward.

Mrs. Beverly Scott spent last week in Chapel Hill visiting her daughter, Ann Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bass spent Sunday at Nags Head.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bunch and family of Mt. Olive spent the weekend with their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Overton and daughters, Lynn and Denise, spent the weekend in Hopewell, Va., visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Overton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Corbett of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cayton.

Spec. 4 Nancy Rogerson of Fort Myers, Va., spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Rogerson.

Pete Ward, Jimmy Bass and Gary Farmer spent Sunday at the races in Rockingham.

Mrs. Johnny Speight and daughter and Mrs. Jerry Tillery of Chesapeake, Va., spent Thursday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Byrum and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Speight.

Mr. and Mrs. Clemon Bass and Ronnie spent Sunday in Hertford with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Powell.

David Parks visited friends in Greenville.

Mrs. Allan Bonner, regent of the Edenton Tea Party Chapter, and Mrs. Wood Privott, past state historian, were delegates attending the 70th North Carolina Daughters of the American Revolution conference in Raleigh last week.

Mrs. Wood Privott, accompanied by Mrs. Noah Burfoot of Elizabeth City, will attend the second Tryon Palace symposium on the 18th century decorative arts this week in New Bern.

Concord Pastor Preaching Here
The spring revival service at Edenton Baptist Church is currently in progress. Rev. Jack Hill of Concord is the visiting minister.

This is the second time Mr. Hill has conducted revival services at the local church. His first visit was in 1965.

Services are being held each evening during the week, except Saturday, at 7:30 o'clock.

The revival will continue, however, through both services Sunday with Rev. R. N. Carroll, the pastor, delivering the final two sermons in the series.

A nursery is provided for all services.

LEGION WILL BE HOST TO AUXILIARY MARCH 17
The Edward G. Bond Post No. 40 of the American Legion will be host to the Legion Auxiliary on Tuesday, March 17, at 7 P. M. at the book of Seafood Cookery, is written by Hugh Zachary and published by John F. Blair, Winston-Salem. It is just plain good reading not to speak of the good advice in the how-to category and the authentic recipes.

The rev. will continue, however, through both services Sunday with Rev. R. N. Carroll, the pastor, delivering the final two sermons in the series.

A nursery is provided for all services.
