UNIQUE PRE-FABRICATED VACATION HOME

Forsyth Firm Is Turning Out Homes

WINSTON-SALEM—A new North Carolina based company has begun full production of a unique pre-fabricated vacation home.

Guy A. Bartoli, president of Bartoli & Brady Enterprises, said the company is producing two of the houses a day at a plant near here.

The house, called the Topsider, was designed to blend with nature, said Bartoli, who designed it with Burl Brady, a native of Salisbury. Octagon-shaped and perched atop a central core of concrete and steel, the house bears a resemblance to a mushroom. It has two bedrooms, two full baths, completely built-in kitchen and a large living room. Floor-to-ceiling glass brings the outdoors into every room.

All parts of the house were designed to be carried by hand, making it possible to erect the house on sites inaccessible to conventional construction. The house can be assembled with hand tools in a little over three days.

Large developments of these houses are now underway at Beech Mountain and Sugar Mountain resorts near Banner Elk.

Bartoli and Brady Enterprises was formed in late 1968 to produce the Topsider (also called Skisider and Surfside). The first houses were turned out in a small facility near Boone in 1969.

The company plans production of 750 houses in 1970.

A future plant is planned for Salt Lake City, Utah, and the Virgin Islands, Bartoli said. A distributorship has been established in Steamboat Springs, Colo., and a research and development division has been set up at Spruce Pine.

State Students Select Sexton

RALEIGH—N. C. State University students have elected 45 representatives to serve in the Student Senate for the 1970-71 academic year.

The legislators were elected in recent spring elections to represent the schools in which they are enrolled.

The Senate is responsible for adopting student laws and regulations and acts as a liaison body between the students and the faculty and administration.

Senators from North Carolina include Frederick W. Sexton, a major in textile technology, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sexton, Jr., 107 West Albemarle Street, Edenton.

Letter To Editor

To All Responsible Citizens: I am involved in the recent protests against Nixon's expansion of the Vietnam war into Cambodia—actively involved.

I am participating in the strike on UNC's campus as a deeply concerned U. S. citizen. Furthermore, I marched three miles in the streets of Raleigh, not to demonstrate "radical" intentions, but to personally express concern over Governor Scott's telegram to President Nixon, declaring the support of N. C. citizens in the decision to invade Cambodia.

I never thought I could ever feel so strongly about an issue as to support a strike. In most people's minds, the word "strike" itself constitutes an immediate picture of long-haired hippies clad in loud attire and possessing an even louder pair of lungs. Not so! For UNC, led by student body president, Tommy Bello, is merely engaged in a peaceful protest over the unnecessary deaths of the four students at Kent State. As one student, I am taking immediate steps to voice my concern over an issue that is so bitterly divided.

ing the nation on college campuses by attending rallies, organizational meetings and even "liberation classes" which are open, informal discussions held outdoors and offered by volunteers to those students interested in current events.

My appeal to you as responsible U. S. citizens is to become involved. As you are not in my position as a college student, I suggest strongly, as a long-range goal, that you take 10 minutes and write your congressman. Let him voice your opinion, but be heard!
