Frank Jeter, Jr., Joins State Staff

Frank H. Jeter, Jr., formerly an agricultural information specialist with the Department of Agriculture's Extension Service in Washington, joined the N. C. state office of the Soil Conservation Service in Raleigh as public information officer July 13. State Conservationist C. W. Bartlett announced the appointment and said that Jeter will work with magazines, newspapers, television and radio stations. "Fortunately, he has a wealth of experience with each of these media, including years of background in North Carolina," Bartlett commented.

State University, Jeter has been a newspaperman in Greensboro, Forest City and Fayetteville, with farm writing responsibilities and has several years of experience as a radio news broadcaster in Fayetteville. ### GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN

By DALTON WARD, Ryland, N. C.

God's message to man will always stand
The trials when it is put to a test;
Man's may fail but God's will live on,
For He knows just what is needful and best.

It is not only by our good works
Can we cause His light to shine;
But it is only by full consecration,
For my Lord at all times.

Then may we make ourselves more useful
And pray for souls as never before;
So they might escape the awful tribulation,
For sin lieth at every man's door.

It is only through faith and believing His Word
Can we keep our spirit anew;
Knowing that He will never forsake,
But will safely carry us through.

The storms may rage, the winds may blow,
And cause great damage before it shall end;
But God has a message of hope, peace and joy,
That will never wear out, my dear friend.

So may I always stay on guard,
And more often check my life;
Then I will be able to stand more firm,
And to keep away from all strife.

We should always be more careful,
For in God we should live in fear;
He will not only forgive us of our sins,
But will also dry our tears.

While some are profaning the Sabbath
By seeking for worldly pleasure;
I am seeking a home above,
Where there is love without measure.

So may we use our talents
To warn the souls of men;
Because we will never know
When our days on earth shall come to an end.

Harrell Attends Seminar At UNC

CHAPEL HILL—James (Pat) Harrell of Hertford is one of 25 school administrators who will attend the In-Service Education Training Seminar July 20 - August 7 at the University of North Carolina here.

Harrell is regional director of in-service education in the Edenton-Chowan Schools in Edenton.

The in-service seminar provides three weeks of concentrated study for directors of local in-service education training programs for teachers. Administrators are invited to attend and receive graduate credit for participation.

In-service training is designed to permit teachers to renew teaching certificates within the local school system without returning to summer school for refresher courses.

It's Garden Time

By M. E. GARDNER
Department of Horticultural Science, N. C. State University

There are one or two July events that some of my readers may be interested in attending. It happens that both of these are in the same location and could be visited with one overnight stay.

Both are in Greenwood, S. C. On July 24 there will be a "Beauty Line-In" co-sponsored by the South Carolina Festival of Flowers and the Garden Club of South Carolina, as a part of the third annual Festival of Flowers activities in Greenwood.

The next day, July 25, a field day will be held at the George W. Park Seed Company. The program will consist of an "Open House" where guests may see the 1971 All-America Selections. Guests will also be permitted to inspect building facilities, trial gardens, demonstration garden and five acres of flowers.

If you would like to attend either or both of these events, write Dr. Lawrence Stranch, 201 Greenwood Street, Greenwood, S. C. 29646 for information about the "Beauty Line-In" on July 24, and Charles J. Hudson, Jr., 166 Highland Drive, Route 6, Greenwood, S. C. 29646 for information about the Park Seed Company "Open House" on July 25.

The fall webworm can cause extensive damage to many kinds of trees. The worms live in colonies proected by a web attached to the tree branches. They can be easily spotted and should be eradicated before they defoliate large tree sections. Spray with Sevin or Malathion, according to directions given on the container.

Some like to burn them out using a wad of cloth on the end of a pole, saturated with kerosene. If you use this method, employ quick thrusts with the flame in order not to damage the foliage more than necessary.

Bearded iris may be lifted and divided anytime between mid-July and early September. If you have not lifted and divided the rhizomes in the last three years, the plants are probably becoming crowded and should receive attention.

Prepare soil well and add about one measuring cup of an 0-14-14 fertilizer to 10 square feet of bed space. Choose a sunny location as the plants will do better in sun than in shade.
