more Tar Heels.

The objections raised have now proven mere pabulum. The State Fair is for North Carolinians and Commissioner Jim Graham and other fair officials realized the fences could hold just as many people during a given number of days—rain or shine. The past two events have been the most successful in history and those who had only Sunday to view the exhibits, etc., now have a chance to do so.

James Allen Graham is a 24-karat politician. He has a fabulous memory for names, dates and places. There is, however, not an insincere bone in his massive body.

The farm boy from Rowan is one to be watched. He could one day appear on the first page of biographical sketches reserved for executive officials—that of Governor of North Carolina.

Duty Undiluted

November 11 used to be observed as Armistice Day in celebration of the end of World War I. Now it is called Veterans Day.

Thus, the name has changed, but the underlying purpose remains the same—to recognize the debt of gratitude the nation owes to all Americans who took up arms in all our wars and especially to those who did not return.

And that goes for Korea and Vietnam, too, where the sacrifice is just as great even if the goal is sometimes misunderstood.

There is a tendency in this day and time to put a ceiling on patriotism, to dilute the meaning of duty inherent in citizenship, to blame individual failure on the system and to court the cliché makers as survivors.

But there is no such thing as instant heaven; and, even if there were, a heaven peopled wholly with dissenters would be an awful place to live. Progress requires more than differences of opinion. It requires a large enough body of like-minded people to move the whole mass forward, sometimes kicking and squealing.

Success is not a mail-order product, nor stature something that can be legislated. Happiness is a by-product, not of the bottle or needle or pill, but of a sense of accomplishment in the long struggle upward. And honesty is the willingness to admit that others helped.

These are values we can well keep in mind during the week of Veterans Day. Those who fought and died in the colonial wars, the revolution, the civil war and in the thousand and one engagements of World War I and II, Korea and Vietnam made their contribution, great or small, to the good life we enjoy so matter-of-factly today.

a magazine to be published by the Jaycees in March. The magazine will be distributed at private airports in three states, at chamber of commerce offices in the Albemarle Area, and at local and school libraries in the 10-county area.

Anyone interested in advertising in the magazine should contact Wallace Evans at 482-2315 or 482-4795. Personalities such as President Richard Nixon, Gov. Bob Scott, Rep. Jones, N. C. Attorney General Robert Morgan, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, Andy Griffith, Admiral T. H. Moorer and more have been contacted to make an appearance at the Memorial Day Air Festival.

Judges — Picking the winners of the community achievement contest were, from left, M. R. Coleman, Bertie County Extension Agent; Miss Linda Peele, VEPCO representative from Elizabeth City; and Willie Killian, VEPCO representative from Williamston. They were in the area last Wednesday.

Heard & Seen "By Buff"

Though in a very weakened condition, the Missus is still putting up a valiant fight at home. Of course, she does not remember the many messages sent to her by so many friends, but they are read to her. Often times a smile trickles through though her face reflects pain in her body. One of these brief messages which I personally will always treasure, written by a very sweet Edenton lady, reads as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Bufflap: I wonder whether you know how much your example of faith and courage and steadfastness means to Edenton. Nobody can think of it without being strengthened and cheered. You have the admiration and love of the whole community, and I am sure the prayers of all who pray."

Though the line is getting thinner, local war veterans marched down Broad Street to the Confederate Plaza Wednesday morning to pay their respects to those who sacrificed their lives for their country in previous wars. There were not so many in the line of march, in a slight drizzle, but their reverence for the departed is not to be measured by the gradually diminishing number who remain to pay their respects.

With the changing of the seasons, it may not be long before Mrs. George P. Byrum will be coming back to her home in Edenton from her home in West Palm Beach, Fla. In a brief note with her renewal to The Herald, Mrs. Byrum had this to say: "Hello, Mr. Bufflap. How goes it? I enjoy The Herald and here is the payment. Sorry to be so long. Hope to get back one of these days and see all my friends there. No place like good ole Edenton." And I'll second that last remark.

E. W. (Shim) Holmes, an Edenton native who has been living at Chappaqua, N. Y., for a good many years, renewed his subscription to The Herald and added this note: "Dear Buff: It is great to see Edenton go ahead. I was very much interested in the hospital addition. I hope sometime in the very near future to return to Edenton for a visit to see some of my friends. Here's hoping your wife will soon be better and that she can return home."

Then Mrs. Delsie Holland of Norfolk sent this brief letter: "Dearest Buff: Really do enjoy my Chowan Herald. It brings back a lot of memories. For the last several months I've watched for reports on Kate, who has been an inspiration to my husband and I. Please tell her that we will continue to pray for her and you. I understand the Chowan Kitchen printed a recipe for peanut pie. If anyone has a copy of this, I'd like very much to have it."

School Book Fair

The 1970 National Children's Book Week is November 15-21. In observance of this week, the librarian and student assistants of D. F. Walker Junior High School are sponsoring a book fair from November 16 through November 18.

The principal, librarian and student assistants invite all students, parents and visitors to attend the fair. Books will be on display in the Junior High Library from 8:30 A. M., to 4 P. M., Monday through Wednesday. Students will be able to browse and purchase books.

Maru Amburn is chairman of the book fair committee.

The book fair display will include attractive new books from many publishers in all popular price ranges.

Areas Are Judged

Oak Grove and Ryans Grove communities won first place in their categories in the judging of community accomplishments last Wednesday and therefore have an opportunity to be judged in the area contest.

The contest was sponsored by the Chowan County Extension Service and three out-of-town persons were the judges.

Oak Grove won first place in the category of large communities and Ryans Grove for small communities. Ten communities in Chowan County participated.

The area winner will be announced at the Albemarle Area Development Awards Banquet to be on December 4. Gov. Bob Scott will be the speaker for the occasion.

The communities were judged on home improvement, community improvement, youth work and increased income.

Judges were Miss Linda Peele of VEPCO in Elizabeth City, Willie Killian of VEPCO in Williamston and M. R. Coleman, Bertie County Agricultural Extension Agent.

Eight of the 10 communities that entered the contest won blue ribbons and the other two received red ribbons for achievement.

MAYOR BYRUM

Mayor Byrum stated the Vietnam veterans seldom make news, and no one calls them heroes, but yet they have given up their lives for us and our country.

"Today, we must not only pause to honor our veterans but must also realize the problems of our returning veterans from Vietnam. These men have left their families and jobs to serve and fight for our country. This coming year one million will return to civilian life, and between 30 to 40 thousand will return to North Carolina. These men and women will need jobs and the U. S. Department of Labor and the local employment offices will give full assistance to these veterans, but each of us must also help in any way we can. Ask yourself, says the Mayor, 'Can we ever repay in full the debt to the veterans of this nation?'"

In closing he commented, "Our veterans have served their country well, it is only right that we serve them as well."

GRAHAM PRAISES

in the state. The results have been something in which everybody concerned with Tar Heel agriculture can take pride."

"Hardly a county, of the 19 represented here, is not directly affected by watershed work. Of 17 projects, some multi-county and some single, 10 have been completed covering 282,256 acres. When all 17 have been approved and completed, the watershed area will total 654,917 acres," stated the speaker.

In closing Graham remarked, "Your work is voluntarism at its finest; you want to get a job done. You are more interested in solid accomplishments than in personal glory."

J. C. Dall of Greene County was recognized and presented a plaque for being the Conservation Farmer of the Year.

In the final portion of the meeting, area officers were elected. Elected were Lloyd C. Bunch, chairman; Arch J. Flanagan, vice-chairman; and A. B. Etheridge, secretary-treasurer.
