Annals On Sale
Annals were on sale for the last time Thursday and Friday. The annual costs $3.20. A down payment of $2.70 was required. Students may also have their names on the cover and get plastic covers for an additional price.

Magazine Sale
The annual staff and the senior class sponsored a magazine sale Wednesday through Sunday. The money raised will be used for the completion of the Edentonian and the rest goes to the seniors to defray graduation expenses. There were prizes given to the daily top salesman and to the overall top salesman.

S. A. T.

Last Saturday morning a group of sleepy and tired, but thinking John A. Holmes High School students traveled to Bertie High School or Elizabeth City State University to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test. The S. A. T. determines the score on the College Board Examination. Juniors and seniors take the test in the spring and the fall.

This test has become the fear of many students since one test may determine whether or not a person will be accepted by a college.

UNICEF

"Trick or Treat for Unicef" were the words mostly used by the Tri-Hi-Y members on Halloween night.

This year the club collected $52.23 for underprivileged children. Our thanks go to each one who contributed to the worthy cause.

Guidance Library

One of the major functions in the guidance department is the informational service, providing whatever information—educational, occupational, personal and social—that would benefit the student. In the past, primarily all informational material was located in the guidance office. Students now have five ways to obtain informational service: the guidance department, the study hall Guidance and Resource Library, the school library, the Shepard-Pruden

Public Library and the home-room teachers.

The newest feature added is the study hall Guidance Library and Resource Center. Approximately 400 students, who spend their time in study hall each day, can now browse through occupational, vocational, educational and personal - social information during their study periods. Materials include college catalogs, technical and vocational catalogs, private trade school information, military careers, health careers, financial aid, drug information and other varied materials. Efforts are being made to develop a comprehensive center that will include information on leisure-time activities, study habits and a special section dealing with community resources, including all College of the Albemarle student and adult programs and activities, and Elizabeth City State University student program and activities.

Vietnamese Slides

Slides of Vietnam were shown to fifth and sixth period classes last Friday by Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchener, III.

Mrs. Mitchener explained to the students and teachers how the Vietnamese celebrated Halloween and New Year. She also explained about their language and how one word can be used in many ways.

Mr. Mitchener explained thoroughly the important details of the slides. We thank Mr. and Mrs. Mitchener for their cooperation and time.

Aid For Retarded Comes From Area

Carey S. Fendley, executive director for the N. C. Association for Retarded Children, reports that the pace of the survey to locate inactive professionals is picking up in this area. Registration blanks are being completed and returned to the state office.

Additional people are needed to register with this project in order to more effectively serve our retarded and handicapped children and adults. "Those who have served in health related vocations, program managers, teachers and other professionals may register as potential employee-volunteers, in addition to persons with special skills and experience with time to offer," Fendley says.

The N. C. Association for Retarded Children wishes to express its appreciation to the teachers, nurses, social workers, housewives and businessmen who have thus far revealed their interest. They will be receiving interest forms shortly. Other concerned persons may request these applications by writing to NCARC, 801 Lawyers' Building, Raleigh, N. C. 27601.
