name. The "haves" are not important, however.

We have people who think progressive. We have people who can reason together. We have people who accept a challenge for what it is and go about getting a job done rather than dwell on it until they wear it out.

We have, here in the hub of the Albemarle, true North Carolinians. We are a people-conscious area, one which gets things done in spite of the things we don't have.

While Gov. Scott here we hope we will take a good look at what we have accomplished and a even stronger look at what is about to happen. His administration has gotten the Edenton by-pass and general improvements to U. S. 17 out of the conference room and either onto the drawing board or into the field.

From the way we read the maps which project the new Coastal Freeway, highway experts are about to defeat a portion of these progressive actions. This freeway needs to follow U. S. 17 from Virginia down through Elizabeth City. Furthermore, it needs to continue to follow U. S. 17, via the Edenton by-pass and not way out across Albemarle Sound. Gov. Scott will be talking to an organization, while poverty oriented, has done much in the field of total development, including transportation. Edenton's John A. Mitchener, Jr., has played a major role in this respect.

The AADA has showed signs of changing directions and becoming more in tune with its name—"area development." It is therefore entirely fitting that Gov. Scott, a total development advocate, be the speaker in Edenton, a total development-minded community.

HOG CHOLERA

Meanwhile, arrangements are being made to employ temporary livestock inspectors in the area. They will assist in surveillance of breeding herds, inspection of feeding and breeding swine prior to shipment, inspection of garbage feeding operations, and investigation of any sick animals found or reported.

Cleaning and disinfecting of trucks hauling swine to slaughter will be handled by packing plant employees under the supervision of the U. S. Veterinary Meat Inspector. In addition, a herd owner reporting system is planned to operate through county agents.

Pete Thompson, Chowan County extension chairman, has praised the high degree of cooperation displayed by state-federal teams and farmers. He said this is one reason hog cholera eradication efforts in the area had succeeded.

At a recent meeting in Chesapeake, state and federal animal health officials discussed remaining problem areas. They are: the pregnant syndrome, garbage feeding, and importation of infected breeding and feeding swine.

Interstate and intrastate regulations on the movement of feeder and breeder swine in formerly quarantined areas of the two states will remain in force to preclude importing or exporting of the disease.

It has been indicated the problem area in Virginia and North Carolina should be completely cleaned up by June, 1971, if no large outbreaks occur in the interim.

Heard & Seen "By Buff"

That in the midst of life there is death was again demonstrated just the other day when the life was suddenly snuffed out of a sweet very young lady, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Flanagan. Though in my case, except for a miracle, death was imminent for quite a while, in the Flanagan death it was so very sudden and unexpected. However, we must remember that the Book tells us that "it is appointed unto man once to die" and that no one knows the hour. Life is so full of mysteries that we do not understand, but it is comforting to know that it is His will that must be done and that all things worketh together for good for those who love the Lord. With so many friends who have extended their sympathy for me, I want to join the many friends who, too, have expressed their sympathy and condolence to the Flanagan family.

Which reminds me of a brief poem sent to me by William and Marie Chesson.

OUR SINCERE SYMPATHY

Remember you are not alone,
God watches over all.
He sees our needs, He knows our hearts,
He answers to our call,
He strengthens us when we are weak;
When courage is almost gone
He comforts us in His own way,
And helps us carry on.

And another timely poem by Winifred S. Bradley follows:

THE NEW BIRTH

Oh it's springtime and there's joy in my heart today;
I've found nature's secret to share along life's way.
In discovering just how all creation does begin,
I've learned that nature and I are in a manner quite akin.

Out of death comes life: the saga begins to unfold,
Each gives up life for another—wondrous to behold!
From the tiniest little insect to the strutting turkey cock,
The story continues onward until you find the Rock.

The similarity there continues, in that each man must die;
Yet, in his external appearance, he lives on, not knowing why.
His spirit, like a tree in December, has lost the living leaf,
With starkness and soul shriveled, a feeling like unto grief.

But, oh, dear friend, I said, until you find the rock,
This makes the glorious difference, God's word you cannot mock.
"I am come that they might have life" Jesus promised to all,
And by God's grace I know it's true, I've heard His call.

Then came that deluge of tears when the dregs of me flowed down,
I was cleansed with Jesus' blood for new life in me to abound.
Now, dear friend, have you learned of God's way o'er all the earth?
The plan is that first we must die before we may know the new birth.

This is a reminder that the Men's Club of the Methodist Church will hold another pickled herring breakfast at the church Saturday morning. Breakfast will be served from 7 to 9 o'clock and the "cooks" and "waiters" will be on hand to see that everybody gets enough to eat. Just put a buck on the plate and eat all you want.

On Monday night, December 7, the Albemarle Choral Society and College of the Albemarle will present another Christmas concert at Edenton Baptist Church. This will not be like some of the so-called "music" we hear over radio and television, but rather a program of inspiring real music which nobody should miss.

And speaking about wholesome entertainment, recently a large group of young people from various churches gathered in the local Methodist Church and presented a program under the direction of Rev. Askew of Elizabeth City which delighted everyone present. With more of such groups of teenagers engaged in this kind of activity, there should be little reason for so much unrest among this fine group of young Americans.

Building Activity

Six building permits, totaling $62,750 in construction costs, were issued last month by the Town of Edenton. This is contained in the monthly report of activities by Sam Long, building inspector.

The permits included one for moving a dwelling, two for repair and addition to residences, and three new residences.

During the past month, Long conducted 72 inspections.

Hart Flanagan; and her paternal grandfather, John Flanagan of Millis, Mass.

She was a popular student at John A. Holmes High School and a member of Edenton Baptist Church.

Pallbearers were Elliott Harrell, Mike Covington, Dillard Dixon, Charles Swanner, Bobby Johnson, Michael Curzin, G. B. Daniel and Jim Elliott.

Colonial Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Elmore Promoted In Belk Group

Alton G. Elmore, manager of Belk Tyler in Edenton for nearly nine years, has been promoted to the post of merchandise manager at the firm's Goldsboro store. He will work with Ed Hunter, manager, who was recently transferred from Williamston.

At the same time it was announced that George Moore, assistant manager of Belk Tyler in Ahoskie would move to Edenton to replace Elmore. Moore earlier was in Williamston and has been with the company for 20 years.

These and other changes within the Belk Tyler group were brought about by the retirement of Sam Hocutt of Goldsboro, who was with the company for 50 years. His son, Sam, Jr., has been named manager in Williamston.

The firm's Goldsboro store is the second largest in the 16-store group.

The changes are effective January 10, 1971.

Elmore has been a leader in civic, community and church activities since he came to Edenton in February, 1962, from Rocky Mount. He is a past president of the Edenton Chamber of Commerce and is holder of the Jaycee Distinguished Service Award.

Seeks Volunteers

Volunteers are now undergoing training for a new service program at Chowan Hospital. The Volunteer Services program will begin January 4, 1971, according to an announcement by Mrs. W. J. P. Earnhardt, Jr., president of the hospital auxiliary and Mrs. Thomas M. Surratt, administrator.

The volunteers are being headed by Mrs. Edward G. Bond and Mrs. Scott Harrell. They will have training sessions during the weeks of December 7 through December 19.

These workers will be on duty at the hospital seven days a week between the hours of 9 A. M., and 11:30 A. M.; 1:30 P. M., and 4 P. M.; and 6:30 P. M., and 8 P. M. They will wear cherry-red smocks and name tags.

Mrs. Earnhardt said the volunteers, substitutes and other interested persons should contact Mrs. Bond, 482-3736 or Mrs. Harrell, 482-3720 for training and general instruction.

Additional volunteer workers are badly needed for evenings and weekends, according to Mrs. Earnhardt. Those interested are asked to contact the chairmen.

Adult Course Set

A college transfer course, General Psychology 201, will be offered in Edenton by the College of the Albemarle during the winter quarter, 1970-71.

The class will meet each Monday evening from 7-10 o'clock beginning Monday, at the John A. Holmes High School. Those interested in taking the course may call the Learning Lab in Edenton, 482-4745, or the College of the Albemarle in Elizabeth City, 335-0821, Extension 251.

The cost of the three quarter-hour credit course will be $9. Registration and payment of tuition fees will be at the first class meeting.

The instructor for the course will be Rev. George B. Holmes.

The course emphasizes psychology as a science of behavior; man as a biological organism in a social world; man as a motivated person with attitudes, emotions, needs and desires; and man as a thinking, imagining, reasoning, learning person.

Survey Successful

Miss Barbara Wells, project assistant for the N. C. Association for Retarded Children, reports that response to the survey to locate inactive professionals interested in future work with the mentally retarded has been very successful.

There have been 350 registration blanks sent to the Raleigh office from Northeastern North Carolina and they are still coming in. Those who complete registration forms are sent a checklist of ways in which they may help the retarded.

Miss Wells explained that identifying these inactive professionals will assist in the establishment of programs for the retarded.

School Lunchroom Prices Increase

One day after returning from the Thanksgiving holiday break, many students in Edenton-Chowan Schools faced a five-cent hike in lunch prices.

The board of education recently approved a new policy agreement with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, effective Tuesday. Under the old policy the paid lunch price was set at a level that would give the unit an advantage of a high reimbursement rate from the USDA. The reimbursement rate will be lowered under the new policy and this necessitates a price increase for paid lunches.

The new price is 30 cents for elementary lunches and 35 cents for high school lunches.

"The school food service program is a very important part of the school days," according to Supt. Bill Britt. He has encouraged parents to permit their children to participate in the program.

He said the program is designed to provide nutritious lunches to all students at reasonable prices and free and reduced-price lunches to those children unable to pay the full price.

"In the belief that every school-age child should have an adequate lunch, it is the policy of Edenton-Chowan Board of Education that free or reduced price lunches shall be served to those children determined to be eligible," he recently informed parents.

Parents have received a family-size income scale to be used to determine eligibility.
