

Owl Hoots and Screeches . . .

By MRS. NELLIE M. SANDERS
Director Fetting Regional Library

Heck Is National Library Week?" as follows:
It's show time for thousands of people who've been working all year for you:
By getting you more and better libraries.

For your edification.
For your enjoyment.
And better yet, for the kids.

They work on committees. Or they work alone.
Whether it's Gregory Peck, who makes an NLW radio spot.

Bill Berbach, who writes an ad.
Hubert Humphrey, stumping for libraries in his state.
Or the President, speaking out for libraries across the nation.

The National Library Week program brings people together:

To work for the common good. For your mind. And what goes into it.

To make sure you have free access to books. And to information in all media.

That's what the heck National Library Week is.

The longest week of the year. Beginning April 18-24. And going right on till next year. And on, till the job gets done.

It's brought to you by the National Book Committee (the people who bring you those great debates over authors; the National Book Awards).

And by the American Library Association. $5,000 more information pros.

Who want to see you happy and smart.

And on top of the times.

SCREECHES
You've got a right to read. 365 days of the year. Don't blow it!

National Library Week—Every year at about this time during the spring one week is designated as a special week of emphasis on libraries and still we haven't got the message across, so that National Book Committee has prepared some answers to the inevitable question "What the
