Public Parade

Memorial Day, 1971

Down the corridors of time comes the memory of brave men—the many who throughout our nation's history, have given their all, sacrificed their very lives for honor, home and country. Their acts, their courage and their beliefs are ever an inspiration.

Those servicemen from along the Public Parade and throughout North-eastern North Carolina who, in more recent times, have fought and died in the cause of freedom are part of this noble company. On Memorial Day, we reflect upon their deeds with deep respect and lasting gratitude. And proudly, we salute them.

This red, white and blue page is our contribution this week to efforts of Edenton Jaycees to draw attention to the importance of Memorial Day and in an effort to rekindle the spirit of patriotism across the land.

To those who come to meander along the Public Parade for the first time we say "Welcome"; to those who are returning for a second, third or fourth time, we say you are showing good judgment; to those who meander here be it permanently or regularly, we say get involved in things such as this Memorial Weekend Air Festival.

In this diversion from normal journalistic practice we illustrate our determination to go the second mile, not being halted by tradition, etc. But when it comes to patriotism we are old fashioned as our forefathers now appear to have been.

We are not ashamed of America. We still get an unexplainable tickle in our throat when Old Glory passes by. And the "Star Spangled Banner" sounds good to us even when played by the worse individual musician or group of musicians.

To those who gave their all—it can best be expressed by saying a simple: "You done good!"
