Jublic Parade

Sunday Date For Kids

Sunday afternoon is the time set along the Public Parade and throughout the four-county health district for Rubella clinics. Efforts are being made to vaccinate every child in the district against measles.

Teams have been operating in the schools this week but some children may have been missed. These, along with pre-school children, can receive the free vaccine at Sunday's clinic at the health department here between the hours of 12:30 P. M. and 3:30 P. M.

If you have a child 12 years of age or under, you have a responsibility to see that he is immunitized against Sunday afternoon is the #### Operation Santa Claus Needs You!

Extended efforts are being made along the Public Parade to make sure patients at Cherry Hospital and Caswell Center are remembered this Christmas. It's a good project and one being directed by two tireless workers—Mrs. Bernie Baker and Mrs. Jack Harris.

There are many patients from Chowan County in the two institutions who might not receive gifts at Christmas time if they are not remembered by homefolks. Approximately 1,113 new gifts must be provided for both children and adults who remain on campus without family during the holiday season. The help of the general public is necessary to assure the patients from this county have a Merry Christmas. Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Harris are asking that gifts from individuals and organizations be brought to Bank of North Carolina or Chowan Agricultural Extension Office in the County Office Building on East King Street. The deadline is December 13, for on that date the ladies will take them to Caswell Center in Kinston.

Too, any person interested in going along to help wrap the gifts or who desire additional information can call Mrs. Baker at 482-4909 or Mrs. Harris at 482-4815. And if you cannot get your gifts to the two locations in Edenton, a call to either number will bring Santa's helper to your door.

Operation Santa Claus needs your help between now and December 13. Those confined to the two centers can't help themselves. But you can help make this the best Christmas possible under the circumstances.

Extra Benefits From Taxes

Albemarle Law & Order Association (ALOA), the 10-county law enforcement fraternity, is doing a splendid job of upgrading county and municipal departments in Northeastern North Carolina. Funds funneled through this organization are being put to good use by the departments along the Public ALOA funding is an excellent example of federal taxes being plowed back into local government in an area where maximum benefits can be accrued for all the citizenry.

The Law and Order Committee of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources has given permission to the Chowan County Sheriff's Department to purchase a patrol vehicle with funds from a Standard Operational Equipment grant approved by the committee earlier this year. This means a 1968 model vehicle with some 100,000 miles on the speedometer can be retired in favor of a new cruiser at a cost of only about $1,000 to the county. Such a trade would give the department two new vehicles and a third cruiser which is in good condi-

Concert Is Sunday

The 1971 season of special Christmas music will be ushered in by a series of sectional concerts featuring soloists and choristers from the three divisions of the Albemarle Choral Society and the East Carolina University String

The first concert will be given in the Edenton Baptist Church Sunday at 4 P. M., and the second on Monday at 8 P. M., in the College of The Albemarle auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend the concert nearest

The program will open with two selections for string orchestra. These selections will be followed by a shortened version of Handel's famous choral work, "The Messiah" with string orchestra and organ accompaniment sung by the choral society and members of the Northeastern High School Chorus, who will assist in several selections.

The East Carolina String Ensemble, composed of faculty and graduate students at the University include: Prof. Paul Topper, director; Joan Bath, Linda Gibson and Mary Richards, violinists; Nancy Chappell, viola; Barbara Smith, cello and Sherry Jones, bass viol.

In keeping with the choral society's goal to provide experience in major concerted music works to soloists as well as choristers, the following will sing solo passages in the two sectional concerts: Fred Ashley, J. ## Crime Prevention Center Proposed

Albemarle Law & Order Association (ALOA) will conduct a seminar on Crime Prevention and Public Education along with a proposal to establish an Edenton-Chowan Judicial Center here Friday. The meeting will be held in the Police Science Conference Room in the Municipal Building, beginning at 10

The seminar and preliminary plans for the judicial center have been arranged by Sheriff Troy Toppin, Police Chief J. D. Parrish and Mrs. Lane Kinion, supervisory board member of the felony upon his 15-year-old daugh-state. Judge Walker agreed.

Melvin Bunch of Elizabeth City, ALOA executive, will direct the pro-

The proposed center would place major emphasis on leisure-type activities for children and youth as well as educational involvement. It would be a separate organization, not connected with any existing agency. It would be staffed by a full-time director and several skilled part-time workers. Some of the activities would be mobile so that all services possible could be met in various parts of the county and town. An educational media center would be included to offer voluntary services to the schools and adults for educational involvement in the system of law and order.

Checking Equipment—Thomas A. Bateman, head of Norfolk & Carolina Telephone Company's exchange in Edenton, is shown checking some of the modern equipment used by the company.

Telephone Company In Middle Of Improvement Plan

New telephone exchange buildings at Woodville and Piney Woods, an addition at Mamie; new, replaced, or re-arranged microwave towers at Manteo, Waves, Buxton, Elizabeth City, Hertford, Welch, Coinjock and Corolla; new cable snaking overhead and buried along innumerable new and "beefed up" routes; reduced mileage charges for many rural residents; — these are some of the visible and obvious results of the most ambitious program ever attempted by The Norfolk & Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Company. In an 18-month period it will spend in excess of $3.5-million in its service area from the Chowan River to Hatteras

The aims of its program are (1) re-uction of mileage charges for those ving distant from exchanges, (2) add to an improve microwave routes, and

(3) generally cover the never-ending demand for telephone service throughout virtually every corner of its service

To reduce mileage charges, more efficiently add telephone subscribers, and allow one and two-party service, several approaches were used.

Woodville Exchange — A new exchange will be cut over December 19, with its central office in the Woodville Community, serving eastern Perquim-ans and western Pasquotank counties. With approximately 800 subscribers, this exchange will have toll-free calling, or extended area service (EAS) with all Albemarle Metro; only one and two-party service will be offered within the base rate area (area with no mileage charges), and only one, two, and four-party service will be offered in its more distant reaches. Base rates will be the same, but many subscribers' bills will be less for mileage, since they are now being served from Elizabeth City, Hertford, or Weeksville, which are more distant. With central office costs of $159,-000 and outside costs of $195,000, the new exchange will cost in excess of $355,000.

Piney Woods Exchange - A new exchange will be cut over December 19, with its central office west of Hickory Crossroads, serving Hickory, Hobbsville, Joppa, Nicanor, Snow Hill, Belvidere, and other areas of north Perquimans County. With more than 600 subscribers, this exchange will have the same EAS area, rates, and service offerings as Woodville, but in addition it will which is jointly served by this company which is jointly serve by this company and Carolina Telephone & Telegraph
