DAISY FACE

The little English daisies are perfect with pansies.

English daisies, while really perennials, are most satisfactory in the garden if treated as annuals.

Why? Because unless growing conditions in your garden precisely suit their requirements, they will not winter satisfactorily and you'll be disappointed when you see bare spaces in spring where you had plants in fall.

Seeds of English daisies may be sown at 3 different times of year, depending on where you live and how you will use the plants.

Sow in June or July for winter flowers in a greenhouse; in late August for late winter bloom outdoors in the South, spring flowers in the North. Or start in Spring!

Seeds can be sown indoors for earlier flowers, outdoors for later ones but, if covered with soil more than one sixteenth of an inch deep, germination will be poor.

Transplant or thin indoors when an inch tall so that plants left are 3 inches apart. Move them outdoors when frost danger is past.

If you wish a solid mass of color, space daisy plants 6 inches apart.

Combine them with pansies or forget-me-nots or both for unusual effects.

New State Pesticide Law In Effect

Farmers and a large segment of the agricultural business community will be operating under a new set of pesticide rules this farming season.

The N. C. Pesticide Law of 1971, laboriously hammered out by the last session of the General Assembly, became effective in October, and the practical effects will begin to be felt as the farming season begins.

One key provision of the law, that requiring licensing of pesticide dealers and applicators, will be phased in on June 1. This is the deadline for making application for the license and paying the $25 licensing fee to the N. C. Department of Agriculture.

The N. C. Pesticide Board delayed the deadline from January 1, 1972, to provide more time for details to be completed for handling the licensing procedure.

Affected are those pesticide dealers and applicators who deal with "restricted use" pesticides. Dr. Gerald Weekman, in charge of extension entomology at N. C. State University, said formulation of the "restricted use" list is nearing completion.

Under the new law, the term "pesticide dealer" does not apply to those individuals or firms whose sales of pesticides are limited to products in small packages labeled and intended only for home and garden use and are not on the list of restricted pesticides.

The term "applicator" in the new law refers to persons who own or manage a pesticide application business. It includes any person who does custom application on a fore-hire basis. It doesn't include those who operate and maintain applicator equipment for their own use.

Pesticide consultants must also be licensed. These are professionals who advise clients on the use of pesticides on a paid consultant basis. These consultants have until January 1, 1973, to apply for licensing.

Although formal applications for licenses can't be accepted until the "restricted use" pesticide list is finalized and other work is completed, the Pesticide Division of NODA in Raleigh is accepting requests for application forms and has announced that applications will be mailed to applicants as soon as preliminary work is completed.

Senator Jordan Reports

WASHINGTON—Debate began Friday on the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The amendment under discussion states that "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

I am a co-sponsor of this measure because I have long felt that men and women should be granted equal rights under the law. In fact I co-sponsored it during the last Congress as well and was very disappointed that final action was not taken on it then.

Although I am not a lawyer or a Constitutional expert, it is my feeling that the Equal Rights Amendment has been carefully thought out and written with the best interests of all citizens in mind—whether they be male or female.

The Constitutional Amendments Subcommittee added some amendments to the measure when reporting it to the Senate Judiciary Committee but I was pleased that the Judiciary Committee voted to send the proposal to the Senate floor without amendments of any kind.

Although a large number of senators have pledged their support for the Equal Rights Amendment, the probability of its passage is still uncertain due to efforts to add extra amendments once again to the main proposal.

I have stated repeatedly my support for the Equal Rights Amendment in the form which I have co-sponsored. Therefore I will not vote either for any weakening amendments which would nullify its effectiveness or for any unrelated amendments which would make it unacceptable to the Senate-House conference committee or to the states.

The time for action on this amendment is long overdue and I am going to do everything I can to see that the Senate joins the House of Representatives in affirming its view that women should have equal rights with men under the law.

Green Thumb Tips

One of the newest stoop-savers in gardening is seed embedded in water-soluble tape. Seeds are accurately spaced according to kind.

The gardener need only open a trench in previously-prepared soil, lay the tape in the bottom, cover to the depth given in the directions on the package, and firm soil to tape.

Rain or artificial water will dissolve the tape, leaving seeds in place, ready to grow.

Gardeners who have trouble after eating cucumbers should grow the kind named Burpless. Its low acid content allows anyone to indulge and yet be comfortable afterward.

In speaking of beans, why do people always say "green" beans? There also are yellow beans (more commonly known as "wax" beans) and purple-podded beans which turn green when cooked.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express a sincere thank you to the doctors and nurses for the expert and wonderful care I received while I was a patient at Chowan Hospital. A warm thanks to the ministers of several churches who prayed for and visited me during my hospitalization and to all my friends who also prayed, visited, sent cards and flowers. Your kindness will always be remembered.

NOLAN B. TOPPIN.

It's A Fact!
What's the weather like? Is it warm, balmy, delightful, or cold, wet and miserable?
It matters little, you know, because no matter what meteorological conditions exist at the moment, this fact remains unalterable:
IT'S SPRING!
That's right! Scientifically, it's been that way since Monday. Can Summer be far away?
