

Course Planned For Policemen

The Adult Education Division of College of the Albemarle announces that a "Police - Community Relations Training" course will be held for law enforcement personnel September 11-15 at the Elizabeth City Police Academy.

The purpose is to provide further professional training in law enforcement. Emphasis will be placed on the essential social and human dimensions of police work. The practical approach will provide an understanding of the nature and causes of complex problems of people-to-people relationships and will stress ways to improve these relationships.

The course will be planned to meet the specific needs of this community. Leadership for the programs will include police officers who specialize in police-community relations, a police attorney, and persons skilled in group behavior and interpersonal relations. For further information, contact the College of the Albemarle Adult Education Division.

Local Boy Make Good In Jazzrock Trio

By FLYNN SURRETT
Many a youngster buys his first guitar or trap set with the hopes of one day having a break and playing professionally in a band. Relatively few receive that desired opportunity, especially in a town the size of Edenton.

Recently a member of this community was fortunate in getting just that sort of break. Martin Parker, somewhat of a veteran drummer, moved to Detroit, Mich., to embark on what could be the beginning of a fruitful career in music.

He'll be playing with the Howard Hanger Trio, a jazz-rock group with their base recently shifted from Atlanta, Ga., to Detroit.

The trio, specializing in contemporary worship, is headed by pianist Howard Hanger, who is an ordained Methodist minister. During July he was the guest resource person for the annual conference session of the N. C. Conference Methodist Youth Fellowship held in Fayetteville. Martin was among three youths from Edenton asked to play as back-up for Hanger during the week-long conference.

Consequently, Martin was later contacted to travel to Montreat in the North Carolina mountains to play in another conference. During the engagement at Montreat, he was approached by two other trio members and invited to join them in Michigan. As he later stated, he was both delighted and frightened by what lay ahead. Actually, Hanger will have a second group and Martin will start with that one, working into the trio as he learns how the band operates. Aside from live performances, they will also be doing studio recordings.

As for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Parker, his father stated that they were sad to see him go, but if it is what he wants to do, and sees this as a great opportunity, they are behind him 100 per cent.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank our many friends for all acts of kindness rendered to us during our time of bereavement. The food, flowers, visits and other tokens of love helped tremendously. Your prayers helped to sustain us during this sad time.

JESSE HELMS: A CITIZEN-SENATOR

"Jesse Helms is not one of your back-slapping, hand-wringing, affable garden variety political office seekers." — Virginian Pilot 7/2/72

A few years ago, a high school senior at Salemburg wrote Jesse Helms expressing her contempt for the campus riots then going on.

She wished she could go to college, she said. But her father was sick. The family didn't have the money. What a shame, she thought, that unruly young people should toss away opportunity when they had it.

Jesse Helms is no man to sit back and let nature take its course. He got on the telephone and talked to a few friends around the state. In a couple of days, he had raised enough money to send that young girl to college. She isn't the only deserving kid either who got to go to college because Jesse Helms put out his hand to help when help was badly needed.

That's Jesse Helms. All his life he has worked to make things better than he found them. Don't you think we could use a man like that in the U. S. Senate?
