Rural Environmental Assistance Program

Farmers desiring to carry out needed conservation practices this fall should file their requests now in the county ASCS office. One of the most used fall practices is winter cover crops. Winter cover crops protect cropland against wind and water erosion during the winter months. Winter cover crops can be grazed consistently with good management. Farm operators are urged to study their conservation needs and if cover crops are needed, they should file a request for cost-share assistance through the REAP Program. A request must be filed before the practice is started to receive assistance. Other practices are also available to carry out conservation needs on the farm.

an annual percentage rate of 5.52 per cent. Farmers make application for loans at the county ASCS office that maintains the farm record for the farm to which the loan application relates. Loans of less than $10,000 may be approved by the County ASC Committee. Loans of $10,000 or over require approval of the State ASC Committee. Producers in need of additional farm storage should file their application as soon as possible in order to have the storage space needed for this year's crop.

Farm Storage and Drying Equipment Loans
Loans up to 85 per cent of the net cost are available to producers for purchasing grain storage facilities and necessary drying equipment. The term of these loans is five years with four annual installments. The first installment is due one year from the date of disbursement. The interest rate is 46 cents per month for each whole unit of $100 or fraction thereof. This is equivalent to

REVIVAL SPEAKER—A revival is now in progress at the First Assembly of God of Edenton. Rev. Bill Strickland of Montgomery, Ala., is the guest minister. Services begin nightly at 7:30 o'clock with special singing each night by Mr. and Mrs. Strickland and local church talent. The revival will continue through September 10, with services each night except Saturday. Rev. William Tyn-dall is the pastor.

Producers who participated in the 1972 feed grain program are reminded that they are eligible for a loan on the 1972 crop of corn at $1.22 per bushel. Corn produced on a non-participating farm cannot be mixed with corn produced on a participating farm as that would make all the corn ineligible for a loan. Loans are available to all 1972 soybeans producers. The price support rate for 1972 soybeans is $2.28 per bushel.

Reminder
Tobacco producers should examine their marketing cards and bill of sale after each sale to see if the sale was correctly recorded. If an error is found, they should bring their cards and bill of sale to the ASCS office so that the proper corrections can be made. The penalty rate for marketing tobacco in excess of 110 per cent of the farm's quota this year is 58 cents per pound.

SERVICE HIGHLIGHTED WITH SPECIAL SINGING—Music played an important part in the camp revival. A good singing voice or lack of one didn't make any difference in the spirit of the music.

CONGREGATION GATHERS FOR EVENING WORSHIP—People trickled in throughout the beginning of the evening worship service. About 200 people attended the Thursday night program.

GOOD FOOD AND CONVERSATION—Lunch provided time to enjoy a good meal as well as meet newcomers, discuss the morning service and talk about other topics of the day at Happy Home Camp Meetings.

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

WASHINGTON — My concerns about the interim agreement on the limitation of strategic offensive weapons and my support of a policy to place the United States at least on a parity with the Soviet Union in respect to our deterrent have been stated in a previous column.

Since there are many misconceptions about our military posture and the need to modernize our weapons systems, I think this matter bears further discussion. It is evident that we have come to a cross-roads in our defense policy. Either we will take the necessary steps to insure the survivability of our country or we shall have to endure blackmail at the convenience of other powers or even worse.

Many today voice sentiments which seem to evidence more faith in Russia than in our own government. With respect to defense they cite old arguments which one would have thought were entirely discredited on December 7, 1941. They tell us anew that we have some mythical superiority arising out of geography and our bases and that these will protect us from nuclear attack. They say that we need fear no nation because we have an abundance of weapons. They advise that we have more important concerns than defense and besides there is the prospect that money will be wasted for any new weapons system.

They place less emphasis on the solemn obligation resting on the Congress to act, in a sense, as watchman on the ramparts. To a degree they bury their heads in the sands like the ostrich hoping our security will never be challenged. The sad fact is that we still live in a perilous world and anyone who ignores that truth will ultimately pay the price.

I feel very deeply about this matter. Our lives, our fortunes, our freedoms are involved in the decisions we make on this issue. The fact is that the only purpose which this country has in maintaining a strong defense posture is to insure that the free world can survive.

It is strange but there is a school of thought that evidences faith that Russia always has good intentions. Once it was argued when we had a vast nuclear superiority that we could promote peace by giving that country nuclear parity. It is significant that Russia only agreed to an arms limitation when the agreement allowed it a superiority in numbers of submarines and intercontinental ballistic missiles. Now it is urged by some senators that we ought not be concerned about that and we ought not declare it to be the policy of the nation to insure that any permanent arms limitation will give the United States equality in these categories.

All this leads me to say that we had better not ignore the lessons of history.

Rep. Walter Jones Reports...

Last week the Congress was in recess due to the Republican National Convention and will return on September 5. So, this week I will attempt to list some of the bills considered by the 92nd Congress thus far, which I hope is of some interest to the First District.

1. Rural Development Act of 1972. This creates a comprehensive program to improve job opportunities, income and the quality of life in rural America. This, we hope will help stem the tide of out-migration which is happening in far too many of the counties of the First District during the past 20 years.

2. Military Selective Service Act. Extends the Presidential authority through June 30, 1973. This also gives the President discretionary authority over student deferments, which he decided not to continue.

3. The House passed legislation dealing with obscene mail. This legislation defined obscene matter that no longer could be mailed to minors under 17 years of age. At one time, many of you were sending me this objective material, so I can only conclude that since this Congressional action, it has been to some degree curtailed.

4. Of interest to the ladies is the Congressional approval of a constitutional amendment which states, "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

5. In an effort to deal with the ever-growing problem of drug abuse, legislation was approved to create a Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention in the executive office of the President. This is designed to coordinate all federal drug abuse programs, with the exception of those in the law enforcement field, and authorizes slightly more than $1 billion through fiscal 1975 to provide research funds and state grants to cope with this most important problem.

6. In other areas of health, the 92nd Congress approved the National Heart, Blood Vessel, Lung and Blood Act. This creates a 23-member advisory council to make recommendations for large research and training grants and to make a serious attack on this national problem.

7. This session also provided the President with legislation to assist the executive branch in dealing with the problem of inflation; this was known as the "Wage and Price Control Act."

8. In the field of Social Security, an increase of 20 per cent was approved to become effective October 1, 1972.

9. Several bills were passed dealing with the environment and the problem of pollution. Among these was the Water Pollution Control Act which provides funds for grants to local governments for construction of water treatment facilities.

10. One of the most controversial bills approved by the House was "revenue sharing" in which direct grants will go to state and local governments over and above any now in existence. This, at a cost of $30 billion over the next five years.
