

Bandon Notebook By Mrs. Eleanor F. Jackson

Sunday School Guiders
The slate of officers brought in by the nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Willie N. Waters, chairman, Clarence S. Barnes, Watson V. Blanchard and Gus H. Perry, was unanimously approved Tuesday night by the sizeable audience. Those elected will serve from October to October. Unless you've a super memory, you might save this:

Class Teachers, Evelyn Tise; Patricia Rountree and Louise Waters, assistants.

For Church Guidance
Deacons: Clarence S. Barnes, three years; G. Douglas Tise, two years; Watson V. Blanchard, H. Truston Bunting, Gus H. Perry, one year. Pulpit Committee: Clarence S. Barnes, Watson V. Blanchard, Alfred J. Church and Gus H. Perry. Trustees: Clarence S. Barnes, H. Truston Bunting and Garris B. Perry. Bandon Chapel Women's Guild: Grace Schie, chairman.

Their Day On The Town
The Bandon Chapel Women's Guild, having worked and reaped its reward in a most successful bazaar last August, went en masse to "The Pottery" in Light Foot, Williamsburg, Va., yesterday. There's sure to be a story which may be printable next week. Actually they hadn't even gone when this went to press. Anyhow, those women will meet today at the chapel from 11 A. M. to 3 P. M. and talk over the treat they will have given themselves yesterday.

Something To Sing About
Rev. Bennie Crawford, Edenton, retired, will deliver a sermon this Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at Bandon Chapel and ordain three of the newly elected men. Communion will be offered to all as has been the custom every first Sunday. Mr. Crawford has a fine long record of Christian service. To name a few of the churches where he has ministered are Macedonia Baptist Church, Chowan County; Cool Spring Baptist Church, Gates County; Bethany Baptist Church, Norfolk, Va. He has helped organize many churches. This is an occasion for old friends to re-join him and for new friends to be made.

Dr. William John Bryant Livingston of Yorktown, Va., visited Bandon Chapel last May and will again preach the sermon on Sunday morning, October 8, at 11 o'clock.

It's probably remembered that Dr. Livingston is a native of North Carolina a graduate of Davidson College and Presbyterian Theological Seminary; has pastored churches in Virginia and West Virginia been supply minister to Simonsdale Presbyterian Church, Portsmouth, and also ministered at First Presbyterian Church, Hampton.

Having met, talked with and listened to his previous sermon, this is sure to be an event which nothing, or almost nothing, should allow anyone to miss.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 A. M., and is over by 10:45, so during the 15 minutes following, there's a pleasant opportunity every Sunday to gather into Fellowship Hall for informal visiting and simple refreshment.

Crossroads Of Aging

By JACQUELINE RICKS
Supervisor, Program on Aging

There is a need for additional homemaker services in the area if adequate in-home services are to be provided to the aged to remain in their own homes. Homemaker service provides help with personal needs and household tasks that the older person cannot manage alone. A few of the specific services that a homemaker can provide are help in planning and preparing meals, assistance in routine household cleaning, help with care of clothing, assistance in household budgeting, providing bedside care of the type usually provided by a member of the family, accompanying to medical facilities, grocery store, etc., and assistance in locating and participating in neighborhood and community activities.

These services now are only provided to eligible older people through county departments of social service. Approximately one-third of the counties in North Carolina have homemakers to work in the adult social service program. In the 10 counties of the Albemarle only two of the counties have homemakers.

There is a demonstrated need for additional homemaker service in the area. In working toward the expansion of homemaker service, it should be remembered that the initiative for starting the program must come from the county social service department concerned. Local community leaders and agencies can help by pointing up the need and lending their support for homemaker service programs for older people in their county.

The homemaker service needs also to be expanded to include older persons with a need whether eligible for social service benefits or not. Another service provided by social service departments is attendant care. Attendant care refers to those personnel services and aids in daily living which enable an elderly or disabled person to remain at home rather than going into group care. Attendant care is available to recipients of aid to aged or disabled who otherwise would have to go into group care. In most cases attendant care is on a part time basis. One attendant may serve two persons. Frequently the attendant is a nearby neighbor.

Duties an attendant may need to perform are assistance with getting out of bed and dressing, with shaving and bathing, meal preparation and eating, light household tasks and with errands or grocery shopping. Funds for this service are provided by county social service departments to the public assistance recipients in need of attendant care. The maximum allowable for attendant care is $110 per month.

Again there is need for expansion of attendant care services to other older persons with the need for such services not receiving public assistance payments.

Breakfast Is Important
We need more than 45 different nutrients for good nutrition and health. Different people need different amounts of each nutrient depending on age, size, sex and physical activities. We get these nutrients by eating a variety of foods each day. But breakfast is an important first source of these nutrients each day.

Although many foods can be eaten in the morning, a quick-to-fix breakfast that helps provide many of the 45 or more nutrients is citrus juice or fruit, cereal with milk, toast with butter or margarine and milk to drink.
