

Well, it is time to surrender that hour of sleep gained back in October. Sunday marks the return to Daylight Savings Time.

At 2 A.M. Sunday it will be necessary to turn your clocks forward one hour. But for those wanted to keep pace with time without staying up all hours of the night to do so, we have seen nothing which prohibits you from doing the clock-turning bit before you retire.

In the past this writer has been a miserable failure when it comes to giving advice on times. We have managed to foul up Halloween, Christmas parades, and yes, even have people going to church after the benediction.

This year, however, we are reporting with better authority—the weekly bulletin from Immanuel Baptist Church. Rev. Paul Hawkins is suggesting to members of his congregation that they wait until after Sunday School and morning worship services to tamper with the time; turning forward their watches in unison.

Titles Are Cheap

The Chowan Herald has been given a "sports editor" and this writer has been given a new title. And it all started up in Rocky Mount.

Henry Thorpe & Associates, Inc., sent out a news release appearing elsewhere in today's edition, addressing it to Bill Cozart as "sports editor" of The Herald. He passed it along to us with the assistant sports editorship.

We don't know whether Mr. Cozart was elated or offended. But we learned a long time ago that titles are cheap.

Toward Better Government

The General Assembly of North Carolina will begin annual sessions in January, 1974. The effects these sessions will have on state government are unknown, yet we believe it will strengthen the legislative process.

Annual sessions will bring about many changes. Not the least of these will be the necessity for Secretary of State Thad Eure to put together the voluminous North Carolina Manual every year.

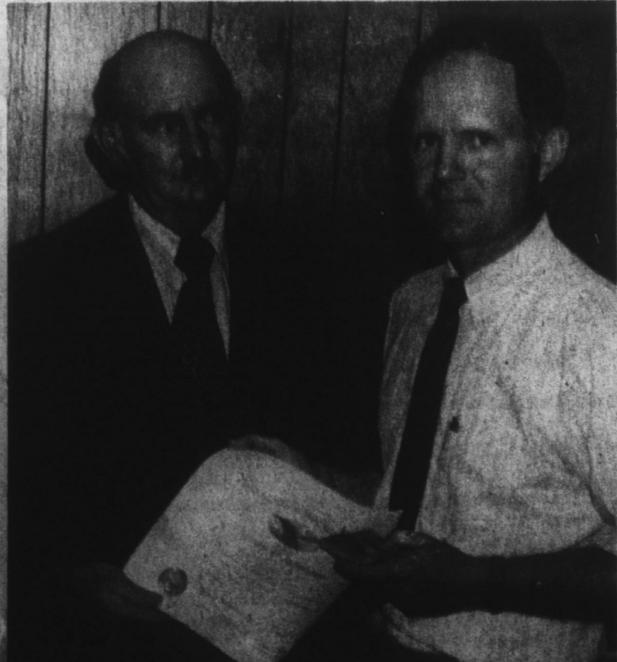

But more importantly, it will allow the state to operate on a more realistic budget, as well as insure better legislation—or the lack of much bad legislation.

If the state had been operating with an annual budget, there would not be nearly $300-million in surplus funds at the end of the current biennium. This money would have been put to use long ago where it would benefit the citizens.

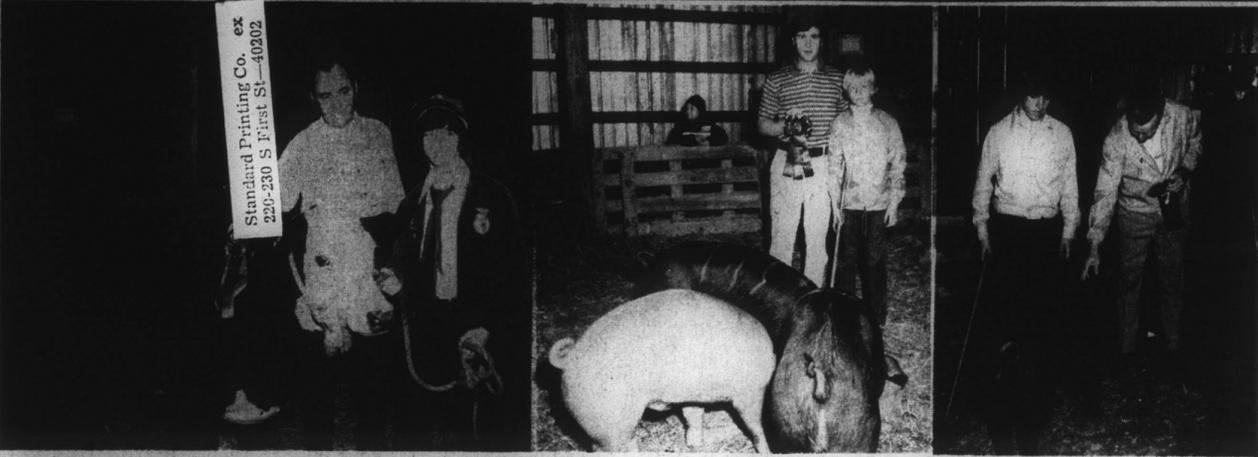

In past sessions, legislators have grown weary at the tail end of a lengthy sojourn in Raleigh, letting bad legislation be enacted. It then takes two years or a Supreme Court ruling on the constitutionality of the issue before anything can be done.

A case in point could be the act relating to management of the

Draft Board Cites Doctor

Dr. Edward G. Bond of Edenton has received the Selective Service System Meritorious Service Award, with its certificate, medal and lapel button as a symbol of appreciation "from a grateful nation for the services" he rendered as medical advisor to Local Board No. 21.

O. C. Long, Jr., chairman of the local board, made the presentation this week. "It is indeed a pleasure for me to represent the State Director of Social Service, the Governor of the State of North Carolina, and the President of the United States in thanking you for your unselfish services to your community and nation while serving as medical advisor," Long told the recipient.

The services of medical advisors in each county is no longer necessary, Long pointed out, due to the consolidation of local boards.

The same time, Long and Jay W. Dillon, chairman of Local Board No. 73, Perquimans County, announced that the local boards will move from their present location on Church Street in Hertford to The Federal Building in Elizabeth City.

"The move of the local board office was effective Wednesday the chairman said, "and registrants who desire to visit the local board office should now contact the office personnel at the new location." Dillon and Long further stated that the office hours at the new location will be from 8:15 A.M. until 5:15 P.M., Monday

BEAR FACTS—Although born blind, with no teeth and only nine inches long, this black bear in less than eight weeks has matured into a lively creature being nursed back to good health by Police Chief J. D. Parrish. Lindsey Everett, wildlife area supervisor, wrestles playfully with the cub which was deserted by her mother in Washington County. Everett said the cub will never be kept in captivity, but will be turned into a wildlife sanctuary when she is able to shift for herself.

New Refuse Plan Nears

Within a few weeks the long-awaited joint Chowan-Perquimans solid waste disposal program will become a reality. The three major pieces of equipment—tractor-compact, refuse-collector truck, and 80 four cubic yard containers—are expected from their respective manufacturers.

When the equipment is received and the containers placed, 40 in each county, the program will get underway. The landfill site is near Cisco.

Chowan and Perquimans commissioners, Farmers Home Administration, Chowan County Planning Board, and others have spent much time and effort in reaching agreements for a landfill site, drawing up equipment specification, locating container sites, etc.

"The primary purpose of the solid waste disposal program is to protect the clean and aesthetically pleasing environment of the two counties," a spokesman stated. "Both counties are dedicated to this project and are actively seeking the cooperation of all citizens to insure its success."

A few guidelines for the use of the containers has been established for the program. They include:

Deposit household waste only.

All refuse shall be placed inside the container; not alongside.

Bulky items such as appliances, tree linnbs, furniture, etc., shall be transported to the landfill, located on Secondary Road 1303.

Explosives or other dangerous material shall not be placed in the containers.

People with questions regarding the solid waste program can contact members of the county commissioners, Dallas Jethro, county coordinator, or members of the planning board. Planning board members are: George W. Lewis, chairman, T. D. Berryman, Jr., A. C. Hudson, Woodrow Lowe, Charles Overman, Wilbur J. Privott, J. A. Webb, Jr., and Pete Thompson, ex officio.
