A Smile

A smile is a sign that tells you Of a power greater than love: A smile is an added enjoyment Sent from heaven above. A smile is an angel of goodness That lurks in the shadows of thought; It's never to be forgotten And always a thing to be sought. A smile should always follow you Everywhere to the end, So keep that smile forever... And forever you'll keep a friend.

Association Changes Name

The Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association changed its name to Eastern Lung Association effective April 26.

The name change conforms with a move by the national association, which has changed its name to American Lung Association, and by the state association, now the N. C. Lung Association. Both were "tuberculosis and respiratory disease" associations.

Rowland Pruette, president of the Eastern Lung Association, said shortening of the agency's name will make it easier for the public and groups to identify with the agency and its work. He emphasized the change is in name only. "The goal of the association remains the same: the prevention and control of lung diseases. We will continue to appeal to the public to support our important work through the annual Christmas Seal campaign."

Under the leadership of Dr. Joe Pou, 1972 Christmas Seal Chairman, $91,987.60 was contributed in the Eastern Lung Association's 22 county area. Of this amount, total contributions from Chowan is $2,120.00.

May 31, 1974, is crucial date for most Post-Korean veterans who haven't started using their GI Bill education benefits.

That's the date their benefits expire, and H. W. Johnson, director of the Winston-Salem Veterans Administration Regional Office, points out that unless they begin training soon, they could lose part or all of their benefits.

The deadline reminder applies to post-Korean veterans discharged from military service between January 31, 1955, and June 1, 1966. Benefits for these veterans were not authorized until enactment of the current GI Bill on June 1, 1966; thus, they must complete training within eight years of release or by the May 31, 1974, deadline, whichever is later.

The deadline does not apply to veterans interested in flight training, apprenticeship and on-job and farm cooperative training, however. These particular veterans have until August 30, 1975, or eight years after discharge, whichever is later, to complete training. This is because these training programs were not available until October, 1967, Johnson explained.

More than two million veterans are expected to train under the GI Bill during the current fiscal year. Enrollment in October totaled 1.2-million, 17 per cent higher than October a year ago.

Johnson said recent increases in training allowances will encourage more persons to enter VA training programs, and enable many already training to continue their programs.

New rates start at $220 monthly for single trainees going to school full time under the GI Bill. Those with one dependent get $261 monthly; those with two dependents, $298, and they receive $18 for each dependent.

Rates for GI Bill apprenticeship and other on-job training begin at $160 monthly for single trainees. Those with one dependent receive $179 monthly; those with two dependents, $196, plus $8 for each additional dependent.

Eligible wives, widows and children going to school full time under VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance Program are now entitled to $220 monthly.

Johnson urged eligible persons interested in educational benefits, especially veterans whose benefits expire in May, 1974, to contact any of its offices, local representatives of veterans service organizations.

The Bicentennial of the American Revolution is "anything that improves the quality of life," according to the North Carolina American Revolution Bicentennial Commission director.

More than 450 representatives from all kinds of North Carolina organizations gathered in Raleigh for a statewide meeting Thursday to hear bicentennial directors from Florida and Oklahoma, as well as North Carolina, explain their plans.

At the Sir Walter Hotel the Governor's Conference on Bicentennial Planning began with introductory remarks by Mrs. Dabney Enderle, director of the North Carolina American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. She then introduced Gov. James E. Holsinger who called upon all North Carolinians to do their part. "It will succeed or fail at the local level," the Governor warned.

Highlight of the day-long meeting was the address of Miss Agnes DeMille, famous American dancer, who has been active in the American Heritage Dance Theater in Winston-Salem. The well-known personality made an impassioned plea for more support of the performing arts.

"Art is magic; magic religion and we can't live without it!" she declared. "It's creativity and sensitivity -- art is beauty and a part of everything. Reverently she spoke of art as even 'life itself.'"

Miss DeMille explained that art in all forms develops a concern for something outside ourselves -- we are able to develop our talent and potential far beyond what we might be -- devoid of art. Art creates in us a respect for others, for other cultures. As she continued, the dancer emphasized that art even develops integrity -- we are uplifted! It creates a discipline which might prevent Watergates!

Miss DeMille went on to compare the various expenditures of the United States and other countries such as Russia, whose dancers and artists -- past and present -- are revered.

Regional director of the national ARBC, Michael T. Swinehart of Atlanta, mentioned briefly several projects planned for other parts of the country.

Oklahoma's planning for the commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the Revolution involves young people and health care for everyone, according to the chairman director Mrs. Gladys Warren. She also spoke of the influx of visitors expected during the focal year, 1976, and their hopes that Oklahoma citizens would have a reservoir of people to speak the languages of the visitors.

Florida's plans are well along, with the "Pensacola Plan" an example of "people participation." Pat Dodson, Pensacola Plan chairman explained. The Pensacola Plan entitled "Action '76" hopes to involve everyone in the city in its operation.

Outlining plans nearer home, Director Milton Rhodes discussed Forsyth County's bicentennial plans, which will include marking the several firsts in Winston-Salem, among them the first July 4 celebration by legislative enactment, and also that Winston-Salem's Bicentennial Committee is the only one which is operated by and through a local arts council. He also pointed out that the city will be able to take advantage of bicentennial plans of Old Salem which held its own bicentennial celebration in 1966.

"Quality '76" is the Buncombe County bicentennial goal, according to the chairman, Hugh E. Gentry. He described plans for Asheville and the surrounding area for the bicentennial which will be concerned with beautification and cleanup campaigns, as well as improving "the quality of life" for all.

Whatever their own community's needs and desires, participants in the Governor's Conference on Bicentennial Planning went home with ideas and inspiration to forge ahead with the state bicentennial commission slogan "North Carolina '76 and forward!"

The Veterans Administration recently opened its first specialized hospital unit for stroke victims and the agency is conducting an intensive medical research attack on strokes, heart disease, cancer, and emphysema.
