

Men Involved In Airport Inventory

RALEIGH — Bob Walden and John Brantley are taking inventory.

So far they haven't counted anything in a stock room, but they have run into people who want to know what they're doing.

Walden and Brantley are taking an inventory of North Carolina airports. That sounds easy. You'd think you could count Douglas in Charlotte, Raleigh-Durham, Asheville-Hendersonville and so on. Those are just the easy ones.

The idea for the two-year plan which will use the inventory, is to learn the means for developing a balanced system of airports and the role of each of these airports to meet the needs of all civil aviation segments in North Carolina.

There were 17-million domestic passengers on scheduled airlines in 1950. By 1971, there was 156-million. General aviation accounted for 13-million hours in 1960. That had grown to 26-million hours in 1971.

The technical work of the plan is being done by the Department of Transportation with Research Triangle Institute and Aviation Systems. The plan is part of the implementation of the federal Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970.

Fish Fry Money Raised

The Edenton-Chowan Rescue Squads and the Edenton National Guard sponsored a benefit fish fry on June 23 for the Howard Hughes family. The benefit raised $2,667.29 for the family.

The sponsors greatly appreciate all efforts of those involved, as well as the patience shown on the part of many who had to stand in line for quite a while.
